Moynihan Holds Big Lead over Buckley

NEW YORK (UPI) — An independent statewide poll says Democratic challenger Daniel Moynihan has a healthy 13point lead over Sen. James Buckley.

According to the poll commissioned by the Long Island newspaper Newsday and the Rochester, N.Y., based Gannett Newspaper chain, Moynihan led Conservative Republican Buckley 52-39 per cent.

The telephone survey of 2,399 persons was conducted by Research Analysis Corp. of Boston between Sept. 15 and 20, following the Democratic and GOP primaries.

Nine per cent of those interviewed for the poll, published in Sunday's edition of Newsday, said they were undecided.

While the former U.N. ambassador's 13-point spread may have been partly due to the publicity generated by his Sept. 14 primary victory over Rep. Bella Abzug, there was no way to accurately measure this.

Newsday and Gannett have commissioned two more polls to be conducted before the Nov. 2 election.

Moynihan held a 64 per cent to 27 per cent lead in New York City and was ahead by 49-41 in the suburbs of Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester and Rockland Counties, according to the survey. Buckley held a 47-44 edge upstate.

The poll showed Moynihan leading among all age groups and income categories, among both men and women and among blacks and whites.

During Saturday's campaigning, Moynihan criticized Buckley as "a man who consistently and massively and only says 'no' to the tradition of decent liberalism that New York State has always stood for."

Moynihan's speech to about 200 persons at a luncheon in Olean for 39th District Democratic Congressman Stanley Lundine was billed by his office as "the broadest attack yet" upon Buckley in the race which began peacefully but has heated up in the last week.

Buckley spent the day campaigning upstate while his campaign manager, Leonard Saffir, released a letter he had sent to all television stations in the state asking them to set up debates between the two candidates.

ALL BETS ARE OFF

Ulster County residents who were expecting Off Track Betting parlors to open today will just have to wait. Donald Groth, president of Catskill Region OTB, says the Mammoth Mall parlor in the Town of Ulster and the parlor in New Paltz at the Shoprite Plaza won't open for an "indefinite" period due to problems with New York Telephone Co. installing a communications system. In New Paltz, at least, it looks like OTB needs more than some direct dial extensions to get in the running. This morning, Rondout Electric employe Mickey Orphan had the place pretty much to himself as he worked on the parlor's wiring system.

Court House Heat Will Go On

Union Lets Workers Pass

KINGSTON — The heat's on in the county Court House — or at least it will be in about two days.

Building and Construction superintendent Kennth J. Whispell said this morning that the anticipated freeze of judicial proceedings because of a union work slowdown in the building's heating cooling tower has just about melted into thin air.

Sheet Metal Workers Local 38 has agreed to walk its informational picket line in front of only one gate of the Court House-County Jail renovation site, leaving members of other, sympathetic unions free to enter for work by another gate.

"It appears that under state law a union can only picket the gate being used by the contractor they have a grievance against," explained Whispell.

In this case the local is protesting against a subcontractor on the job, Ahead Construction, which is a non-union shop. Ahead has already agreed to hire union sheet-metal workers to complete the cooling tower job, but Local 38 wants a union foreman on the job as well.

Members of other unions working on the building had been participating in an unauthorized slowdown by honoring the picket line.

"Everyone has returned to work now," commented Whispell, who had been concerned about the onset of cold weather before iron workers could complete building the frame of the essential cooling tower.

The tower is located on the roof of a connecting lobby between the Court House and the old jail.

The entire court house porject includes the renovation of the exisiting building as well as changes to the adjacent jail which will now be used for additional court rooms and a library, among other things.

Civil Service Fix Ready

KINGSTON — The Ulster county Civil Service Commission meets Tuesday afternoon to approve a final plan of action aimed at correcting inadquecies in local administration.

The commission is coming in just under the wire of an October 1 deadline laid down by the state Civil Service agency. That body issues issued a strongly worded July 16 report of Ulster that evaluated its program as generally poor and declining from a "fair" rating issued in 1973.

Since that time the county commission has been actively pursuing a corrective course toward improving its administration of personnel placement, salaries and job examination.

Part of that process included the approval of a personnel technician position for the agency by the county legislature in August.

Applications for an exam to fill the partially state-funded job are now being taken by the commission.

The lengthy and specific state report which prompted this local action included criticism of failure to perform evaluations of competitive exempt positions; listing a number of employes as part time when their paychecks exceeded the salary limits for such categories; improper authorization of non-competitive promotion exams and a variety of discrepencies in salary within the same towns, departments and categories.

The commission will give the nod to their two-month in the making corrective at plan at 2:30 p.m. in the county office building.

Charles Kelly Plans Retirement

KINGSTON — Charles J. Kelly, a plumber with a long and colorful career, has informed Mayor Francis R. Koenig he will retire Oct. 29 as city plumbing inspector.

In the plumbing and heating trades for 52 years, Kelly was named plumbing inspector in January, 1960, by Mayor Edwin F. Radel.

Kelly started his plumbing career with the late Frederick Dressel in 1924, when one of his first jobs was the installation of gas lights in a Green Street residence.

There were no power tools in those early days, Kelly recalled, and most of the work was done by hand. He especially remembered rooting out clogged sewers with a hand cable.

"This was a dirty, smelly job, and we all chewed tobacco to ward off catching any disease," Kelly said, recalling that his brand of chew was Mullins Higgensville Hay.

Plumbers candles were used for light when working in dark areas, and soldering irons were heated in glowing charcoal pots.

During the Prohibition Era, plumbers were sometimes called out on "undercover work" — installing copper in the numerous apple jack stills that flourished in the area.

"The pay for this work was good, but we were sworn to secrecy — or else," Kelly said.

Kelly received his master plumber's license in 1936 and ran his own plumbing and heating business until 1942, when he entered the U.S. Air Force for assignment to the Transport Command, North Atlantic Wing.

From 1944 to 1960, he was a member and officer of Plumbers Local Union 223, serving as vice president, recording secretary and executive board chairman, and as delegate to the Ulster County Building Trades Council.

He was foreman for the local on a number of large jobs in the area, including the IBM plant, Benedictine Hospital and New Paltz College.

In 1953, Kelly was licensed by the state to teach plumbing and heating in adult education courses at Kingston High School, BOCES and Public School No. 4.

A Kingston native, Kelly is past vice president and treasurer of the Democratic Men's Club, a 30-year American legion member, past treasurer and recording secretary of Excelsior Hose Co., a mem-

SS Checks Arrive on Friday

KINGSTON — Social Security checks, normally delivered on the third of each month to Ulster County recipients, will be delivered Friday, Oct. 1, instead.

George Habernig, district manager of the Kingston Social Security office, said the early delivery this week was because of a change in delivery policy.

Social Security checks will now be delivered on a Friday whenever the third of the month falls on a Saturday or Sunday. The same schedule will apply to beneficiaries who have their Social Security checks deposited directly in a bank or other financial insitution.

According to Habernig, almost 3,000 beneficiaries are using the direct deposit service locally.

Before the new Friday delivery policy was initiatied, checks were delivered on Saturday when Saturday was the third of the month, but many people had to wait until Monday to cash their checks.

"We'll be back to the regular third of the month delivery date in November, since that day falls in the middle of the week," Habernig said.

Democrats Issue Gloomy Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a report issued Saturday, 12 Democrats on the Congressional Joint Economic Committee took a gloomy view of the future of the economy and called for government action to create jobs.

The majority of Republicans, on the other hand, urged the government not to meddle with the economy. They took an optimistic view in reasserting "confidence in the economic recovery and faith in the free market system."

Census Says Poor In U.S. Growing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Bureau says the number of poor people in the United States increased by a dramatic 2.5 million in 1975, a sharp percentage increase from 11.3 per cent of the population in 1974 to 12.3 per cent last year.

The bureau, in its annual income report released this weekend, said 25.88 million persons in America had incomes below the poverty line of $5,500 last year. Only 14.1 per cent of all families had incomes above $25,000.

Corsicans Fighting Against French Rule

CORTE, Corsica (UPI) — Anti-French feeling on Corsica erupted into violence Sunday and a French Foreign Legion soldier was hit by a burst of gunfire as he drove his Jeep past a roadblock formed by townspeople demanding withdrawal of all Foreign Legion units from their island. The soldier was reported in satisfactory condition.

There also was a plastic bomb attack on the home of the Legion commander, causing only minor damage. No arrests were made.

Ailing Wine Industry Is Promised Boost

PENN YAN, N.Y. (UPI) — New York State plans an all-out effort to bolster its ailing wine industry, according to Lt. Gov. Mary Ann Krupsak.

Speaking Sunday at the annual Finger Lakes Grape Festival in this Yates County community, Miss Krupsak said state officials are "working on promotions and marketing" to "expand people's awareness" of New York wines.

"More and more people should know about New York State wines and we are going to do something about it," she added.

Miss Krupsak spent the weekend touring wineries throughout the state.

For the second straight year, New York's grape growers face a gloomy fall harvest of low prices and sales. Many wineries in the state still have large juice supplies left over from last year and can buy only limited quantities of grapes this year at low prices.

Miss Krupsak called for short-term licenses for selling wines, wines sales in grocery stores and higher taxes on imported wines.

"We plan on introducing state legislation for some of these changes and we need to get together with our congressional delegation for federal action," she said. She also urged people to buy domestic, rather than foreign, wines.

At one point, Miss Krupsak donned firemen's boots and jumped into a vat of Concord grapes for her first try at grape stomping.

MIAMI (UPI) — Reporters with President Ford's weekend motorcade in the Gulf Coast looked into the White House limousine and nudged each other.

In the back seat lay two familiar gold-colored towels. The press and the President used the same hotel (Hyatt Regency) in New Orleans Saturday night and the towels spotted in the limousine Sunday were from that hostelry.

The President had good use for the towels. It was so hot in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama that hundreds of the thousands of the men at roadside were shirtless. And Ford sweated so much he changed shirts four times during the tristate motorcade.

Government Issuing Ghost Guide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is publishing a new guidebook — for vacationers interested in exploring abandoned mines and ghost towns.

The booklet, entitled "Mining and Mineral Operations in the Pacific States: A Visitor Guide," is the first in a series of six, which will cover various regions of the country.

According to an announcement from the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines Sunday, "The colorful, illustrated booklet identifies many historic and modern sites associated with minerals or mineral production in California, Oregon, Washington and Alaska and Hawaii."

Describing ghost towns, abandoned mining camps and mines of the past and present, the series will "be an aid to state and local officials, Chambers of Commerce and mining firms in answering some of the questions of tourists and students," it said.

Cardinal Cooke Reaffirms Abortion Stand

Catholic Church Said Only Politically Neutral

NEW YORK (UPI) — Terence Cardinal Cooke, in a rare address from the pulpit of St. Patrick's Cathedral, told Roman Catholics Sunday that their church is neutral politically but not morally — particularly where abortion is concerned.

The head of the 1.8-million-member Archdiocese of New York emphasized that "the church is not endorsing or approving" any political candidate in this election year.

"However, it is also true that the church is not neutral with regard to basic human rights and especially the right to life of the unborn child," he told members of the Guild of Catholic Lawyers and others attending the annual Red Mass for members of the judiciary. The ceremony is named after the red robes judges wore in the middle ages.

Calling abortion "the killing of a child," Cardinal Cooke, chairman of the Bishops' Committee for Pro-Life Affairs, expressed support for an amendment to the Constitution providing protection for the unborn.

"The American people cannot afford to be silent when more than one million unborn babies are destroyed each year," he said.

The cardinal refused to meet with reporters following the service. But, Msgr. Eugene V. Clark, spokesman for the archdiocese, said Cardinal Cooke decided to give his address "because commentators have been talking about the church entering politics, which it hasn't."

Monsignor Clark said the church would "never lean" toward one candidate or party "but abortion is evil and we must put pressure on all candidates to see the enactment of this amendment." He refused to say what form the "pressure" might take.

The Republican platform calls for a constitutional amendment on the rights of the unborn; the Democrats say such an amendment would not be appropriate.

However, William vanden Heuvel, co-chairman of the New York Citizens for Carter, said that as a Catholic and on the basis of Cardinal Cooke's guidelines, he would "vote for Jimmy Carter," who has said he personally does not approve of abortion, but feels it is an individual right.

Rep. Edward I. Koch, D,L-N.Y., who attended the mass, said he applauded the cardinal's message.

The Jewish congressman, who supports the U.S. Supreme Court decision permitting abortion, said Cardinal Cooke has "stated the positon of the church in a way that is acceptable to everyone."

"My morality must decide what I do, or I'm not a moral man," he said.

Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., also praised the address. "There's no question the cardinal made the position of the church quite clear — neutrality."

Biaggi lauded the cardinal's call for a constitutional amendment, saying it would be the "only way all the people of America will have an opportunity to express their views on this very important issue. I can't understand why Congress isn't allowing this for the people of America."

Wheelchair Titlist

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Five years ago, William Barry sat crying while he watched the Miss America Pageant on television.

"If only my daughter could walk, she'd be Miss America," he said at the time.

Saturday night, the Barry cried again, but this time it was for joy as he watched his daughter, Beverly Marie Chapman, being crowned Miss Wheelchair America, a title first bestowed in 1972.

A science research secretarial assistant from Orlando, Fla., Miss Chapman was chosen from a field of 32 pageant entries from the United States, Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic.

The other finalists were Mae Frances De Clue of Atlanta; Shelia Gilbert, a student at Auburn University; Susan M. Stephenson, a University of Montana student; and Crescencia "Ging" Knudson of Mesa, Ariz.

Patricia K. Simonds of Spencer, W.Va., was picked by the other contestants as Miss Congeniality.

Frozen Yogurt: Biggest Hit Since The Banana Split

By UPI

To Europeans, who have been wolfing down yogurt for 2,000 years, the thought of freezing it is revolting, but to more and more Americans, the new confection is the greatest innovation since the banana split.

Along the Eastern Seaboard, frozen yogurt stands are springing up like toadstools after a rainstorm, offering a new spur for the jaded palate and for weight-watchers, since yogurt contains about 57 per cent fewer calories than ice cream.

But frozen yogurt's success story is no instant epic. Actually, it might be called a tale of two yogurts — one that boomed and one that bombed. The boomer was born in 1972 in Boston's Harvard Square. The bomber came to light in the same year when a Los Angeles salesman needed something to fill the paper cylinders he was trying to market.

Alan J. Phillips, then of Boston, now of Los Angeles, was the man who bore the first standard for the new confection in the East.

"It was one uphill battle," he said. "We couldn't give the stuff away. In fact, we did give the machines away, so we could sell the mix."

Phillips' "mix" was the brainchild of Walter Simonson, of Boston. He was the first to come up with the idea of running yogurt through a soft ice cream machine for service in a cone. Harvard students loved it, but they were alone.

Phillips, who agreed to tackle the distribution problem for H.P. Hood Dairy Co., of which Simonson then was an employe, hit his first pay dirt in a most unlikely marketplace — New York City's fashionable Bloomingdale's department store.

Bloomingdale customers devoured the first 2,400 gallons of mix in two hours . . .

Bloomingdale's was opening a new boutique and wanted a small health food bar "just for atmosphere." Phillips convinced them the new concoction was the promotion they needed.

Bloomingdale customers devoured the first 2,400 gallons of mix in two hours and the store called for more.

"They kept sending for so much more I sent a guy over to see what was going wrong because I thought the equipment was leaking or they were throwing it away by mistake or something," said Phillips. "They weren't. It was selling like crazy and it's been doing that ever since."

The West Coast variety — frozen solid and impaled on a stick within a paper cylinder like a popsicle — has enjoyed no such acclaim.

"We started out using them to make sherbert push-ups," said John Gosney, marketing vice president for Knudson's, southern California's largest yogurt producer. "They didn't sell very well, and the guy, who made the tubes (a company salesman), suggested we try yogurt."

Gosney said the yogurt popsicles have seen a "steady but modest" increase in sales at supermarkets, but he admitted the record has been far from spectacular.

In Europe, consumers never heard of frozen yogurt. In fact, they don't even want to discuss it.

Europeans eat, drink and bake yogurt. They put it on rice, stir it into meat sauce, use it for salad dressing and prescribe it for stomach ailments and great longevity.

But freeze it?

"How revolting," said one Londoner when the issue was explained.

"Gelato (ice cream) is king of the cones," was the report from Rome.

And from Moscow, with a shudder: "Can you imagine frozen yogurt in a Russian winter?"

House Moves to Expell Hinshaw

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is adjournment week for Congress, barring unforeseen delays, and members face a busy five days with votes expected on foreign aid, possible veto overrides and a move in the House to expel one member.

The House, joining the Senate in the drive for final adjournment of the 94th Congress by Oct. 2, set as its final business Friday a vote on whether to expel Rep. Andrew Hinshaw, RCalif., because of his conviction for taking bribes while he was the Orange county (Calif.) tax assessor.

Rep. Charles Wiggins, RCalif., drafted the expulsion resolution which, if passed on a simple majority vote, would be the first such action since 1967 when Adam Clayton Powell was thrown out of the House for misuse of committee funds.

Before the Hinshaw matter at week's end, the House planned to take up the foreign aid appropriations measure, which totals $5.1 billion for the 1977 fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

As a contingency, a resolution that would continue funding at last year's level until March, 1977, of any program not getting its 1977 appropriations will be brought up after the foreign aid measure.

This so-called "continuing resolution," also would be in place if Congress fails to override President Ford's expected veto of the big LaborHealth, Education and Welfare money bill now on his desk.

Ford may also decide this week about signing the massive tax revision bill, a $3.7 billion public works employment appropriations measure and a one-year extension of the public service jobs program.

National Search On For School Super

BOICEVILLE — The Onteora Central School District will conduct a nationwide search for a replacement for Superintendent Frank M. Marlow.

Dr. William Phelan, former district superintendent of schools in Suffolk County, and Dr. Fred Ambellan, former superintendent in several New York State school districts, will conduct the search under the auspices of Guidslinez, an executive search firm for schools and industry.

The two men plan a series of sessions with the board of education and will also meet with various Onteora civic groups, including PTA's, the Booster Club, Onteora Citizens Committee, Onteora Teachers Association, and various others.

The meetings will help bring into focus the kind of person needed for the job, the community's advantages and priority problems, strengths and weaknesses of local school programs and concerns which face the district's educational staff, officals said.

The consultants will prepare an announcement describing the district and community and outlining desired qualifications and esssntial abilitiss needed in a new chief school administrator. Copies will be sent to university placement officials, selected State Education Department officials and foundation heads, and to leaders of major administrative associations, inviting them to nominate outstanding candidates.

The search team will narrow the field to a panel of about five candidates and the board will schedule visits and interviews with them. Hopefully the process will be completed by Jan. 15.

"The process is designed to bring to the school district a chief administrator selected upon merit, who is clearly the most outstdnding, highly skilled and successful superintendent for the Onteora school district," a spokesman said.

Marlow, dismissed earlier in the year by the board but reinstated by an order of the Commissioner of Education, will leave the superintendent's post June 30.

Woodstockers Demand Rezoning

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Freeman staff

WOODSTOCK — There is not a single trailer park in all of Woodstock's seven sprawling hamlets. And according to town clerk Marjorie Harder, "Only four or five individual house trailers in the entire township have received trailer permit renewals."

Neither of those facts have deterred two long-time local residents, Frank and Kiki Minervini, from continuing their push to construct a trailer park on their Route 212 property between the Art Students League campus and the Zena Road.

Their application to build Woodstock's first park for mobile homes was denied by both the Ulster County Planning Board and the Woodstock Zoning Board of Appeals. The proposal violated the density requirements of the local zoning ordinance, both boards maintained.

The united front against their attempt to seek a variance of the ordinance to rezone their land for mobile homes has led to an entirely new tactic on their part. Since the more than six acres involved is now zoned Residential-Agricultural, allowing one building unit on two acres, the Minervinis have just applied for Residential zoning, allowing one unit on three-fourths acre.

They argue that the agricultural classification is a misnomer. "You couldn't even grow a tomato here," they said. "Our property has never been used for farming. There was a time when quarrymen lived here and worked the bluestone banks near the house. So, it's in keeping that we be zoned residential, but it's not just that we be zoned agricultural."

The Minervinis want to put six trailers on more than seven acres of land where two permanent houses already exist. The planning and zoning boards contend that constitutes overcrowding on property zoned for two-acre housing in a town where three-acre housing is not unusual.

Not so, insisted the Minervinis, pointing out that the two closest houses to the east and west of their home are both located on less than one acre of land.

"We ask the same rights as our neighbors," they said. "Their under-an-acre homes are more easily salable than our property which should bs rezoned into smaller parcels. The purchase price of two acres is difficult for many people. Offering the easier purchase of three-fourths acre is in keeping with federal and state law that a town must provide low income housing, which Woodstock does not.

Does the new tack mean they've given up their trailer park plans?

"Not necessarily," said Mrs. Minervini. "But, if we must abandon the trailer park, we can at least sell our land more easily to help pay our taxes. And, if we don't get three-fourths acre rezoning for residential use, there's always the possibility of raising 250 pigs, or 300 sheep, or training 150 dogs on our agricultural property. A lot of people would probably prefer a few trailers to that prospect."

The Minervinis see still another option open to them. If they are refused residential rezoning to three-fourths acre, they could reapply for a zoning change to commercial. After all, they pointed out, the town board recently rezoned six acres of property owned by developer Richie Mellert in Zena from residential to commercial.

"Every time get turned down, said Mrs. Minervini, "we feel it's another weapon in our hands. It would seem to prove prejudice, to my way of thinking, if Mellert was permitted to build four stores on six acres, when all we want is six trailers on the same amount of land."

The town board has avoided the issue by forwarding the new Minervini request to the planning board, where it could be stalled for months in another round of hearings.

IDA Names Are Filed For State

KINGSTON — The five men appointed by the county legislature to serve on the newly established Ulster county Industrial Development Agency now have their names formally filed with the New York Department of State.

Legislative chaiman Peter J. Savago, R. Dist.8, submitted the list of names approved at the September 9 meeting.

Chairman of IDA, which has independent powers, including the right to float bond issues and enter the county into development agreements, is Kingston resident Alfred J. Ford.

Ford is a resident manager of First Albany Corp., a local banking and brokerage firm, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee and director of the Kingston Industrial Development Corp.

Other members of the agency include Robert S. Russel, who is a member of the Hudson Regional Loan Committee of the New York Business Development Corp. Russel is a Saugerties industrialist and banker.

Gordon Kreth is a new Paltz real estate broker and member of the Ulster County Board of Realtors.

Also serving at the pleasure of the legislature is Joseph Russo of Milton, a fruit grower and owner of an apple storags facility. Russo is an administrator of the Valley Growers Inc., a labor cooperative and is active in the agricultural field.

And Meyer Rogenbogen, an Ellenville banker and certified public accountant who is a member of the Regional Loan Committee of the New York Business Deveolpment Corp.

Woodstock Budget Ready For Airing and Cutting

WOODSTOCK — Presentation of Woodstock's preliminary budget for 1977 had been delayed pending action by area lawmakers on a possible takeover of home relief costs of towns by the county.

"There was a long delay on the county's part," said supervisor Val Cadden, "and we to see what the legislature would do about welfare before preparing our budget. We also wanted lots of feedback from the public on our welfare problem and its impact on ths budget ."

Woodstock now has both. The legislature on Thursday night voted down a resolution that would have turned administration of home relief over to the county. And Woodstock residents have contributed some input to the town board at informational discussions and in local newspapers.

The preliminary budget is being readied for presentation Oct. 5 at 8 p.m. in town hall. "It's an uncut budget only," explained Cadden, "based on what each department has asked for. We're submitting it to the public before going into adjusting and cutting."

The supervisor, who also serves as unpaid welfare officer of the town, faces a problem on that department's budget. She has projected Woodstock's welfare costs for next year at between $200,000 and $300,000. The town collected only $319,000 in taxes last year, and a minimum home relief budget of $200,000 in 1977 would immediately increase by $100,000.

Other economic concerns are also up for discussion currently in Woodstock. The supervisor noted that a meeting of the Economic Development Committee will be held Oct. 4 at 8 p.m. in Town Hall.

The recently formed group was given the task of creating employment opportunities in the art colony, where jobs are few and far between.

Money matters, too, will play a part in a discussion between the Woodstock and Shandaken town boards. Cadden said Shandaken wants to be a "partner" in Woodstock's landfill. Town officials will meet this Tuesday night with Department of Environmental Conservation reprssentatives to discuss the possibility of both communities sharing one landfill. And, said Cadden, "With our budget problems, we may want to consider the partnership, since our dump is in good shape."

Free Choice on Abortions

Dear Editor:

Concerning Eleanor Kurtz's reply to your editorial on abortion, she said, and I quote, "First, I fail to understand how the Supreme Court, presided over by nine men can have the power to decide who lives or dies."

Mrs. Kurtz, they do NOT have the power to decide. They gave THAT choice to the pregnant woman and I would like to repeat again what I wrote to the editor of the Freeman years ago in answer then to a member of the "Right to Life" organization. I personally want to thank the Supreme Court for giving me the right to make the decision as to whether to have an abortion or not. I am the mother of three children and fortunately have never had the need for an abortion, but as a human being, I certainly have understanding and compassion to those that must make that decision.

Of your virility we're all certain,
It's nice to know the big White House
Will never draw a curtain

Should you win this fall's election.
How can you lose - a man like you
With such staunch and firm e———?

Your pledge to always "tell and show"

Save Me A Cell in Jail

Dear Editor:'

As a heavy taxpayer of Ulster County, I would like to make a request!

If some of the demands by inmates are met, please reserve me a room for two at the Ulster County "Hotel."

Do people realize that working people do not have an hour a day recreation and most that are raising a family cannot afford GOOD magazines all the time much less Penthouse, etc. Also, I would like more "contact visits" with my husband. We have no privacy with these kids around.

I'm tired of getting up at 5:15 a.m. every day to get my family off and then go to work myself. I'd love to sleep past 6 a.m. too!

I'd like bigger portions of food and more variety also, but when things get tough, we have to grin and bear it with one thought in mind.

We have to cut back so our criminals can have better living. What the hell is wrong with our community?

Anti-McHugh Effort Well Funded

Dear Editor:

From a bulletin just received from the The National Committee for an Effective Congress (NCEC) signed by Senators Frank Church and Philip A. Hart it appears that there is to be a massive infusion of outside funds and interests to unseat Congressman McHugh and others in the forthcoming election.

This shocking document discloses that as of June 30, 1976, 11 organizations — most prominently the American Medical Association with over 3 million dollars— had committed over $200,000 apiece toward the overturning of elections in 75 congressional contests throughout the country. NCEC says that " already in a special election in Texas the national radical right and big business raised $350,000 to elect a new extremist Congressman — the most expensive campaign in Congressional history."

I believe in everybody's right to have his own say — -right, left, or middle — but I resent very much this kind of expensive, outside, underhanded interference, particularly when it's directed against our own Congressmn, Matt McHugh, who has done an especially good job in covering and representing this sprawling and difficult district.

Retarded Are Shortchanged

Dear Editor:

Another school year has rolled around, and again the Retarted children are on the bottom of the list. I am referring to the task force recommendations that the superintendants agreed to abide by. The two classes in the Rosendale building were promised to be re-located in a junior or senior high school for the 1976-77 school year. Again they are isolated from other children at the Rosendale building. Do you really feel this is fair to these children?

Just because they are retarded doesn't mean that they don't enjoy doing the things normal children enjoy. The two classes at the Marbletown school prove that our children have been accepted and they do interact with the other children. This has been a tremendous experience for all!

The isolation of the children at Rosendale School is like medieval times when people used to lock their retarded children in the attic. How much longer are you going to "lock our children in the attic?" They deserve better!

If they were normal children, you would have found room for them years ago. Again I say, why must we as parents of retarded children fight for the educational needs of our children when normal children are granted these services as part of their basic education?

We want two classrooms with other children in a junior or senior high school. We only want the standard services for our children that normal children get, plus the few extra services like speech therapy that some children need every day. We want them to be able to use the cafeteria with the normal children, which the two classes at Marbletown have not yet been allowed to do. We want them to have an art teacher. I really don't think that's too much to ask for.

Leroy V. Goodman, executive secretary for National Advisory Committee on Handicapped calls Public Law 94-142 a blockbuster. He states that "It opens the way for the nations schools to broaden their horizons, no longer focusing their operations soley on 'regular' students, but giving equal consideration to those with handicaps."

Gentlemen, would you please read this letter at your next BOCES board meeting. I would appreciate some answers so I can give some answers to the parents.

Finkle Allegations Unfair

Dear Editor:

In fairness to Harold E. Finkle and to set the record straight, I have a responsibility to reply to the recent letter from Bernie Singer in which he cited Harry Hoffman's criticism of Mr. Finkle's performance on the Catskill Study Commission.

As former chairman of the Study Commission, I read the letter with disbelief. The charge that Mr. Finkle's work on the Commission was not good just has to result from Mr. Singer and Mr. Hoffman not being sufficiently informed as the the facts.

Contrary to the accusation, Mr. Finkle was a top performer on the commission. He did his homework. He was exceptionally knowledgeable of the problems of the Catskill region. His numerous contributions to the commission's work were constructive, wise and forward-looking. His dedication was outstanding. As all of this is widely known throughout the Catskill region, I am distrssed that it has been so misrepresented in this instance.

I am sure that both Mr. Singer and Mr. Hoffman, upon reflection, will agree that the Catskill Study Commission did not go under due to the quality of its work— nor for Mr. Finkle's alleged deficiencies — but rather because of political failure in Albany to agree on who should be members of the successor commission it recommended.

It is both unfortunate and unfair that Mr. Finkle's strong record with the study commission be distorted in the heat of political contest.

Other People's Libidos

WASHINGTON - "Off the cuff, that's a very foolish thing for anyone to say," the Rev. George Docherty, pastor emeritus of Washington's New York Avenue Church, was quoted in The Washington Post when invited to discuss fellow clergyman Jimmy Carter's interpretation of the Commandment about adultery. "There is a distinction between witting lust and unwitting lust. It is not holier-than-thou to condemn another man for shacking down with another man's wife."

The only news here is that while Baptists and others customarily shack up, Presbyterians apparently shack down. It is a distinction in moral theology which may rival the terrible controversy which raged among the fourth century Fathers of the Church over whether the Homoiousians or the Homoousians were right. Since the two political parties are having such Sturm und Drang trying to find an issue on which they clearly disagree, the Rev. Mr. Docherty may havs saved the election from absolute meaninglessness by having come up with one.

In Rev. Carter's interview in Playboy, where he refused to come out in favor of depriving proven adulterers of their civil rights, he revealed himself to be an upshacker. At least he is quoted as refusing to condemn a man "who not only looks upon a woman with lust (i.e. ogles) but who leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock."

Ron Nessen, President Ford's media spokesperson, pointed out that Carter had hidden his upshackistic tendencies throughout the entire primary campaign. This is another example of Carter's fuzziness, Nessn indicated. When asked the President's position on the issue, Nessen said there would be no White House statement on the matter and directed reporters to examine Mr. Ford's long record on the question. Mr. Ford has long been considered a down-shacker, so that members of the White House press corps taken by surprise when the President said that if he ever caught Daddy's little girl Suzy shackin' up or down, "I'd protest in most vigorous way and I'd counsel her." It was not immediately clear whether Mr. Ford meant by counseling her that he'd send Henry Kissinger over on a shuttle to give her sex education or what.

There is a tumescent feeling in the Republican camp that the voting public will react very badly that Carter, a duly ordained peanut, would confess to concupiscence, hard breathing, dry mouth and hankering after. Carter didn't say in his Playboy interview if he's gone as far as fantazising, although Bob Dole told a convention of indicted grain dealers in Memphis that Carter's fantasies are so rich that he had no chance of balancing the budget. Carter's wife Rosalynn, told NBC news that she stands by her husband and considers Senator Dole's imputations to excessive fantisizing personally offensive and no credit to Dole, a divorced, recently remarried man. Carter's mother was quoted by the Associatied Press saying, "Outta here, you sex -crazed, Northern white trash reporter. The second Mrs. Dole also issued a statement saying she would stand by her husband although she refused to explain why.

It is known that Secretary of the Treasury William Simon is urging President Ford to widen his proposed anti-abortion amendment to bar pre- and extra-marital sex. By placing sex under the direct jurisdiction of the federal government, Simon argues, the ground will be cut out from under administration critics who're saying this is a crock topic which doesn't belong in a presidential campaign. Attorney General Levi is siding with Simon because he thinks if s------ (it's Carter's word and they printed on page one of the

A Fortune for Hitler's Architect

Crime does pay. A good example is Albert Speer. He is referred to as Adolf Hitler's "personal architect, confidant and protege; Reich Minister for Armaments and War Production, and second most powerful man in Nazi Germany."

He was convicted of war crimes at Nuremburg and escaped with his life. Lesser figures were hanged. But Speer, who kept Germamy well-armed after her cities were in ruins, who, let us concede, kept the war going, got 20 years in Spandau prison.

In the final months, it was Speer's tanks, Speer's jet fighters, Speer's long-range guns which kept killing Americans, British and Russians long after the Nazi war had been lost for Germany.

Speer served his time. He tended a garden in the prison yard. It was he who found a young prison employee, a Dutchman named Anton Vlaer, who would violate strict prison rules and sneak out anything the architect would write.

"Up to now," Speer writes, "I have operated on the assumption that in prison all I have to do is to survive; that I will not be able to accomplish anything meaningful until the 20 years are up. Now I am obsessed with the idea of using this time of confinement for writing a book of major importance..."

He wrote two. The Nazi armaments minister emerged from Spandau with his "Inside the Third Reich," which became a bestseller in several nations, and another one, "Spandau, The Secret Diaries." He didn't have a dime when he left prison, but he is now richer than when he worked for Hitler.

His American publisher alone (Macmillan) made him wealthy with book club royalties. Three times I have been to Berlin and never met a German who voted for Hitler. All Germans thought he looked like Charlie Chaplin.

Speer writes: "When I entered into close proximity to Hitler, and soon afterwards began seeing him every day, my relationship to him far more resembled that of an architect toward an admired patron than of a follower toward a political leader.... Today, after all that has happened, the once so familiar face of Hitler seems horrible to me."

Psnance is the only luxury a sinner can afford. Speer saw the banners demanding a final solution to the "Jewish problem," but the self-proclaimed intellectual thought of them as party slogans, not as masses of ovens and gas showerheads and thousands of Jews digging graves for millions of their wives and children.

In prison he worried about what his daughter Hilde would think of him. "What will she find harder to take: that I was Hitler's architect who not only built his palaces and halls of fame, but also provided the party rally decorations that gave him the backdrop for his acts of mass hypnosis; or that I was his Minister of Armaments, director of his war machinery and employer of an army of slaves?"

Those are small errors of judgment. Speer worries about important matters: "The American director has informed us that hs intends to have us taught basket-making. To our minds that is a discriminatory act and incompatible with the Nuremburg sentences. We were not sentenced to the penitentiary or to forced labor."

He violated the prison rules, writing on toilet paper, which is a crude commentary on his work, and smuggled it out. "But is it true," he wrote, "that Hitler was the great destructive force in my life? Sometimes it seems to me as though I also owed to him all the surges of vitality, dynamism, and imagination that gave me the sense that I was soaring up above the ground on which everyone else was condemned to stand.

"And what do I mean when I say he took away my good name? Would I have had any name at all but for him? Paradoxically, I might actually say that this is the one thing he did give me and never again will be able to take from me."

Remarkable. A man who kills one person is executed. A man whose genius provides machines which kill millions of men is spared to make a fortune writing books about it.

I forget what Albert Speer used to write his toilet paper books. It might have bsen a corkscrew....

A Break For The Tax Cheats

WASHINGTON — Over the stro protests of his own enforcement officia Internal Revenue Commissioner Dona Alexander last year struck a key questi off the income tax forms. The questio which simply asked the taxpayers whet er they maintained a foreign account, w intended to catch tax evaders.

Big-time criminals, from corporate er bezzlers to mobsters, use secret forei bank accounts to escape paying U. taxes. The taxes they avoid, of cours must be made up by the honest ta payers.

The question about foreign bank a counts has been used by the IRS to tr tax cheaters. In the biggest tax hav case in history, for example, Ohio bu nessman Jack Payner has been indict for falsely answering "no" to the questio

Yet Alexander began maneuvering remove the foreign bank account questi from the tax form even before he w sworn in as Internal Revenue cor missioner. It is an interesting coinciden that his former Cincinnati law firm h been linked to a tax haven bank in t Bahamas.

An informant in the Bahamas swiped Rolodex off the desk of Michael Wolste groft, director of the Castle Bank a Trust. Three cards on the Rolodex co tained names of lawyers in Alexande old firm. We were able to reach only o of the attorneys, who said he had no id how his name got on the Rolodex.

On May 22, 1973, exactly one we before Alexander took his oath of offic he began a behind-the-scenes campai to eliminate the foreign bank accou question from the tax forms. He fo warded a letter, dealing with an unrelat subject, from a South Carolina lawyer the IRS committee that deals with t forms. In an accompanying memo, i tended for official eyes only, Alexand brought up the foreign bank accou question.

He followed the memo with pressure remove the troublesome question fro the tax forms. This was opposed by h enforcement people. John Olszewsk then the IRS intelligence chief, wrote a confidential memo: "The loss of th (question) would seriously restrict o efforts to identify those who would u foreign banking facilities in avoidan and evasion schemes."

A similar memo from Edward Morga then the assistant treasury secretary charge of emforcement, also advis Alexander that the question "is a fact in the Treasury Department's efforts combat the use of foreign bank accoun to facilitate illegal activities." Morg added sternly that "dropping it from t tax returns at this time would be counte productive."

Yet Alexander ignored the advice of t law enforcement cxperts and finally su ceeded in removing the question in Jun 1975. The notes of the confidential IF meeting indicate that he didn't ev consult the Treasury and Justice Depa ments before finally striking the questi off the tax forms. Alexander's attitu was betrayed by his remarks to a gro of public accountants. "We have knock out the foreign bank account question long last," he told them.

Footnote: An IRS spokesman admitt there had been disagreement over t question's removal but insist Alexander's actions were beyond proach. Meanwhile, Rep. Charles Vani D.-Ohio, has introduced legislation th would force the IRS to reinstate t foreign bank account question.

SUSPICIOUS THAIS: The Thai go ernment is quietly investigating a que tionable deal between a Thai airline a a U.S. aircraft manufacturer.

The Thais want to find out why t airline, Thai International, paid McDo nell Douglas Corp. $2 million more p plane than was charged to other airway Thai investigators are also suspicious, s our sources, because the governmer owned airline made a down payme before the transaction was approved the Thai cabinet. This violated gover ment regulations.

As part of the investigation, the Th government has sent its communicatio secretary, Dr. Gun Nagamati, to t United States to do a littls probing. I has met privately with Securities a Exchange officials and Senate i vestigators.

A McDonnell spokesman told us it w against company policy to discuss t terms of the Thai transaction. We ha obtained a confidential cable, however, which the corporation's president, Sa ford N. McDonnell, denies any i propriety. Corporatiom officials have al assured the Thais privately that t company did not "bribe or promise to p money to any airline or government ficial." A spokssman for the Thai e bassy confirmed the details of the i vestigation.

Footnote: In an unrelated investigati the Securities and Exchange Commissi has been looking into payments McDonnell to foreign officials. The co pany has already admitted that appr imately $2.5 million was paid to offici of foreign governments or governme owned airlines between January, 19 and June, 1975.

China Makes H-Bomb Test

HONG KONG (UPI) — China conducted her 19th nuclear test Sunday, saying it was part of a "necessary and limited" weapons development program.

It was the second nuclear explosion by China this year and the 19th since October 1964. It came less than three weeks after the death of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

An announcement today by the official New China News Agency said the test was in keeping with Mao's admonition to maintain preparedness against war. It linked the test with the political campaign Mao launched before his death and said this campaign provided "the motive force" for scientists, soldiers and technicians who "achieved the complete success of the test."

The announcement gave no details of the latest test, a practice adopted with China's last nuclear explosion on Jan. 23.

"China successfully conducted a new nuclear test on Sept. 26, 1976," the announcement said.

"The conducting of necessary and limited nuclear tests and development of nuclear weapons by China is entirely for the purpose of defense and for breaking the nuclear monopoly by the superpowers and for the ultimate abolition of nuclear weapons," the announcement said.

The agency said the test was answering the Communist party's call to turn "grief into strength" after Mao's death.

The party, in its first public policy guidance since Mao's funeral, said Sunday China's anti-Soviet campaign must continue.

"A brief examination of the military situation in Europe in the past year shows that the menace to Western Europe posed by the new czars' military might is not a myth but a stark reality."

Red Hook Faculty Files Charge

RED HOOK — The Red Hook Faculty Association has filed charges of improper practices against the Red Hook Central School District.

The district and association have been negotiating since March for a new contract to replace the one that expired June 30.

Peter McMahon, president of the association, said the charges were being filed because the district had not paid economic increases called for under the old contract.

"Two years ago, when we worked without a contract, the district paid the economic increments. Now they are not paying them—this is why we have failed ths improper practices charges," McMahon said.

An impasse has been declared and both sides are now waiting for the report from a fact finder appointed by the Public Employment Relations Board. The report is expected in about two weeks, McMahon said.

The economic increments, paid to the first 15 grades of the district's teacher pay scale, are for additional service and graduate work. About 95 of the district's 125 teachers are affected, McMahon noted.

Exorcist Blamed

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Police reported James T. Matkowski said he felt he had to kill his son because he thought the child had been possessed by the Devil.

Shortly after midnight Saturday, police said Matkowski walked up the stairs of his home, entered the boy's secondfloor bedroom and plunged a knife into his son's left side.

Matkowski, 27, is free on $25,000 bail and undergoing psychiatric treatment at Philadelphia General Hospital.

Police said Matkowski, who is unemployed, apparently had been influenced by recent movies about children possessed by the Devil.

As city plumbing inspector, Kelly said he tried to be "an honest and dedicated public official . . . who served the people with compassion and consideration."

Kelly didn't always agree with everyone. It was his injunction that halted plumbing work during the construction of Sophie Finn School until the job could be completed by a licensed master plumber.

Kelly also became embroiled with state civil defense, county legislators and an architect over a "very unsanitary" sewer placement planned for a proposed air raid shelter at the Ulster County office building site, a plan that never materialized.

He once was sued for $50,000 for stating his opinion on a broken house sewer on North Front Street: "My opinion was upheld and the claim was paid," Kelly said.

After retirement, Kelly plans to "devote most of my time to my fishing poles."

'Golf Power' Prevails

CALABASAS, Calif. (UPI) — All you heard about all weekend long at the Calabasas Park Country Club—besides the prize money being offered in the $205,000 LPGA Cartlon—was that Donna Caponi Young had discovered something akin to religion.

Out on the course when "negative thoughts" crossed her mind—like the thought of going into the water on 18—Donna would cross her thumb and first two fingers together and squeeze real hard until "positive thoughts" replaced them.

"Golf Power," she called it, or more simply, the "power of positive thinking."

What ever it was, it helped to propel the 31-year-old veteran into the lead on her home course after the second round, a lead she built to seven strokes at one point before capturing the richest event in the history of women's golf by five stroke.

Young's victory was worth $35,000.

"It's just unbelievable," the 12-year veteran said. "Winning $35,000 has to be the most exciting thing that's ever happened, even better than winning my two U.S. Open's back to back.

"I once finished No. 3 on the money list and didn't make even $35,000."

Young's earnings this year, including her $6,000 victory in the Portland Open two weeks ago, top $78,000 and she is still only No. 4 on the list.

Young's consistent rounds of 69-69-72-72 for a 72-hole total of 282 was seven under par.

A mad scramble for the $22,500 second prize money finally ended in a tie between Judy Rankin and Jane Blalock who finished with one-under-par 287s to give them $19,300 each.

Kathy Martin of nearby Thousands Oaks tied Pat Bradley a stroke back to tie for third and earn $9,750.

Rankin, the first woman golfer in history to top the $100,000 mark, now lead the tour with more than $138,000.

Young, whose husband operates a pro shop here and served as tournament director, denied that she had a home course advantage.

"There was no advantage," she said of her familiarlity with the 6,136-yard layout. "I haven't played well here at all in the past. When I come out to play—five times a month tops— I just play it by sight. I don't know any of the yardages. I don't go out to break any records."

J.C. Found Right Coach

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — J.C. Snead didn't have to look far to find the right coach.

For the past two weeks, Sue Snead watched her husband, through hundreds of hours of practice and thought she discovered what was wrong with his swing.

It didn't occur to her until she watched Tom Weiskopf hitting balls on the driving range at Pinehurst. It is agreed Weiskopf has the best shoulder action for hitting woods of anyone on the PGA tour.

"Sue told me she didn't know what was wrong with my swing, but she did know it wasn't anywhere near as smooth as Weiskopf's," Snead explained Sunday after winding up his best driving week of the year and parlaying it into victory in the $175,000 Kaiser International Open.

"So I watched Weiskopf whom I admire an awful lot," Snead said. "I tried putting my shoulders into my swing all the way, not stopping halfway through as I was doing and suddenly I lost my upshoot."

Snead, who outlasted Johnny Miller to win the Kaiser with a 72-hole score of 14-under-par 274, said his driver had deserted him to the point where he never was sure where the ball was going.

His wife's advice worked fine except by the time Snead got to the Kaiser he needed a new driver. He thought he would borrow one from Miller, who has his home near the 11th fairway of Silverado's North Course.

"I caught up with John in his garage, and he was fooling around with some clubs," Snead said. "I told him I was looking for a driver, and he said, 'Help yourself, go at it.'"

Snead said he and Miller have been friends since both came on the tour and have exchanged equipment and playing tips in the past.

"Heck, you know the driver Lee Trevino is using these days," Snead said. "I gave it to him. I also gave him all my golf balls the other day to use here. Lee and I are friends the same way John and I are. There isn't anything I wouldn't do to help either of those guys, and I'm sure they feel the same way about me."

With all his help this week, Snead wound up with his second victory of 1976.

"I didn't make many mistakes this week," he said. "And that was the difference."

Snead had only three bogeys in four rounds while shooting 66, 70, 70, 68. He won when Miller balanced off three straight birdies on the front side of the final round with a double bogey six and then took another bogey on the 14th.

Snead, meanwhile, had three birdies going out, all on up close puts, and another coming back. The last birdie was on 16, which eliminated Miller and the rallying Gibby Gilbert, who finished with 69 and 71, respectively, to tie for second at 12-under 276.

Miller had predicted 14-under par would win the tournament when he was tied for third after Saturday's play.

"I've proved a pretty good prophet although I didn't come up with it," he said, "Still, I'm not disappointed in finishing second. It's better than winding up 30th. If I don't win, I usually finish far back."

Miller won the Kaiser the last two years and seemed a cinch winner again when he opened this year's event with a course record 63.

A small band of fans watch as Ulster battles Flo Valley

Ulster, Flo Valley Slosh to 0-0 Tie

By BRUCE GOLDBERG
Freeman Staff

STONE RIDGE—It's hard to choose which got dirtier Sunday afternoon—the uniforms of the soccer players from Ulster County Community College and Florissant Valley (Mo.) CC, or the tactics employed by players from both sides.

The miserable, rainy weather made for very difficult playing conditions and cut down on the quality of play. After 110 minutes of close chances and near misses there were frustrations, short tempers and physical abuses on both sides. When it was over, No. 8 ranked Ulster drew in a scoreless tie with 1975's national junior college champ and current No. 1 pick Flo Valley.

The teams had even played two 10-minute overtime periods after the regulation 90 minutes had expired with no score, but neither team could do any better in the extra time.

In addition to some darn good soccer in the form of well-executed offensive thrusts and sure shots turned into great saves, there was plenty of extra physical contact, especially in the second half and the overtime. Kicking, pushing, punching, tripping—this game had it all.

Nevertheless, the game has to emerge as a moral victory and a possible boost in the national poll for the Senators, who lost, 3-1, to Flo Valley in the 1975 national tournament semifinals in Baltimore, Md.

Both the Norsemen and the Senators sport 4-1-1 season records. Today, Flo Valley visits West Point in the final game of its swing through the East.

"This was a more physical game than we normally play," said Flo Valley coach Pete Sorber, whose '75 national championship squad was his sixth NJCAA winner. "I'm glad we don't have to play in the same league as Ulster. I don't see how a team could survive 10 or 15 games like this. It was not necessarily a dirty game, just very physical."

Ulster coach George Vizvary echoed Sorber's feelings. "It's most unfortunate. It became almost like a brawl at the end, on both sides. It's a long game, and many things can happen. The field conditions and players' tempers combined made ths rough play."

Both teams missed numerous close chances to score as Ulster goalie Conrad Ernest and Florissant goalie Matt McVey played brilliantly, each stopping several point blank shots off both the feet and heads of opponents.

"My boys were fired up," said Vizvary, who has been pointing to this rematch since the preseason. "We played strong and fast, but the passing was not there...Overall, I was satisfied with the defense, expecially Conrad Ernest and Mario Austin."

Other votes for top effort would have to go to fullback David Farrell and midfielder Aurelio Emea.

Ulster dominated the first half, outshooting Flo Valley, 10-3 and taking four corner kicks to the visitors' none. But the Norsemen turned it around in the second half and really put the pressure on, outshooting Ulster, 20-5 for an overall 23-15 edge and taking six corner kicks to Ulster's three (total of seven).

"Their style was overwhelming in the second half," admitted Vizvary. "The only way we could play with them was to play a low-pressure defense and stop thsm at the penalty area line. We couldn't run with them, so we had to slow 'em down."

Some of ths slowdown methods included tactics not approved in the referee's handbook and were utilized on both sides.

"A couple of our freshman used tactics I did not like," said Vizvary. "We have to educate them that it's not the way to play the ball game."

The field, already rutted with holes from last weekend's tournament, became a quagmire around the goal mouths and slippery everywhere else, rendering normal offensive skills almost useless.

"Under normal conditions, both teams would have played better, " said Vizvary.

Usual for Staubach, Unexpected for Grogan

It was a performance Dallas Cowboy fans have come to expect from Roger Staubach and it was an effort the New England Patriots hope to see for years to come from Steve Grogan.

Staubach, masterful despite a second-half downpour that made every pass an adventure, rallied the Cowboys three times and finally set up Efren Herrera's game-winning 32-yard field goal with three seconds left that enabled Dallas to defeat Baltimore 30-27 in a battle of unbeaten clubs.

Grogan, the second-year quarterback the Patriots entrusted their offense to when they dealt Jim Plunkett to San Francisco in the offseason, passed for two touchdowns and ran for another to rally the New England Patriots to a stunning 30-27 upset of the NFL champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

Staubach, who had his finest day as a pro with a 22-of-28 passing performance for 341 yards, put the Cowboys ahead 27-24 with 3:27 left on a 38-yard TD pass to Billy Joe DuPree. But Baltimore, with gutty Bert Jones at the controls, got a 24-yard field goal from Toni Linhart with only 28 seconds left that tied the game and seemed certain to send it into overtime.

But Staubach, starting at his own 32, hit Drew Pearson for 16 yards and then threw toward Golden Richards. The pass was incomplete but interference was ruled against linebacker Derrel Luce and Dallas had the ball with 12 seconds left at the Colts' 32. Another 18-yard pass to Pearson set up Dallas at the 14 and Herrera kicked the game winner.

Staubach has now hit 56-of-78 passes for 822 yards in three games.

Grogan rallied New England, which upset Miami last week, from a 20-9 deficit with third quarter TD passes of 38 yards to Russ Francis and 58 yards to Darryl Stingley. Grogan then scored on a six-yard run early in the final quarter to put the Pats ahead. Steeler fumbles led to John Smith's field goals of 42, 40 and 26 yards.

Roy Gerela's 48-yard field goal attempt with three seconds left went wide to the right to give the Patriots their second win in three games.

"That," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landdry, "is what pro football is all about. You saw it all today. This was a great offensive show. We are both contenders and we both played well. We came in to this game feeling we had to throw deep."

Colt Coach Ted Marchibroda was stunned by Staubach's performance.

"He couldn't have thrown any better," he said. "I thought we had good coverage most of the day but he just laid the ball in there every time and his receivers did a good job."

"Roger just had a perfect day," added Lan dry. "He's super. Each week he keeps doing better, what else can you say."

Francis, the big tight end who came into the NFL with Grogan last season, says the 6-foot-5 youngster has developed into a bonafide NFL quarterback in just a year.

"This is all a matter of Grogan coming to maturity," Francis said. "He's at the point now where he can see different situations and react to them. This team is coming of age. We used to come out for the second half, we were behind and that was it. Now we come out for the second half and we're ready."

Grogan said there was a touch of panic before he threw the TD pass to Stingley.

"My primary receiver was Marlin Briscoe," he explained. "He ran across and I saw only the back of his shirt and figured he wasn't open—he says he was. Then I saw Darryl cut down the sideline and I threw. I didn't have much more time. Somehow he caught the ball."

In other games it was Oakland 14 Houston 13, Minnesota 10 Detroit 9, San Diego 43 St. Louis 24, Miami 16 the New York Jets 0, Atlanta 10 Chicago 0, New Orleans 27 Kansas City 17, Buffalo 14 Tampa Bay 9, Cincinnati 28 Green Bay 7, Los Angeles 24 the New York Giants 10, Denver 44 Cleveland 13 and San Francisco 37 Seattle 21.

Raiders 14, Oilers 13

Rookie Mike Rae, starting his first NFL game for injured Ken Stabler, threw TD passes of nine and 33 yards to Cliff Branch and Oakland's defense made two goal line stands to beat Houston. Skip Butler gave Houston a 6-0 lead with two field goals before Rae, who played in Canada the last three years, hit Branch twice for scores. Oakland stopped Houston twice on the one to preserve the win.

Vikings 10, Lions 9

Sub quarterback Bob Lee led Minnesota to its only touchdown and a botched snap on an extra point foiled Detroit's bid to tie as the Vikings edged the Lions. Chuck Foreman's five-yard run put Minnesota ahead 10-3 and Errol Mann was unable to get off an attempt on a tying extra point after Greg Landry's oneyard TD pass to Charley Sanders.

Bengals 28, Packers 7

Ken Riley and Tommy Casanova returned intercepitons for touchdowns to spark Cincinnati over winless Green Bay. Riley returned a Lynn Dickey pass 53 yards for a TD and Casanova took back Carlos Brown's pass 33 yards for an insurance score. Archie Griffin also had a nine-yard TD run for the Bengals.

Bills 14, Buccaneers 9

Joe Ferguson threw a 58-yard TD pass to Bob Chandler and a 15-yarder to Reuben Gant to lift Buffalo past Tampa Bay. Dave Green had field goals of 39, 24 and 19 yards for the Bucs' first points in three NFL games.

Falcons 10, Bears 0

Haskel Stanback ran three yards for the only TD of the game with 11 minutes left and Atlanta held on to defeat previously unbeaten Chicago. Nick Mike-Mayer, who missed four field goal attempts, connected on a 45-yarder in the final period to put the game out of reach.

Saints 27, Chiefs 17

Rookie Tony Galbreath scored on runs of 74 and nine yards as New Orleans beat Kansas City, giving Saints Coach Hank Stram a triumph over the club he coached for more than a dozen years. Galbreath had 146 yards rushing and Chuck Muncie, another rookie, gained 126. Rams 24, Giants 10

John Cappelletti scored after taking James Harris' pass 11 seconds into the last quarter to spark Los Angeles over the Giants. New York took a 10-0 lead before Harris, playing for the first time this season, and Cappelletti hooked up on a 32yard TD play. The Rams intercepted Craig Morton four times.

Chargers 43, Cards 24

Dan Fouts threw three TD passes and San Diego exploded for 27 points in the second period to beat St. Louis in a battle of unbeaten clubs. Fouts hit Charlie Joiner on a 30-yard TD pass and Dwight McDonald with scoring passes of 44 and 18 yards. Jim Hart had two TD throws for the Cards.

49ers 37, Seahawks 21

Plunkett threw three first-half TD passes as San Francisco built a 24-point lead and then held off Seattle. The 49ers scored 17 points in the first 11 minutes on a 50-yard punt return by Ralph McGill, Plunkett's 38-yard TD pass to Gene Washington and a 45-yard field goal by Steve Mike-Mayer. Plunkett threw two more TD passes in the second period.

Broncos 44, Browns 13

Rick Upchurch returned punts 73 and 36 yards for TDs to set a club record and ignite Denver past Cleveland. The Broncos also scored on a oneyard run by Otis Armstrong, a 43-yard fumble return by Calvin Jones and a 12-yard run by Jim Kiick. Steve Ramsey also threw a 36-yard scoring pass to Haven Moses.

Cappelletti Comes of Age

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — After the Los Angeles Rams' first three games a year ago, John Cappelletti had carried the ball exactly twice.

"Sure, I remember that," the 1973 Heisman Trophy winner said. "I remember it very well. This is the difference of night and day."

A starter in place of Jim Bertelsen, Cappelletti scored two touchdowns in the Rams' come-from-behind 24-10 victory over the New York Giants in their home opener.

On a Sunday when Giant quarterback Craig Morton was intercepted four times and fumbled once, the former Penn State star broke open a 10-10 deadlock on a twisting 32-yard touchdown pass-run.

"This is a much nicer feeling," Cappelletti continued, flashing a wide smile. "At this time last year, I didn't know what to think.

"After the third game, I went to Coach (Chuck) Knox and had a long talk. He explained his situation then and I gave my side of it. I kind of understood what he said but you're only in this game for a comparative short period of time and you have to look out for your career."

For the third game in a row, Cappelletti played a strong game for the Rams, picking up 85 yards on 19 carries. For the season, he's packed the ball 69 times for 315 yards. He went into the game as the leading rusher in the NFL. For the entire 1974 and 1975 seasons, he had a total of 103 carries.

"I wouldn't use the word vindicated," he cautioned a reporter. "I don't feel vindicated. I've always felt this was the place I've wanted to play.

"Let's just say I feel good about this and leave it at that. There's no sense looking back."

Improving their record to 2-01, the Rams fought back from a 10-0 first quarter and 10-7 halftime deficits.

Cappelletti scored on a 10yard run around right end in the second quarter and Tom Dempsey evened the score with a 44-yard field goal in the third period. On the first play of the fourth quarter, Cappelletti caught a swing pass from newly returned James Harris on the Giant 26-yard line and then found his way into the end zone with a superb run.

With 1:58 remaining after the Ram defense picked off a fourth Morton pass, Bertelsen scored on a one-yard plunge.

Playing in his first game of the season after being sidelined in the Rams' next-to-last exhibition game with a fractured thumb, Harris was impressive. He completed 14 of 23 passes for 179 yards and had one interception.

Harris said his thumb presented no problems and lauded the winless Giants.

"They hustled a lot of pursued us," he noted. "They stopped our runs early in the game. We went to the pass and then mixed them up."

Harris was booed in the opening quarter when the Rams weren't doing anything offensively. Asked if he was nervous about his status as the Rams' No. 1 quarterback, he replied:

"I don't go into a game concerned about my status. My only thought is to win."

In the final period after Cappelletti's go-ahead touchdown, the Ram defense sacked Morton four times, intercepted him twice and recovered his fumble.

Shula, Namath Find Bright Spots

MIAMI (UPI) — Nobody was very happy after the Miami Dolphins' 16-0 win over the New York Jets Sunday.

Miami coach Don Shula was complaining that his offense "made every mistake in the book" in the first half, and Jet quarterback Joe Namath was moaning, "we're consistent— consistently bad."

Both men, however, found a bright spot in their respective defensive units' play on the steaming Orange Bowl field Sunday.

"The defense put together two good halves, and in the second half we were able to make them turn the ball over," Shula said. "We had a very poor offensive first half; we made every mistake in the book. It was only because of a fine defense that we got away with a 3-0 halftime lead."

Shula, whose 2-1 Dolphins have to play Los Angeles and Baltimore the next two weekends, acknowledged that "the Jets aren't the caliber of the teams we're going to have to play.

"I understand they were playing a left tackle that had to introduce himself in the huddle at practice on Thursday."

Namath, applying ice to a swollen right knee and to a swollen lower lip, agreed.

"You go down to the delicatessen and you hear about it every time," said Namath, who completed 16 of 26 passes for 171 yards. "Of course, you don't like it. It's no fun at all, and you can't come back at 'em because it's the truth."

Namath, who has been able to engineer only two touchdowns in three games, acknowledged the offense "hasn't been sharp.

"We have no consistency at all," he said, and then had second thoughts. "Well, I guess we have been consistent—consistently bad. What we've got to do is be consistently good."

He said he was encouraged by the play of the New York defense Sunday. "Now if we can just get the offense going."

The Dolphin offense sputtered during the first half and managed only a 25-yard field goal before intermission.

The Jets, now 0-3, turned the ball over three times on two Steve Davis fumbles and a Namath interception in their first seven offensive plays of the third quarter to set up a 26yard Garo Yepremian field goal and a three-yard touchdown pass from Bob Griese to Jim Mandich.

Yepremian added an insurance field goal in the fourth quarter after the Dolphins drove 77 yards to the Jets' 25 before stalling.

Among the bright spots Shula saw in Miami's performance Sunday was the play of Ken Ellis, who was acquired in a trade with Houston on Tuesday.

"He played the whole game, and to my knowledge, he didn't make any mental errors out there," Shula said. "That's pretty good for a guy who hasn't been with us very long."

The Second Time Around for Lonborg

By UPI

It was only fitting that Jim Lonborg pitched the clinching victory for the Philadelphia Phillies' first championship since 1950.

It was the second time around for the 6-foot-6 righthander. In 1967, he beat Dean Chance and the Minnesota Twins, ending an even longer wait for the Boston Red Sox. That triumph ended a famous four-team race and clinched the Red Sox' first American League pennant since 1918.

Lonborg, who has been trying to "make it back to the top" since he suffered a severe injury while skiing during the winter of 1967, pitched a four-hitter and raised his record to 17-10 Sunday when the Phillies clinched the National League's Eastern Division title with a 4-1 victory over the Montreal Expos in the first game of a doubleheader. The Phillies, who will try for their first National League pennant since 1950 when they play the Cincinnati Reds in the playoffs, also won the rain-shortened second game 2-1.

Lonborg could have used the occasion to blow his own horn but instead gave the credit to his teammates.

"It was great to pitch in the game that clinched the championship," he said. "Personally I had one of my better years and it all worked out as we ended on top. The team just played outstanding ball behind me all year."

Manager Danny Ozark said the Phillies had it all the way despite their late-season slump.

"There never was any doubt in my mind that we could not finish first in our division," he said. "This is one of the greatest clubs I have ever been associated with since I have been managing. Now we just have to keep everyone loose and stay sharp for the playoffs with Cincinnati."

Greg Luzinski, whose three-run, sixth-inning homer was the big blow for the Phillies, also said he never lost confidence.

"That home run was a long time coming," said Luzinski. "It sure was good to see it go over the fence in such a key game. The team is just super and I never had any thought about blowing the lead we had compiled all year."

The Phillies had a 15½-game lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates on Aug. 27 but went into a slump and saw it dwindle to three games on Sept. 17. Since then, however, they have won eight of 10 games.

Elsewhere in the NL, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Pirates 5-2, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Reds 2-1, the Atlanta Braves topped the San Diego Padres 10-4, the New York Mets downed the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and the San Francisco Giants took the Houston Astros 5-1.

Cards 5, Pirates 2

Lou Brock's two-run, tie-breaking triple in the fifth inning and seven strong innings of pitching by John Denny carried the Cardinals to their victory over the Pirates. Bruce Kison suffered his ninth loss against 14 victories for the Pirates.

Dodgers 2, Reds 1

Braves 10, Padres 4

Darrel Chaney's two-run double was the big hit of a six-run eighth-inning rally for the Braves. Adrian Devine was the winner for Atlanta with star reliever Butch Metzger the loser for the Padres.

Mets 2, Cubs 1

Jerry Koosman, now strongly in the running for the Cy Young Award, raised his record to 21-9 for the Mets, with the late relief of Bob Apodaca. Koosman had a no-hitter until the seventh when the Cubs knocked him out with four singles.

Giants 5, Astros 1

Gary Thomasson had four hits and Chris Speier drove in two runs for the Giants as Gary Lavelle earned his 10th win against six defeats. Jose Cruz had three hits for the Astros.

Mercurys Blank Titans In Junior Football Upset

KINGSTON — The Mercurys moved alone into first place after just two weeks of the Junior Football season Friday with a 12-0 upset whitewash of the Titans.

Gary Reynolds and Chris Mayone each scored a first half touchdown for the Mercs on long gainers to enable the winners to remain the only unbeaten squad in the league. In other games, the Agenas knocked off the Atlas, 20-0 also on Friday, and the Saturns stopped the Apollos Sunday, 23-6.

Reynolds took a 30 yard scoring pass from Brian Timbrouck in the opening period, then the Mercs doubled their edge on Mayone's 45 yard ramble with an interception.

Glen MacDonald scored twice, and the Agenas kept the pressure on all the way as the Atlas fell to their second straight loss. MacDonald went 45 yards in the first period to help stake the winners to a 7-0 halftime lead, then he scooped up a third quarter fumble and took it in from 40 yards out. Rich Grossman capped the scoring with a 10 yard run in the final quarter.

Chuck Kennedy ran one TD, passed for another and scored a pair of PAT's to lead the Saturns. The Apollos' Todd DeLisio threw a 15 yard scoring strike to Gregg Mannis in the first quarter to make it a 7-6 game, but a 40-yard Kennedy to Dave Dahl hookup and a Saturn safety enabled the victors to take a 16-6 halftime lead. The Saturns iced it in the fourth quarter as Brad Jordan passed to Dahl who flipped a lateral to Paul Loughlin in a touchdown play covering 25 yards.

Ashe Meets Gottfried

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Defending champion Arthur Ashe faces 10th-seeded Brian Gottfried tonight in the singles final of the $125,000 Pacific Southwest Open Tennis Championships at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

Gottfried upset third seeded Ilie Nastase, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, in a Sunday semifinals rout while Ashe easily ousted Raul Ramirez, 6-3, 6-3.

Ashe, who won the Southwest during his sophomore year at UCLA and again last year, meets Gottfried in the championship match for the $20,000 first prize money at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

Sunday' Nastase-Gottfried matchup was enlivened by several disputed and controversial calls, most going against the tempermental Romanian.

He became particulatrly upset with a call in the second game of the second set. He drew thunderous applause mixed with a sprinkling of whistles from the 8,500 fans when he punted the tennis ball about 25 yards.

"That call upset me," Nastase said afterwards. "I know I shouldn't have let it, but I can't put things like that out of my mind. Some of those guys (officials) could be my grandfather."

Gottfried came from a 0-40 deficit in the final set to win five straight games, cinching the match.

There were seven service breaks in the crucial third set, which Gottfried said was due to the fact "each of us wanted to win badly. And we put pressure on each other."

Nastase, whose service was broken four times in the third set said, "I don't think I ever had my serve broken that many times before in a single set."

Gottfried played cautiously in the first set. He appeared nervous and once missed on five straight serves, double faulting two times in succession. But he settled down after that and outstudied Nastase in the final two sets.

Ashe, seeded No. 4, scored repeatedly on passing and cross-court shots. He also kept ninth seeded Ramirez, the leader of the Mexican Davis Cup Team, on the run with accurate placement shots.

Fans Greet AL East Champs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some 200 wildly cheering fans Sunday greeted the American League East division-winning Yankees when they returned to New York with cries of "We're No. 1" and a banner reading "Today Is the First Day of the Second Dynasty."

The Yanks, sporting their first title since 1964, when they won the American League pennant, arrived in their chartered Eastern Airlines 727 jet at New York's La Guardia Airport at 7:12 p.m.

They clinched the Eastern division title when they defeated the Tigers in Detroit Saturday night and second-place Baltimore lost to Boston. The Yanks' game with Baltimore on Sunday was rained out.

Manager Billy Martin, who told the players in Detroit, "Don't worry about the game, we're going to win," said he was going to relax.

Yankee left fielder Roy White said "I looked forward to playing on Saturday. I didn't care if Baltimore won on Sunday. There was frustration — we wanted to win in New York."

New York catcher Thurman Munson's wife, Diane, who came to the airport to greet her husband, said, "We waited a long time. They worked hard and they deserved the win. It's nice to be on a winner. I am on cloud nine."

The Yanks will face the winnners of the American League western division in the playoffs which begin Oct. 9.

A's Last Chance

By UPI

It's a slim chance for the Oakland A's, but that's still more than any other second place team in baseball has going for it today.

The A's, winners of the American League's Western Division title five years in a row, must sweep a three-game series starting tonight against the Kansas City Royals in Oakland to retain even a hope for a sixth straight title.

Theirs is the only race remaining in baseball's four divisions. Kansas City's magic number remained stalled at three and its lead was trimmed to 4½ games Sunday by a 3-1 loss to Texas that left Royals Manager Whitey Herzog wondering if his team ever would be able to apply the clincher.

"I've never seen a bunch like this," said Herzog, who has seen the Royals lose 18 of their last 30 games. "We're scared to win.

"We only need one against Oakland, but the way we're going, I don't know how we're going to get that one game.

"We should have put this thing away two weeks ago. Maybe these guys are making too much money. Maybe the World Series doesn't mean anything to them.

"Right now I wouldn't be surprised if Oakland won all three."

Oakland, rained out Sunday at Chicago, will have Vida Blue (17-12) ready to oppose Dennis Leonard (17-9) in tonight's series opener. The A's walloped the Royals 11-1 and 8-1 last week at Kansas City after losing the first game of the series 3-1. This week Oakland can't afford even one loss.

Lenny Randle drove in Jeff Burroughs twice, with a sacrifice fly in the second inning and a single in the sixth, to lead Texas to its victory over Kansas City Sunday. Burroughs had started both rallies with singles. The other Texas run came in the third inning when Jeff Sundberg doubled, advanced to third on an error and came home on a double play.

Red Sox 8 Orioles 3

Reggie Cleveland had a two-hit shutout until the bottom of the ninth when Balttimore struck for four hits and all three of its runs. Rookie Ernie Whitt doubled home two runs during a three-run fifth for Boston, and a five-run eighth inning was featured by a two-run, bases-loaded double by Cecil Cooper and a two-run single by Jim Rice. Rice has hit safely in 13 consecutive games.

Angels 4 Twins 1

Dave Collins and Ron Jackson hit solo homers for the Angels, and Frank Tanana scattered eight hits in pitching his 23rd complete game of the season. Tanana, 18-10, walked three and struck out eight and had the Twins shut out until Craig Kusick homered in the ninth.

New Paltz Now 0-5

NEW PALTZ—The New Paltz College varsity baseball team is still looking for its first victory of the fall season after a lost weekend that included an early knockout in the Siena Invitational Friday and a rain-shortened, five-inning, 11-1 loss to Siena here Sunday afternoon.

The Hawks, 0-5, have yet to play a State University of New York Athletic Conference contest, however, so fall coach Mark Stryker isn't too concerned over the winless state.

"We faced two of the toughest teams in the tournament up at Siena," said Stryker, meaning Maine and Mansfisld State, "and we used up our two best pitchers (Bob Marz and Bob Vasquez) on Friday, so we didn't have them for Sunday.

"We're still optimistic for the conference games," he added. "We're still in there."

The Hawks faced Maine, last year's fourth-place finisher in the NCAA baseball tournament (Division I), in the tourney opener Friday and lost, 10-0. Marz did not allow a hit until there were two out in the fourth inning as he set down the first 14 Maine batters.

But Maine's Pete LaHamme slammed a three-run homer in the fifth after two men got on via errors, and with Marz walking seven over the final three innings, Maine scored four in the fifth, two in the sixth and added four in the final frame. Barry LaCasse was the winning pitcher, and he yielded only singles to Marz, Bill Hopkins and Rick Kail.

New Paltz was then knocked out of the tourney by Mansfield State (Pa.), 7-2. Marz hit his first homer of the season, a solo shot, in the first inning, and Ralph Calderon singled home Steve Turkowitz in the seventh for the Hawks' only runs.

Mansfield got all the runs it needed in the third on two hits and two errors. Tim Kelleher was the winner, yielding seven hits and striking out 12. Vasquez took the loss, walking two and whiffing one. The Siena tourney was conducted at Bleecker Stadium in Albany.

At home on Sunday, the Hawks pitched Calderon at Siena, and he didn't do badly in 4⅓ innings, yielding just five hits, three walks and whiffing one. But errors did him in, as happened in Friday's games.

Siena's Mark Massaroni blasted a three-run homer in the second (all runs unearnsd because of errors) and Smith hit a solo shot in the third to pace the winners. Calderon was relieved by Vasquez , who got the final two outs in the fifth.

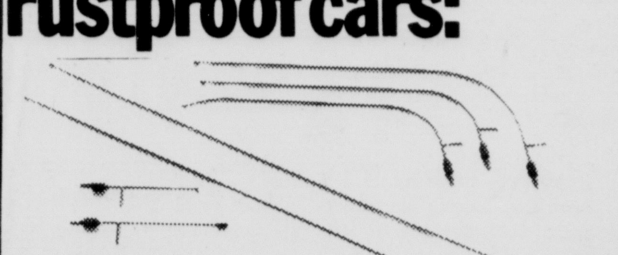
What Ziebart uses to rustproof cars:



What car dealers use:

Our technicians use 9 patented spray tools to get at every inch of vulnerable metal inside your car's body. Your car dealer uses 2, maybe 3 tools.

We use over 2,000 pages of instructions compiled from factory specifications. Your car dealer uses a few pages of general directions from the salesman who sells him sealant.

There are other important differences, too. And you should check them all out. Call us.

Life

FREEMAN PHOTOS BY HAINES

KINGSTON—Those attending Kingston Fall Festival Saturday, Oct. 9, will have the opportunity of seeing the historic Ulster County Bicentennial Quilt made last year by 42 women under the direction of Ruth Culver. The quilt will be on display at the Heritage Savings Bank, 273 Wall St.

Continuous events from 10 a.m. are planned for the day, including historic house tours of the Stockade area; Civil War Encampment at Senate House grounds; Kingston Through a Lens at Loughran House; outdoor merchants market, farmers markets, handicraft booths, demonstrations, antiques, flower show, art exhibition, as well as entertainment by the Lefooters Square Dance group; Indian dancers; Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps; Kingston Kiwanis Minstrels and Kingston High School Bicentennial Chorus.

The Bicentennial quilt is a combined effort of a group of women who met at Ulster County Community College early in 1975 to plan for it. Each woman chose the subject for her 12-inch square; designed, executed the block using applique technique, some embroidery or crewel for detail or emphasis. Each was responsible for researching and writing the history of her individual block.

Historical research into the four centuries of growth and development of Ulster County made the women aware of the fine heritage Ulster County possesses. It all started in June 1621 when a group of Netherland merchants formed the Dutch West India Company and began the settlement of New Netherland. The 42 blocks include further history as follows:

Kingston Point — Kingston Point Park was a terminal meant just for passengers who sailed the Hudson River steamboats. Prior to 1896 passengsrs found it necessary to land at Rhinecliff and ferry across the river because there was no suitable landing dock. A landing wam conceived,probably by S.D. Coykendall, and passengers bound for the Catskill Mountains could leave the boat and board the train. An attractive park under the direction of Downing Vaux was created which became a favorite entertainment spot with dance hall, merry-go-round, band concerts. As the era of the steamboats drew to a close, so did the charm of the park. — -(Lois A. Kupec, Kingston.)

Overlook —Overlook Mountain, a familiar silhouette, highest point about 3200 feet above sea level, once occupied by Overlook Mountain House, (closeup view in the foreground); has spectacular views, colors follow the seasons. The first Mountain House was built in 1871 and the last was never finished or occupied. There were three houses altogether. The house which burned in 1925 was a three-story frame building with a capacity for 300 guests; among the famous were General Grant and Chester A. Arthur. —(Winifred D. West, Woodstock.)

Old Dutch Church — Organized in 1659, Old Dutch, is one of the oldest churches on the American continent. Several previous buildings were victims of burnings by the Indians and British. The present bluestone church was designed by Minard LeFever and built in 1852. Memorabilia of four centuries is found in the church. In the surrounding churchyard are graves of early church members and Gov. George Clinton, first governor of New York State. —(Marie Mayes, Kingston.)

Horse Drawn Fire Engine — In the early settlements, people formed bucket brigades at the times of fires. Following the disastrous 1666 fire in London when 13,000 buildings were destroyed, Englishmen began to develop better fire fighting equipment. By the mid-1800's the heavy equipment for steam-driven pumping engines was drawn by horses. —(Gail Hilsenbeck, Kripplebush.)

Ashokan Reservoir — View looks across part of the West Baisin towards the Ashokan Bridge and dike, which divides the water. At the turn of the century this region was the site of numerous farms and seven small villages, all of which was abandoned or relocated after necessary legislation in 1905 made way for the construction of the reservoir to provide water for the people of New York City.—(Claire Knickmeyer, Kingston.)

U & D Railroad — Railroading was the glamor industry at the turn of the 19th century. The Ulster and Delaware line ran deep into the heart of the Catskills. Brown Station was a typical Victorian Country station. When the Ashokan reservoir was built, the station was moved to serve the village of Ashokan on the new route of the U and D. As railroad travel declined the depot was moved across Rte. 28 and became a storehouse for car parts. Finally in 1969 it was sold to an admirer of old depots, moved to Woodstock, and has been used as a recording studio and beauty parlor. —(Natalie Earnest, Woodstock.)

Sugarbush — The sugarbush is located in Wittenberg on the Lester and Harley Shultis Farm which was part of the Hardenberg Patent. It refers to a stand of sugar maples which is tapped for sap to make maple sugar. Tapping, or sugaring off, as it is also called, was done on this farm as far back as the 1830's and is continued by the present owner, Lester R. Shultis. Approximately 55 gallons of syrup is produced annually. —(Lauretta S. Shekitka, Woodstock.)

Locust Lawn —Locust Lawn, the Federal style mansion located on Rte. 32, four miles south of New Paltz, is also known as the Col. Josiah Hasbrouck House. Built in 1814 it was patterned after the homes Hasbrouck saw in Virginia and Washington, D.C., and is surrounded by a large farm which was very productive. — (Donna Kent, New Paltz).

Ellenville Pottery — Ellenville potteries were closely linked to the Delaware and Hudson Canal on which they depended for their stoneware clay to move the finished pieces to market. Horace Weston, a former Methodist Circuit Rider, was the founder of the first pottery in Ellenville. (Shirley Meyer, Hurley).

Woodland Valley Scene — A road turns off just a few miles beyond Phoenicia that leads to a five-mile valley of spectacular Catskill Mountain scenery. The valley contains whirlpools and rapids of the Esopus Creek, the oldest ski center in the state; a campground, and is surrounded by high mountains. A walk along a ridge of Panther Mountain will bring one to an abandoned orchard shown in the block. — -(Jan Evers).

Ice Harvesting — By the early 1850's, ice harvesting had become an efficient and necessary industry. The ice blocks were stored in sawdust in the ice houses until summer when it was transported by barge to the consumers. By the early 1900's the natural ice industry declined with the increase in manufacured plant ice. — (Jacqueline Sittner, Kingston.)

Stone Ridge Library — The building is a typical Dutch quarried stone house built by Edward Lounsbury about 1770. Julia H. Dwight presented the old stone house to the community in 1909 to be used as a free library in memory of her parents. — -(Rosemarie M. Raymond, Stone Ridge.)

Esopus Indians — Native American life in this area dates back many thousands of years. The Esopus, who lived in the Kingston New Paltz area, constituted a branch of the Algonquin Nation and dwelt near the Hudson in huts made of bent wooden poles and bark covering. The slow disintegration of the Esopus (whose name means "river") began in ths 17th century with the influx of European settlers.— -(Barbara Fiorentino, New Paltz.)

Henry Hudson - Half Moon — It was in 1609 that Henry Hudson and his crew of English and Dutch Sailors aboard the small Dutch yacht, the Half Moon, encountered the Hudson river with its autumn foliage and fertile land. The Half Moon sailed 150 miles up to a point near Albany . Hudson told only of a friendly and peaceful people who traded furs, tobacco and corn cakes with his crew. — -(Linda Culver).

Fur Trading — As a result of Hudson's exploration, the first fur trading post in the Catskills was established by the Dutch in 1614 at Ronduit (Rondout) where the Rondout Creek enters into the Hudson River. Furs, the most prized being the pelt of ths wildcat (bobcat) was traded by the Indians in great numbers for the white man's goods. Fur trading flourished for more than 200 years. — (Helen Carey, Boiceville.)

Peter Stuyvesant and the Stockade — Kingston was the third area to be settled in New York State, the first known settlers arriving in 1652. Following encounters with the Indians an appeal was made to Director General Peter Stuyvesant in New Amsterdam, and the settlers were advised to remove their houses to one location and build a Stockade which was begun in 1658. The village was chartered the same year under the name of Wiltwyck, (wild place), later renamed Kingston in 1664 by the English. — (Ruth E. Culver, Kingston)

Old Hurley — Settled in 1661 by 15 families of Dutch and French Huguenot origin, Hurley was the capital of New York, host to George Washington, and birthplace of Sojourner Truth.—(Dorothy B. Smith, Hurley.)

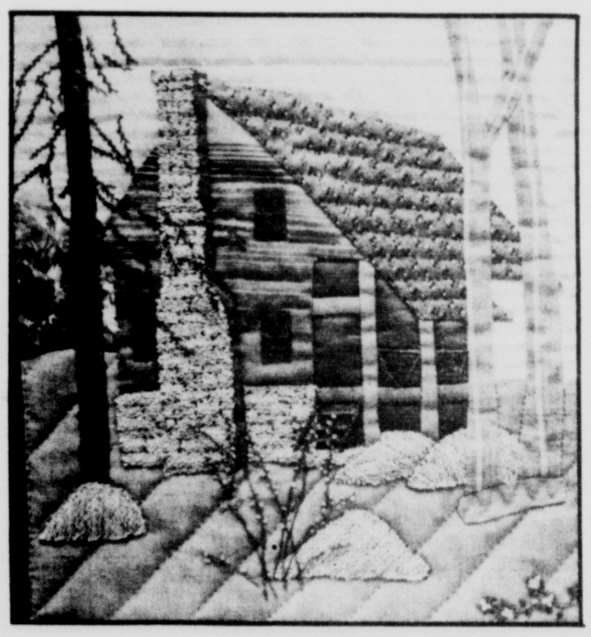
The Senate House —The stone house in Kingston dates from 1676 built by Wessel Ten Broeck. When Kingston became the state capital, the Senate met in this house. It was gutted when the British burned Kingston in Oct. 1777. —E. B. DeWitt, Woodstock.

First Reading of State Constitution —The courthouse used also as jail and capitol of Ulster County served as the birthplace of the State of New York in 1777. The constitution was adopted there April 20, 1777 and was publicly read two days later.—(Hildegard N. Pleva, Kingston.)

Governor Clinton — George Clinton, first governor of New YOrk State, served as vice president under Presidents Jefferson and Madison. He fought in the French and Indian War and was a brigadier general of the militia in the Revolution. —(Maggie Caccamo, New Paltz.)

Burning of Kingston By British - British forces under the command of General Vaughan burned the village of Kingston, Oct. 16, 1777.--(Maris T. Hrouda, Kingston.)

Hurley Spy House — Built prior to the Revolution, the Dumond House was Guard



House during the occupation of Hurley by the Continental Army in the Revolutionary War. Lt. Daniel Taylor, British spy, was confined to this house and hanged in Hurley on Oct. 19, 1777. — (Sharon Finch, Kingston.)

Huguenot Street, New Paltz — In 1678 New Paltz was settled by 12 French Huguenot families. The famous stone houses along the street include the recently completed replica of the French Church of 1717. — (Marie Collins, New Paltz.)

The Senate House Kitchen — Original kitchen was a frame building separated from the main portion of the house. The present kitchen was added in 1890 and the utensils and furniture were those used by early settlers. — (Kathleen Baxter, Kingston.)

Esopus Meadows Lighthouse — Aids to navigation started with the Indians, followed by lamplighters and the building of lighthouses started in 1829. The Esopus Meadows light was built in 1839 and closed in 1965 for reasons of economy. At that time an automatic daylight sensor was installed to work the light automatically. In 1975, the light was removed from the structure and is on a single pipe mast. — (Chris Kirk, Kingston.)

Maverick Concert Hall — Maverick Concert Hall, Woodstock, was built in 1916 and has been in use every summer since as a music shed for chamber music performances. — (Josette Ebbs, Woodstock.)

Greenfield Schoolhouse — Greenfield Park Schoolhouse built prior to 1836, is a one-room school, housing eight grades under one teacher and one school trustee. In later years, 7th and 8th grade students were transferred to Ellenville schools, usually walking the 7 miles until busing began in 1928. The school was closed in 1938 and since 1965 has been maintained as a museum. —-(Veronica Culver Morzen, Red Oaks Mill.)

Mary Powell, Queen of the Hudson — Steamboat Mary Powell for more than half a century ran as a day boat between New York City and Rondout Creek. She was considered the fastest steamboat on the river. She made her last passenger trip to New York in 1917 and was sold for scrap in 1919.—Eleanor Anderson, New Paltz.

Sojourner Truth — Born in Ulster County about 1797. In 1843, New York State freed its slaves in 1828, she decided to leave her job as a domestic servant and began her travels to preach about God and lecture against slavery. Her common sense, wit and talent for songs, captured her audiences and set them to thinking about the slavery issue. She died in Battle Creek, Mich., in 1883. —(Helen J. Antonovich, Hurley.)

N.Y. Steamboat Co. Warehouse — The warehouse was founded by Robert A. Snyder in 1866 in Saugerties and was a successful firm when the Hudson River steamboating was at its zenith. It still contains original hardware and beams.—(Lillian Surasky, Woodstock.)

Slabsides — John Burroughs, naturalist and author, spent more than half his life at the home he built at West Park. To get away from the restrictions his wife imposed on his work habits, he built a small cabin nearby which he outfitted as a study and called, "Slabsides." —(Lynne Brush, Woodstock.)

Rosendale Trestle — This trestle is the Wallkill Valley Railroad's bridge over the Rondout Creek near Rosendale. The steel bridge has a center span of 105 feet and stands 150 feet above the creek. It is over 900 feet long and was officially opened in 1872. — -(Joyce Pagnucco, Kingston.)

The Fitch Office — Bluestone was first shipped to New York City from Catskill area quarries in the early 1800's. In 1839, Simon and W.B. Fitch, brothers, opened their business to ship bluestone to all major cities in the east. In 1849 the business office was opened on Abeel street. The building was eventually abandoned as the quarrying industry was replaced with Portland cement plants. In 1972 the property was acquired and restored by James J. Berardi.- — (Eleanor Connerton, Hurley.)

D and H Canal — Delaware and Hudson Canal was a prosperous and flourishing waterway built to carry coal from northeast Pennsylvania to New York City and also transported Rosendale cement and passengers. A peak year in 1872, saw the transporting of 2,930,333 tons of coal. The canal was in operation until 1899 when shippers abandoned it in favor of the steam locomotive. — (Cynthia Raymond Silkworth, Glenmont.)

Bristol Glass Factory at Shady — The factory located in Shady operated from 1825. It was a large industry with a sloop and dock at the community of Glasco which received its name from the sign at the office building, Glass Co. Little of the original glass remains. — (Charlotte Reynolds, Shady.)

Kripplebush Cooper — The block depicts a man at his trade in the 1860's. There was a large demand for dry measure barrels from the cement industry in Rosendale. Statistics show the Ogden Rosendale Cement Co. manufactured 100,000 barrels of cement annually. — (Jacqueline Johnson, Kripplebush.)

Unemployed Laurence Salomon scans one of his colored slides collected during two trips to South Africa. His collection of more than 25,000 slides was an invaluable teaching tool during the years he was on the African studies faculty at the State University Collegs at New Paltz.

NO JOB IN SIGHT

'A Prophet Is Without Honor in his Own Country'

Article by phased out New Paltz African Studies teacher hits local news stands Tuesday.

NEW PALTZ — Laurence Salomon is in a position to appreciate the saying: "A prophet is without honor in his own country."

Phased out of his teaching position at the State University College at New Paltz and currently drawing unemployment checks, he will see his 4,200-word article, "South Africa in Our Future," featured as the cover story in the National Review which is slated to hit local news stands Sept. 28. (Tuesday.)

Salomon attracted attention in April when he spent a night in a sleeping bag outside the New Paltz administration building protesting the dismissal of ssven untenured teachers in the African Studies Department. All it netted him was a head cold and a stone wall of silence from the office of Dr. Stanley Coffman Jr., the college president.

Salomon is concerned over the decision to eliminate African studies from the New Paltz curriculum and dismiss the seven faculty members.

"The (present) administration has not supported the investment of previous administrations in African studies," he said. "Even after it was cut back we had the largest program in the State University system, and our library was the largest, too."

Also idled by the decision to cut African affairs was Salomon's collection of 25,000 colored slides, gathered in two trips he took to Africa. Believed to be the largest collection on South Africa in the world, it was an invaluable teaching aid.

Salomon traces the decline of the African studies program to a decision removing it from the required list of studies for all students at the New Paltz campus. At one time the department taught an introductory course in African studies to more than 800 students each year.

The decision to eliminate African studies also affected several school districts which used the New Paltz facilities. A course in Asian-African studies is required in ninth grade social studies courses, and the slide collection, library and faculty expertise were valuable teachimg aids, Salomon believes.

A student who moved to Coney Island from the New Paltz school district even came back for a summer course in African studies, Salomon said.

"The administration didn't know that the African studies program at New Paltz was unique in the State University system," Salomon said. "They didn't know how many graduate students we had. And there was no coordination with the central (SUNY) administration in Albany."

Salomon has a cosmopolitan background that enables him to put South African affairs in proper perspective. Born in Germany in 1933, he fled with his family to England in 1939, living in Wales until 1946. He came to New York City, attended elementary and high schools there, and graduated from City College of New York with a bachelor of arts degree.

Salomon received his master's degree in African studies from the African Center at Boston University with the help of a Ford Foundation grant and then received a Foreign Area Training Fellowship that sent him to South Africa in 1958 for 27 months. He learned the Afrikaan language and was an observer on both sides in ths dispute between Afrikaans- and English-speaking whites then going on.

He returned to Boston University and received his doctorate in 962, then spent four years teaching mathematics in a junior high school in Harlem.

He taught history at Western State College in Gunnison, Colo., for a year and left when offered a position on the African studies faculty at New Paltz, where he remained until his dismissal Aug. 31.

"I was reluctant to leave Colorado, but they had new African studies Facilities at Nsw Paltz and I couldn't turn it down," he said.

Salomon feels the decision to downgrade African studies comes at a particularly critical time, with South Africa embroiled in racial troubles. Especially since ths country has atomic capabilities and will soon begin work on a prototype uranium processing plant near Pretoria.

"Once South Africa has atomic weapons, it will be in a position to defy its enemies— and its friends," he notes in his National Review article. "That it has the will to inflict and endure nuclear holocaust is in as little doubt as that of any of the other nuclear powers."

The problems of accommodating three hostile and differing groups, African, Afrikaans and English, will not be easily solved, he believes. Throw in the nuclear capability and you have a situation that could have worldwide repercussions involving the major powers.

Meanwhile, Salomon has more than enough problems of his own, with a wife and two children to support and no job in sight.

DEAR ABBY

College Is NOT for Everybody

DEAR ABBY: Our middle son, Andy, is a very intelligent young man of 19. He went to college for one year just to please us, then he quit, saying, "I don't want to waste any more of my time and your money."

His grades were fine, but he says he prefers working with his hands. He's now enrolled in a trade school and we're so disappointed in him!

I'm not putting down people who work with their hands, Abby, but it seems to me that people who work with their hands do so because they aren't smart enough to work with their minds.

Andy's father is a professional man, and both of Andy's brothers plan to enter professions.

Please say in your column that a college degree is absolutely necessary these days. After Andy graduates from college he can do anything he chooses, but we desperately want him to have a college degree first. Thank you —ANDY'S MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: I disagree. College is NOT for everybody. If Andy prefers to work with his hands, that's what he should do.

It's not true that people work with their hands because they aren't smart enough to work with their minds. Some handwork requires more skill, talent and know-how than many professions. You do your son a tremendous disservice by telling him he's "disappointed you" and urging him to go to college. Change your tune.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine was married for 22 years when her husband died. Two years later she married another man. That marriage lasted just about a year and ended in divorce.

She calls herself a widow now. In as much as her most current status was that of a divorcee, shouldn't she be calling herself a divorcee instead of a widow?—A FRIEND.

DEAR FRIEND: Technically she's a divorcee, but if she wants to call herself a widow, it's all right with me.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope.

THE REMAINS — A CAP volunteer inspects the charred landing hear of a private jet which crashed in a dense fog near Hot Springs, Va., Sunday, killing all 11 persons on board. The plane, owned by Johnson & Johnson Co., was carrying company executives to a meeting at Hot Springs.

Two Plane Crashes In Dense Fogs Kill 26

By UPI

An Air Force tanker slammed into a wooded area of Michigan's Upper Peninusla Sunday, killing 15 of the 20 men aboard, and an executive jet crashed near a Hot Springs, Va., airfield, killing all 11 persons aboard.

The two crashes were among seven weekend air accidents that killed 42 persons and injured half a dozen.

Six of the accidents occurred Sunday and accounted for 38 of the deaths.

An Air Force KC135 tanker, carrying 15 passengers and a crew of five on a routine training flight from K.I. Sawyer Air Force base in Michigan's Upper Peninsula to Offutt Air Force base in Nebraska, crashed in fog into a densely wooded swamp area near Alpena, Mich.

The fuselage gouged a 100foot crater in the ground and wreckage was strewn along a 50-yard wide path for more than half a mile.

Fifteen of the 20 occupants of the plane were killed. Four of the five survivors were in serious but stable condition and the fifth in good condition.

"It (the plane) suddenly started to go down," Elmer Liske, a Hubbard Lake farmer, who saw the plane flying over low Sunday morning, said. "It blew up, and I saw a big ball of fire, and then it exploded several more times."

Air Force officials said it will take at least a week and possibly several months to determine the cause of the crash.

A Grumman Gulfstream executive jet went down 500 yards short of a resort hotel airfield near Hot Springs, Va., Sunday with 11 persons aboard. The plane was making an instrument approach in bad weather. There were no survivors.

The Civil Air Patrol said rough terrain hampered attempts to recover the bodies.

A single-engine Cessna crashed into the Illinois River at the northeast edge of Peoria, Ill., Sunday, killing all three occupants. The plane crashed shortly after taking off from Mount Hawley Airport near Peoria. Investigators said the plane was shattered on impact with the water and the wreckage was mostly submerged.

Two men flying a single-engine Korean War trainer in an air show were killed Sunday when the craft crashed near the airport at Beatrice, Neb. Officials said the two were flying the plane at low altitude for the benefit of spectators when the crash occurred.

A stunt man was killed Sunday when the experimental plane in which he was riding crashed during an air show at the Shenandoah Valley Airport near Harrisonburg, Va.

In a Saturday night mishap, four men were killed minutes after their twin-engine plane took off from a field near Kent, Wash. Only one of the five persons aboard survived.

A twin-engine airplane crashed and burned shortly after takeoff at Steamboat Springs, Colo., Sunday, killing all six persons aboard. Witnesses said a door of the private plane flew open just after it took off from Steamboat Springs Airport. It then nosedived into the ground and burned.

Troopers Say State Tied Up Funds

LAKE GEORGE (UPI) — The union representing state troopers says some $700,000 appropriated by the legislature to beef up state police patrols was impounded by the state budget director.

Steven Sleurs, a spokesman for the State Police Benevolent Association, charged Saturday night that Budget Director Peter Goldmark "has told the superintendent that there will not be a school to train 100 new men to go on the road. None of this money will be released to help protect the citizens."

Sleurs spoke at a banquet at which four newsmen received awards for stories detailing the effect of budget cuts on trooper coverage statewide.

Future Leaders From Gang

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — A man who helped turn a ghetto youth gang from street fights to social projects says future leaders of Hartford probably will come from their ranks.

"There are only about 300 of them, but they influence about 3,000 kids in the city. If Hartford's future leaders don't come from this group, I don't know where they will come from," John Wardlaw said.

Wardlaw heads a two-year-old pretrial diversion program called Community Resources for Justice Inc.

DEC Begins Check on Hooker Co. Pollutants

ALBANY (UPI) — A team of experts from the Environmental Conservation Department was to arrive in Niagara Falls today to begin checking on exactly what pollutants the Hooker Chemical Co. may have been dumping into the Nigara River.

The possible illegal dumping of pesticides and solvents considered highly toxic was revealed in a copyrighted story in Sunday's Times-Union newspaper in Albany that said the paper had a confidential department list of suspected pollutants.

In its story, the paper said the department was unsure of what Hooker was putting into the river, perhaps for as long as five years, and that the discharges might be in violation of federal Environmental Protection Agency permits.

Union Label

About 40 per cent of all professionals, not counting those self-employed or managers, are now represented by collective bargaining agents. This compares with 25 per cent of all U.S. workers.

But one group of professionals, scientists and engineers, appear to be bucking the trend. The proportion of unionized engineers and scientists is estimated at only 5 per cent, which hasn't changed much over the last 20 years.

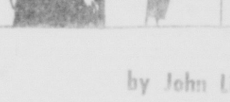
TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.



CAUGHT: (Q.) Well, Mom came home one day and caught Jerry in my bedroom with no shirt, no shoes and no socks on. She figured we were having sex. She got very angry, called him a few names, and told him to leave and never come back.

The problem is that I love Jerry very much, and Mom has taken my car and refuses to give it back until Jerry and I are no longer seeing each other. I've tried talking to her, but she won't reason with me. I need some advice desperately. Please help me. We're both 16 and plan on getting married in two years. — Deprived in Indiana.

(A.) If I had a clear explanation of what Jerry was doing in your bedroom barefoot and shirtless, I might understand better. But you don't explain.

Maybe you haven't given your mother a satisfactory explanation either. From the evidence you havs given me, she is justified in being stern.

Maybe you are holding back some facts. If so, tell her everythlmg. Then, if what she suspects is true, tell her that you have learned from what happened and that it won't happen again. Then ask her to trust you.

Also, keep Jerry out of your bedroom.

OR ELSE: (Q.) My boy friend wants to get married right after graduation. I don't — I want to go to college. He says if we don't get married, he'll never speak to me again.

I love him very much. What should I do? — 18 in Pennsylvania.

(A.) A girl who does not want to get married — no matter what her reasons — should not get married. It's that simple.

If your boyfriend cannot accept your feelings in this matter, let him go. Do not let him force you to do something you think is wrong for you.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

SHOW YOUR STRENGTH THROUGH WEAKNESS

Sometimes the best way to indicate your strength is to know your weakness. This looks like doubletalk, but it really makes good sense in bridge.

Opening lead — ♡ J

West leads the jack of hearts, and East must show his heart weakness by playing the deuce. Very simple, so far.

South leads the king of diamonds, West plays low, and East begins a signal with the six. South leads the queen of diamonds, and West plays low again. East completes his signal by playing the deuce.

South leads a third diamond, and West takes the ace. How can East show his spade strength? The simplest way is to discard a high spade, such as the ten. This is simple, but it allows South to make the contract. East can get only three spade tricks, since South's eight becomes established if East throws away one of his high spades.

CLUB DISCARD

Since East cannot afford to throw a high spade, he must discard the deuce of clubs. This shows East's weakness in clubs after he has already made it clear that he is weak also in hearts and diamonds.

Since only one suit is left, West must lead it and hope for the best. The switch to spades give East five tricks, defeating the contract with a trick to spare.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: ♠AQ1092 ♡642 ◇62 ♣J42. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. If partner has good spades and 17 or 18 points, he will raise to three spades. If he has less, he will pass and you will be in a safe part-score contract.

REHABILITATION — Patty Hearst began serving a seven year sentence for armed bank robbery at the Federal Youth Center, a minimum security institution which concentrates on young and first offenders in Pleasanton, Calif. The facility houses both male and female offenders in a campus-like environment without bars.

Miss Hearst Begins Serving Time

Sentence Shakes Patty

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Patricia Hearst's seven-year sentence on bank robbery charges may turn her into a reluctant grand jury witness against Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris, according to her lawyers.

Al Johnson, one of the newspaper heiress' attorneys, said of the sentence: "It has shaken her confidence in the judicial system, with which she has been cooperating."

Miss Hearst, 22, was expected to be a lead-off witness before the Alameda County Grand Jury today when it begins receiving evidence on the role of the Harrises in her kidnap from a Berkeley, Calif., apartment in February 1974.

Miss Hearst, daughter of San Francisco Examiner President Randolph A. Hearst, was sentenced Friday by U.S. District Court Judge William H. Orrick for her role in an SLA holdup at a San Francisco branch bank 10 weeks after she was kidnaped.

Harris and his wife in a 19count police complaint were charged with being involved in the abduction. They were to appear in Municipal Court on Oct. 7 for a preliminary hearing on the complaint. However, a grand jury indictment would immediately move the case into Superior Court.

F. Lee Bailey, Miss Hearst's chief attorney, said in a motion for bail pending appeal of her robbery conviction:

"Imprisonment of the defendant would result in a substantial loss of effectiveness of the defendant in providing testimony in ancillary criminal proceedings and her ability to provide such testimony would be severely restricted."

In Los Angeles the Harrises were sentenced to 11 years in state prison for a gun battle and kidnap at an Inglewood sporting goods store. Miss Hearst still has to stand trial on the same charges.

Harris was named as one of the men who invaded Miss Hearst's apartment the night of the kidnap. His wife allegedly drove one of the getaway cars.

Miss Hearst's family and attorneys had expected Orrick to give her a lighter sentence, particularly because she has been cooperating with government investigators.

Johnson also pointed out that the sentence was "not consistent with many of the recommendations made by the psychologists at the San Diego federal facility where she had been evaluated."

White Extremist Marchers Arrested in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Using a law designed to curb black unrest, police arrested 36 white extremists for marching on Premier John Vorster's official residence in Pretoria to protest the American plan for black majority rule in Rhodesia.

Those arrested Sunday were among 120 demonstrators belonging to the ultraconservative Herstigte Nasionale Party, which is dedicated to white supremacy.

They were to appear in court in Pretoria today to face charges of holding an illegal meeting, trespassing, and disturbing the peace, police said.

The demonstrators stormed the Vorster residence after hearing a church sermon on the betrayal of Christ by Judas. They demanded to see the man who had "betrayed" Rhodesia in what they claimed was a "sellout."

South Africa's highest ranking police officers, Gen. Gert Prinsloo and Maj. Gen. Mike Geldenhuys, were called in to control the crowd that marched to within 50 yards of Vorster's front door. Seven police trucks and four police dogs also were brought in.

Vorster, who last week mediated in the U.S.-negotiated plan for black majority rule in Rhodesia, declined to come to the door.

Prinsloo warned the protesters they had defied the ban on open-air meetings that was introduced after anti-government violence flared 14 weeks ago in the all-black township of Soweto, 15 miles southwest of Johannesburg.

At least 376 persons have been killed in nationwide rioting since the June 16 uprising.

The protesters ignored Prinsloo's warning to disperse and regrouped to sing South Africa's national anthem. Police then moved in, arresting 36 persons, including deputy party leader Jaap Marais.

Black antigovernment unrest also flared briefly during the weekend. In Guguletu, an all black township skirting the southern port city of Cape Town, about 300 school children stoned police. They also set a bus on fire. In another incident, 20 black school children stoned a bus.

Christian Snipers Fire On Beirut Buffer Zone

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian snipers today opened fire on the buffer zone between Christian and Moslem Beirut, preventing President Elias Sarkis from meeting with Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat and other leftist leaders.

At least 78 persons have died since Sunday in heavy fighting in the suburbs and in downtown Beirut, according to militia and hospital counts.

The heavy sniper fire from the Christian side today raked the treacherous buffer zone around the National Museum where Sarkis has set up temporary offices to meet with leftist leaders.

The leftists and Palestinians cannot travel to the presidential palace at Baabda, deep inside Christian-held territory.

Sarkis met there Sunday with leftist chieftain Kamal Jumblatt, whose motorcade reportedly came under Christian fire as it left the museum, touching off an artillery duel between rightists and leftists.

Three Syrians Hanged

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Three pro-Palestinian terrorists, who shot their way into a downtown luxury hotel, took 90 hostages, and held off police for four hours with a barrage of machine-gun fire, were hanged today in a public ceremony outside the same building.

The three were captured — and their leader was killed — by Syrian troops, who stormed the internationally known Samiramis Hotel, Sunday. Damascus Radio said four hostages died during the gunbattle and another 34 persons, including four Americans, were injured.

Unofficial reports said police and troops also suffered casualties.

The three captured guerrillas, two carrying Jordanian passports and one with Iraqi papers, said on Syrian television Sunday night they were members of the Al Fatah Palestinian guerrilla group — the largest under the Palestine Liberation Organization.

A PLO and Fatah spokesman in Beirut denied "any connection" with the hotel seizure.

The guerrillas said their main objective had been to force Syrian authorities to release 33 persons held on bombing and other terrorism charges stemming from a series of recent attacks on movie theaters, shops and government buildings.

"We had specific instructions to kill the hostages and blow up the hotel if our demands were not met," one of the guerrillas said. They said they had received training in Baghdad.

Damascus Radio said they were charged with "crimes against the security and integrity of our people" and the verdict of death by hanging — outside the same building they had invaded less than 24 hours earlier — was approved by President Hafez Assad.

Hundreds of Damascus citizens who learned about the hangings from an early morning broadcast went to see the dead terrorists. Government sources said the bodies would remain hanging on the gallows until mid-morning.

In a statement broadcast early today, Assad criticized the "behavior of some Palestine Liberation Organization leaders whose main concern is to attack Syria."

Syria and the PLO have been battling in Lebanon since last spring, when Damascus sent 15,000 troops across the border into Lebanon in an effort to halt that country's civil war.

Syrian officials said the dead hostages at the hotel included a Turkish couple whose young child escaped unharmed, and two women — one Arabic and one a "foreigner."

It was not clear if they were slain in the initial guerrilla raid or caught in the crossfire that followed.

The officials said of the 34 injured, 13 were hospitalized and 21 were treated for minor wounds and released.

They refused to identify the four Americans who were slightly injured, except to say one was working for the Syrian government and the other was a journalist.

(In New York, NBC said one of its newsmen, Charles Kestenbaum, was injured in the attack.)

Moynihan Holds Big Lead over Buckley

NEW YORK (UPI) — An independent statewide poll says Democratic challenger Daniel Moynihan has a healthy 13point lead over Sen. James Buckley.

According to the poll commissioned by the Long Island newspaper Newsday and the Rochester, N.Y., based Gannett Newspaper chain, Moynihan led Conservative Republican Buckley 52-39 per cent.

The telephone survey of 2,399 persons was conducted by Research Analysis Corp. of Boston between Sept. 15 and 20, following the Democratic and GOP primaries.

Nine per cent of those interviewed for the poll, published in Sunday's edition of Newsday, said they were undecided.

While the former U.N. ambassador's 13-point spread may have been partly due to the publicity generated by his Sept. 14 primary victory over Rep. Bella Abzug, there was no way to accurately measure this.

Newsday and Gannett have commissioned two more polls to be conducted before the Nov. 2 election.

Moynihan held a 64 per cent to 27 per cent lead in New York City and was ahead by 49-41 in the suburbs of Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester and Rockland Counties, according to the survey. Buckley held a 47-44 edge upstate.

The poll showed Moynihan leading among all age groups and income categories, among both men and women and among blacks and whites.

During Saturday's campaigning, Moynihan criticized Buckley as "a man who consistently and massively and only says 'no' to the tradition of decent liberalism that New York State has always stood for."

Moynihan's speech to about 200 persons at a luncheon in Olean for 39th District Democratic Congressman Stanley Lundine was billed by his office as "the broadest attack yet" upon Buckley in the race which began peacefully but has heated up in the last week.

Buckley spent the day campaigning upstate while his campaign manager, Leonard Saffir, released a letter he had sent to all television stations in the state asking them to set up debates between the two candidates.

Ulster County residents who were expecting Off Track Betting parlors to open today will just have to wait. Donald Groth, president of Catskill Region OTB, says the Mammoth Mall parlor in the Town of Ulster and the parlor in New Paltz at the Shoprite Plaza won't open for an "indefinite" period due to problems with New York Telephone Co. installing a communications system. In New Paltz, at least, it looks like OTB needs more than some direct dial extensions to get in the running. This morning, Rondout Electric employe Mickey Orphan had the place pretty much to himself as he worked on the parlor's wiring system.

Court House Heat Will Go On

Union Lets Workers Pass

KINGSTON — The heat's on in the county Court House — or at least it will be in about two days.

Building and Construction superintendent Kennth J. Whispell said this morning that the anticipated freeze of judicial proceedings because of a union work slowdown in the building's heating cooling tower has just about melted into thin air.

Sheet Metal Workers Local 38 has agreed to walk its informational picket line in front of only one gate of the Court House-County Jail renovation site, leaving members of other, sympathetic unions free to enter for work by another gate.

"It appears that under state law a union can only picket the gate being used by the contractor they have a grievance against," explained Whispell.

In this case the local is protesting against a subcontractor on the job, Ahead Construction, which is a non-union shop. Ahead has already agreed to hire union sheet-metal workers to complete the cooling tower job, but Local 38 wants a union foreman on the job as well.

Members of other unions working on the building had been participating in an unauthorized slowdown by honoring the picket line.

"Everyone has returned to work now," commented Whispell, who had been concerned about the onset of cold weather before iron workers could complete building the frame of the essential cooling tower.

The tower is located on the roof of a connecting lobby between the Court House and the old jail.

The entire court house porject includes the renovation of the exsiting building as well as changes to the adjacent jail which will now be used for additional court rooms and a library, among other things.

Civil Service Fix Ready

KINGSTON — The Ulster county Civil Service Commission meets Tuesday afternoon to approve a final plan of action aimed at correcting inadquecies in local administration.

The commission is coming in just under the wire of an October 1 deadline laid down by the state Civil Service agency. That body issues issued a strongly worded July 16 report of Ulster that evaluated its program as generally poor and declining from a "fair" rating issued in 1973.

Since that time the county commission has been actively pursuing a corrective course toward improving its administration of personnel placement, salaries and job examination.

Part of that process included the approval of a personnel technician position for the agency by the county legislature in August.

Applications for an exam to fill the partially state-funded job are now being taken by the commission.

The lengthy and specific state report which prompted this local action included criticism of failure to perform evaluations of competitive exempt positions; listing a number of employes as part time when their paychecks exceeded the salary limits for such categories; improper authorization of non-competitive promotion exams and a variety of discrepencies in salary within the same towns, departments and categories.

The commission will give the nod to their two-month in the making corrective at plan at 2:30 p.m. in the county office building.

Charles Kelly Plans Retirement

KINGSTON — Charles J Kelly, a plumber with a long and colorful career, has informed Mayor Francis R. Koenig he will retire Oct. 29 as city plumbing inspector.

In the plumbing and heating trades for 52 years, Kelly was named plumbing inspector in January, 1960, by Mayor Edwin F. Radel.

Kelly started his plumbing career with the late Frederick Dressel in 1924, when one of his first jobs was the installation of gas lights in a Green Street residence.

There were no power tools in those early days, Kelly recalled, and most of the work was done by hand. He especially remembered rooting out clogged sewers with a hand cable.

"This was a dirty, smelly job, and we all chewed tobacco to ward off catching any disease," Kelly said, recalling that his brand of chew was Mullins Higgensville Hay.

Plumbers candles were used for light when working in dark areas, and soldering irons were heated in glowing charcoal pots.

During the Prohibition Era, plumbers were sometimes called out on "undercover work" — installing copper in the numerous apple jack stills that flourished in the area.

"The pay for this work was good, but we were sworn to secrecy — or else," Kelly said.

Kelly received his master plumber's license in 1936 and ran his own plumbing and heating business until 1942, when he entered the U.S. Air Force for assignment to the Transport Command, North Atlantic Wing.

From 1944 to 1960, he was a member and officer of Plumbers Local Union 223, serving as vice president, recording secretary and executive board chairman, and as delegate to the Ulster County Building Trades Council.

He was foreman for the local on a number of large jobs in the area, including the IBM plant, Benedictine Hospital and New Paltz College.

In 1953, Kelly was licensed by the state to teach plumbing and heating in adult education courses at Kingston High School, BOCES and Public School No. 4.

A Kingston native, Kelly is past vice president and treasurer of the Democratic Men's Club, a 30-year American legion member, past treasurer and recording secretary of Excelsior Hose Co., a mem-

7 Planes Crashed Over the Weekend

There were seven plane crashes over the weekend in seven different states. The worst accident occurred Sunday in a wooded area of Michigan's Upper Peninsula—an Air Force tanker crashed, killing 15 of 20 men aboard. Four of the five survivors were in serious but stable condition and the fifth in good condition.

Also Sunday, 11 persons were killed in an executive jet that went down 500 yards short of an airfield near Hot Springs, Va., 3 occupants of a single-engine Cessna were killed in Peoria, Ill., two men died at Beatrice, Neb., a stunt man was killed when his plane crashed near Harrisonburg, Va., and six persons were killed as their plane crashed and burned at Steamboat Springs, Colo.

Democrats Issue Gloomy Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a report issued Saturday, 12 Democrats on the Congressional Joint Economic Committee took a gloomy view of the future of the economy and called for government action to create jobs.

The majority of Republicans, on the other hand, urged the government not to meddle with the economy. They took an optimistic view in reasserting "confidence in the economic recovery and faith in the free market system."

Census Says Poor In U.S. Growing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Bureau says the number of poor people in the United States increased by a dramatic 2.5 million in 1975, a sharp percentage increase from 11.3 per cent of the population in 1974 to 12.3 per cent last year.

The bureau, in its annual income report released this weekend, said 25.88 million persons in America had incomes below the poverty line of $5,500 last year. Only 14.1 per cent of all families had incomes above $25,000.

Corsicans Fighting Against French Rule

CORTE, Corsica (UPI) — Anti-French feeling on Corsica erupted into violence Sunday and a French Foreign Legion soldier was hit by a burst of gunfire as he drove his Jeep past a roadblock formed by townspeople demanding withdrawal of all Foreign Legion units 'from their island. The soldier was reported in satisfactory condition.

There also was a plastic bomb attack on the home of the Legion commander, causing only minor damage. No arrests were made.

SS Checks Arrive on Friday

KINGSTON — Social Security checks, normally delivered on the third of each month to Ulster County recipients, will be delivered Friday, Oct. 1, instead.

George Habernig, district manager of the Kingston Social Security office, said the early delivery this week was because of a change in delivery policy.

Social Security checks will now be delivered on a Friday whenever the third of the month falls on a Saturday or Sunday. The same schedule will apply to beneficiaries who have their Social Security checks deposited directly in a bank or other financial insitution.

According to Habernig, almost 3,000 beneficiaries are using the direct deposit service locally.

Before the new Friday delivery policy was initiatied, checks were delivered on Saturday when Saturday was the third of the month, but many people had to wait until Monday to cash their checks.

"We'll be back to the regular third of the month delivery date in November, since that day falls in the middle of the week," Habernig said.

Ailing Wine Industry Is Promised Boost

PENN YAN, N.Y. (UPI) — New York State plans an all-out effort to bolster its ailing wine industry, according to Lt. Gov. Mary Ann Krupsak.

Speaking Sunday at the annual Finger Lakes Grape Festival in this Yates County community, Miss Krupsak said state officials are "working on promotions and marketing" to "expand people's awareness" of New York wines.

"More and more people should know about New York State wines and we are going to do something about it," she added.

Miss Krupsak spent the weekend touring wineries throughout the state.

For the second straight year, New York's grape growers face a gloomy fall harveat of low prices and sales. Many wineries in the state still have large juice supplies left over from last year and can buy only limited quantities of grapes this year at low prices.

Miss Krupsak called for short-term licenses for selling wines, wines sales in grocery stores and higher taxes on imported wines.

"We plan on introducing state legislation for some of these changes and we need to get together with our congressional delegation for federal action," she said. She also urged people to buy domestic, rather than foreign, wines.

At one point, Miss Krupsak donned firemen's boots and jumped into a vat of Concord grapes for her first try at grape stomping.

Ford Entourage Had Towel Thief

MIAMI (UPI) — Reporters with President Ford's weekend motorcade in the Gulf Coast looked into the White House limousine and nudged each other.

In the back seat lay two familiar gold-colored towels. The press and the President used the same hotel (Hyatt Regency) in New Orleans Saturday night and the towels spotted in the limousine Sunday were from that hostelry.

The President had good use for the towels. It was so hot in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama that hundreds of the thousands of the men at roadside were shirtless. And Ford sweated so much he changed shirts four times during the tristate motorcade.

Government Issuing Ghost Guide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is publishing a new guidebook — for vacationers interested in exploring abandoned mines and ghost towns.

The booklet, entitled "Mining and Mineral Operations in the Pacific States: A Visitor Guide," is the first in a series of six, which will cover various regions of the country.

According to an announcement from the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines Sunday, "The colorful, illustrated booklet identifies many historic and modern sites associated with minerals or mineral production in California, Oregon, Washington and Alaska and Hawaii."

Describing ghost towns, abandoned mining camps and mines of the past and present, the series will "be an aid to state and local officials, Chambers of Commerce and mining firms in answering some of the questions of tourists and students," it said.

Cardinal Cooke Reaffirms Abortion Stand

Catholic Church Said Only Politically Neutral

NEW YORK (UPI) — Terence Cardinal Cooke, in a rare address from the pulpit of St. Patrick's Cathedral, told Roman Catholics Sunday that their church is neutral politically but not morally — particularly where abortion is concerned.

The head of the 1.8-million-member Archdiocese of New York emphasized that "the church is not endorsing or approving" any political candidate in this election year.

"However, it is also true that the church is not neutral with regard to basic human rights and especially the right to life of the unborn child," he told members of the Guild of Catholic Lawyers and others attending the annual Red Mass for members of the judiciary. The ceremony is named after the red robes judges wore in the middle ages.

Calling abortion "the killing of a child," Cardinal Cooke, chairman of the Bishops' Committee for Pro-Life Affairs, expressed support for an amendment to the Constitution providing protection for the unborn.

"The American people cannot afford to be silent when more than one million unborn babies are destroyed each year," he said.

The cardinal refused to meet with reporters following the service. But, Msgr. Eugene V. Clark, spokesman for the archdiocese, said Cardinal Cooke decided to give his address "because commentators have been talking about the church entering politics, which it hasn't."

Monsignor Clark said the church would "never lean" toward one candidate or party "but abortion is evil and we must put pressure on all candidates to see the enactment of this amendment." He refused to say what form the "pressure" might take.

The Republican platform calls for a constitutional amendment on the rights of the unborn; the Democrats say such an amendment would not be appropriate.

However, William vanden Heuvel, co-chairman of the New York Citizens for Carter, said that as a Catholic and on the basis of Cardinal Cooke's guidelines, he would "vote for Jimmy Carter," who has said he personally does not approve of abortion, but feels it is an individual right.

Rep. Edward I. Koch, D,L-N.Y., who attended the mass, said he applauded the cardinal's message.

The Jewish congressman, who supports the U.S. Supreme Court decision permitting abortion, said Cardinal Cooke has "stated the positon of the church in a way that is acceptable to everyone."

"My morality must decide what I do, or I'm not a moral man," he said.

Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., also praised the address. "There's no question the cardinal made the position of the church quite clear — neutrality."

Biaggi lauded the cardinal's call for a constitutional amendment, saying it would be the "only way all the people of America will have an opportunity to express their views on this very important issue. I can't understand why Congress isn't allowing this for the people of America."

Wheelchair Titlist

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Five years ago, William Barry sat crying while he watched the Miss America Pageant on television.

"If only my daughter could walk, she'd be Miss America," he said at the time.

Saturday night, the Barry cried again, but this time it was for joy as he watched his daughter, Beverly Marie Chapman, being crowned Miss Wheelchair America, a title first bestowed in 1972.

A science research secretarial assistant from Orlando, Fla., Miss Chapman was chosen from a field of 32 pageant entries from the United States, Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic.

The other finalists were Mae Frances De Clue of Atlanta; Shelia Gilbert, a student at Auburn University; Susan M. Stephenson, a University of Montana student; and Crescencia "Ging" Knudson of Mesa, Ariz.

Patricia K. Simonds of Spencer, W.Va., was picked by the other contestants as Miss Congeniality.

Frozen Yogurt: Biggest Hit Since The Banana Split

By UPI

To Europeans, who have been wolfing down yogurt for 2,000 years, the thought of freezing it is revolting, but to more and more Americans, the new confection is the greatest innovation since the banana split.

Along the Eastern Seaboard, frozen yogurt stands are springing up like toadstools after a rainstorm, offering a new spur for the jaded palate and for weight-watchers, since yogurt contains about 57 per cent fewer calories than ice cream.

But frozen yogurt's success story is no instant epic. Actually, it might be called a tale of two yogurts — one that boomed and one that bombed. The boomer was born in 1972 in Boston's Harvard Square. The bomber came to light in the same year when a Los Angeles salesman needed something to fill the paper cylinders he was trying to market.

Alan J. Phillips, then of Boston, now of Los Angeles, was the man who bore the first standard for the new confection in the East.

"It was one uphill battle," he said. "We couldn't give the stuff away. In fact, we did give the machines away, so we could sell the mix."

Phillips' "mix" was the brainchild of Walter Simonson, of Boston. He was the first to come up with the idea of running yogurt through a soft ice cream machine for service in a cone. Harvard students loved it, but they were alone.

Phillips, who agreed to tackle the distribution problem for H.P. Hood Dairy Co., of which Simonson then was an employe, hit his first pay dirt in a most unlikely marketplace — New York City's fashionable Bloomingdale's department store.

Bloomingdale customers devoured the first 2,400 gallons of mix in two hours . . .

Bloomingdale's was opening a new boutique and wanted a small health food bar "just for atmosphere." Phillips convinced them the new concoction was the promotion they needed.

Bloomingdale customers devoured the first 2,400 gallons of mix in two hours and the store called for more.

"They kept sending for so much more I sent a guy over to see what was going wrong because I thought the equipment was leaking or they were throwing it away by mistake or something," said Phillips. "They weren't. It was selling like crazy and it's been doing that ever since."

The West Coast variety — frozen solid and impaled on a stick within a paper cylinder like a popsicle — has enjoyed no such acclaim.

"We started out using them to make sherbert push-ups," said John Gosney, marketing vice president for Knudson's, southern California's largest yogurt producer. "They didn't sell very well, and the guy, who made the tubes (a company salesman), suggested we try yogurt."

Gosney said the yogurt popsicles have seen a "steady but modest" increase in sales at supermarkets, but he admitted the record has been far from spectacular.

In Europe, consumers never heard of frozen yogurt. In fact, they don't even want to discuss it.

Europeans eat, drink and bake yogurt. They put it on rice, stir it into meat sauce, use it for salad dressing and prescribe it for stomach ailments and great longevity.

But freeze it?"

"How revolting," said one Londoner when the issue was explained.

"Gelato (ice cream) is king of the cones," was the report from Rome.

House Moves to Expell Hinshaw

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is adjournment week for Congress, barring unforeseen delays, and members face a busy five days with votes expected on foreign aid, possible veto overrides and a move in the House to expel one member.

The House, joining the Senate in the drive for final adjournment of the 94th Congress by Oct. 2, set as its final business Friday a vote on whether to expel Rep. Andrew Hinshaw, RCalif., because of his conviction for taking bribes while he was the Orange county (Calif.) tax assessor.

Rep. Charles Wiggins, RCalif., drafted the expulsion resolution which, if passed on a simple majority vote, would be the first such action since 1967 when Adam Clayton Powell was thrown out of the House for misuse of committee funds.

Before the Hinshaw matter at week's end, the House planned to take up the foreign aid appropriations measure, which totals $5.1 billion for the 1977 fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

As a contingency, a resolution that would continue funding at last year's level until March, 1977, of any program not getting its 1977 appropriations will be brought up after the foreign aid measure.

This so-called "continuing resolution," also would be in place if Congress fails to override President Ford's expected veto of the big Labor-Health, Education and Welfare money bill now on his desk.

Ford may also decide this week about signing the massive tax revision bill, a $3.7 billion public works employment appropriations measure and a one-year extension of the public service jobs program.

National Search On For School Super

BOICEVILLE — The Onteora Central School District will conduct a nationwide search for a replacement for Superintendent Frank M. Marlow.

Dr. William Phelan, former district superintendent of schools in Suffolk County, and Dr. Fred Ambellan, former superintendent in several New York State school districts, will conduct the search under the auspices of Guidslinez, an executive search firm for schools and industry.

The two men plan a series of sessions with the board of education and will also meet with various Onteora civic groups, including PTA's, the Booster Club, Onteora Citizens Committee, Onteora Teachers Association, and various others.

The meetings will help bring into focus the kind of person needed for the job, the community's advantages and priority problems, strengths and weaknesses of local school programs and concerns which face the district's educational staff, officials said.

The consultants will prepare an announcement describing the district and community and outlining desired qualifications and esssntial abilitiss needed in a new chief school administrator. Copies will be sent to university placement officials, selected State Education Department officials and foundation heads, and to leaders of major administrative associations inviting them to nominate outstanding candidates.

The search team will narrow the field to a panel of about five candidates and the board will schedule visits and interviews with them. Hopefully the process will be completed by Jan. 15.

The process is designed to bring to the school district a chief administrator selected upon merit, who is clearly the most outstanding, highly skilled and successful superintendent for the Onteora school district," a spokesman said.

Marlow, dismissed earlier in the year by the board but reinstated by an order of the Commissioner of Education, will leave the superintendent's post June 30.

Woodstockers Demand Rezoning

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Freeman staff

WOODSTOCK — There is not a single trailer park in all of Woodstock's seven sprawling hamlets. And according to town clerk Marjorie Harder, "Only four or five individual house trailers in the entire township have received trailer permit renewals."

Neither of those facts have deterred two long-time local residents, Frank and Kiki Minervini, from continuing their push to construct a trailer park on their Route 212 property between the Art Students League campus and the Zena Road.

Their application to build Woodstock's first park for mobile homes was denied by both the Ulster County Planning Board and the Woodstock Zoning Board of Appeals. The proposal violated the density requirements of the local zoning ordinance, both boards maintained.

The united front against their attempt to seek a variance of the ordinance to rezone their land for mobile homes has led to an entirely new tactic on their part. Since the more than six acres involved is now zoned Residential-Agricultural, allowing one building unit on two acres, the Minervinis have just applied for Residential zoning, allowing one unit on three-fourths acre.

They argue that the agricultural classification is a misnomer. "You couldn't even grow a tomato here," they said. "Our property has never been used for farming. There was a time when quarrymen lived here and worked the bluestone banks near the house. So, it's in keeping that we be zoned residential, but it's not just that we be zoned agricultural."

The Minervinis want to put six trailers on more than seven acres of land where two permanent houses already exist. The planning and zoning boards contend that constitutes overcrowding on property zoned for two-acre housing in a town where three-acre housing is not unusual.

Not so, insisted the Minervinis, pointing out that the two closest houses to the east and west of their home are both located on less than one acre of land.

"We ask the same rights as our neighbors," they said. "Their under-an-acre homes are more easily salable than our property which should be rezoned into smaller parcels. The purchase price of two acres is difficult for many people. Offering the easier purchase of three-fourths acre is in keeping with federal and state law that a town must provide low income housing, which Woodstock does not.

Does the new tack mean they've given up their trailer park plans?

"Not necessarily," said Mrs. Minervini. "But, if we must abandon the trailer park, we can at least sell our land more easily to help pay our taxes. And, if we don't get three-fourths acre rezoning for residential use, there's always the possibility of raising 250 pigs, or 300 sheep, or training 150 dogs on our agricultural property. A lot of people would probably prefer a few trailers to that prospect."

The Minervinis see still another option open to them. If they are refused residential rezoning to three-fourths acre, they could reapply for a zoning change to commercial. After all, they pointed out, the town board recently rezoned six acres of property owned by developer Richie Mellert in Zena from residential to commercial.

"Every time get turned down, said Mrs. Minervini, "we feel it's another weapon in our hands. It would seem to prove prejudice, to my way of thinking, if Mellert was permitted to build four stores on six acres, when all we want is six trailers on the same amount of land."

The town board has avoided the issue by forwarding the new Minervini request to the planning board, where it could be stalled for months in another round of hearings.

IDA Names Are Filed For State

KINGSTON — The five men appointed by the county legislature to serve on the newly established Ulster county Industrial Development Agency now have their names formally filed with the New York Department of State.

Legislative chairman Peter J. Savago, R. Dist.8, submitted the list of names approved at the September 9 meeting.

Chairman of IDA, which has independent powers, including the right to float bond issues and enter the county into development agreements, is Kingston resident Alfred J. Ford.

Ford is a resident manager of First Albany Corp., a local banking and brokerage firm, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee and director of the Kingston Industrial Development Corp.

Gordon Kreth is a new Paltz real estate broker and member of the Ulster County Board of Realtors.

Also serving at the pleasure of the legislature is Joseph Russo of Milton, a fruit grower and owner of an apple storage facility. Russo is an administrator of the Valley Growers Inc., a labor cooperative and is active in the agricultural field.

Woodstock Budget Ready For Airing and Cutting

WOODSTOCK — Presentation of Woodstock's preliminary budget for 1977 had been delayed pending action by area lawmakers on a possible takeover of home relief costs of towns by the county.

"There was a long delay on the county's part," said supervisor Val Cadden, "and we to see what the legislature would do about welfare before preparing our budget. We also wanted lots of feedback from the public on our welfare problem and its impact on ths budget."

Woodstock now has both. The legislature on Thursday night voted down a resolution that would have turned administration of home relief over to the county. And Woodstock residents have contributed some input to the town board at informational discussions and in local newspapers.

The preliminary budget is being readied for presentation Oct. 5 at 8 p.m. in town hall. "It's an uncut budget only," explained Cadden, "based on what each department has asked for. We're submitting it to the public before going into adjusting and cutting."

The supervisor, who also serves as unpaid welfare officer of the town, faces a problem on that department's budget. She has projected Woodstock's welfare costs for next year at between $200,000 and $300,000. The town collected only $319,000 in taxes last year, and a minimum home relief budget of $200,000 in 1977 would immediately increase by $100,000.

Other economic concerns are also up for discussion currently in Woodstock. The supervisor noted that a meeting of the Economic Development Committee will be held Oct. 4 at 8 p.m. in Town Hall.

The recently formed group was given the task of creating employment opportunities in the art colony, where jobs are few and far between.

Money matters, too, will play a part in a discussion between the Woodstock and Shandaken town boards. Cadden said Shandaken wants to be a "partner" in Woodstock's landfill. Town officials will meet this Tuesday night with Department of Environmental Conservation reprssentatives to discuss the possibility of both communities sharing one landfill. And, said Cadden, "With our budget problems, we may want to consider the partnership, since our dump is in good shape."

Free Choice on Abortions

Dear Editor:

Concerning Eleanor Kurtz's reply to your editorial on abortion, she said, and I quote, "First, I fail to understand how the Supreme Court, presided over by nine men can have the power to decide who lives or dies."

Mrs. Kurtz, they do NOT have the power to decide. They gave THAT choice to the pregnant woman and I would like to repeat again what I wrote to the editor of the Freeman years ago in answer then to a member of the "Right to Life" organization. I personally want to thank the Supreme Court for giving me the right to make the decision as to whether to have an abortion or not. I am the mother of three children and fortunately have never had the need for an abortion, but as a human being, I certainly have understanding and compassion to those that must make that decision.

Anti-McHugh Effort Well Funded

Dear Editor:

From a bulletin just received from the The National Committee for an Effective Congress (NCEC) signed by Senators Frank Church and Philip A. Hart it appears that there is to be a massive infusion of outside funds and interests to unseat Congressman McHugh and others in the forthcoming election.

This shocking document discloses that as of June 30, 1976, 11 organizations — most prominently the American Medical Association with over 3 million dollars— had committed over $200,000 apiece toward the overturning of elections in 75 congressional contests throughout the country NCEC says that " already in a special election in Texas the national radical right and big business raised $350,000 to elect a new extremist Congressman — the most expensive campaign in Congressional history."

I believe in everybody's right to have his own say — -right, left, or middle — but I resent very much this kind of expensive, outside, underhanded interference, particularly when it's directed against our own Congressmn, Matt McHugh, who has done an especially good job in covering and representing this sprawling and difficult district.

Dear Editor:

Another school year has rolled around, and again the Retarted children are on the bottom of the list. I am referring to the task force recommendations that the superintendants agreed to abide by. The two classes in the Rosendale building were promised to be re-located in a junior or senior high school for the 1976-77 school year. Again they are isolated from other children at the Rosendale building. Do you really feel this is fair to these children?

Just because they are retarded doesn't mean that they don't enjoy doing the things normal children enjoy The two classes at the Marbletown school prove that our children have been accepted and they do interact with the other children. This has been a tremendous experience for all!

The isolation of the children at Rosendale School is like medieval times when people used to lock their retarded children in the attic. How much longer are you going to "lock our children in the attic?" They deserve better!

If they were normal children, you would have found room for them years ago Again I say, why must we as parents of retarded children fight for the educational needs of our children when normal children are granted these services as part of their basic education?

We want two classrooms with other children in a junior or senior high school. We only want the standard services for our children that normal children get, plus the few extra services like speech therapy that some children need every day. We want them to be able to use the cafeteria with the normal children, which the two classes at Marbletown have not yet been allowed to do. We want them to have an art teacher. I really don't think that's too much to ask for.

Leroy V. Goodman, executive secretary for National Advisory Committee on Handicapped calls Public Law 94-142 a blockbuster. He states that "It opens the way for the nations schools to broaden their horizons, no longer focusing their operations soley on 'regular' students, but giving equal consideration to those with handicaps."

Gentlemen, would you please read this letter at your next BOCES board meeting. I would appreciate some answers so I can give some answers to the parents.

Finkle Allegations Unfair

Dear Editor:

In fairness to Harold E. Finkle and to set the record straight, I have a responsibility to reply to the recent letter from Bernie Singer in which he cited Harry Hoffman's criticism of Mr. Finkle's performance on the Catskill Study Commission.

As former chairman of the Study Commission, I read the letter with disbelief. The charge that Mr. Finkle's work on the Commission was not good just has to result from Mr. Singer and Mr. Hoffman not being sufficiently informed as the the facts.

Contrary to the accusation, Mr. Finkle was a top performer on the commission. He did his homework. He was exceptionally knowledgeable of the problems of the Catskill region. His numerous contributions to the commission's work were constructive, wise and forward-looking. His dedication was outstanding. As all of this is widely known throughout the Catskill region, I am distrssed that it has been so misrepresented in this instance.

I am sure that both Mr. Singer and Mr. Hoffman, upon reflection, will agree that the Catskill Study Commission did not go under due to the quality of its work— nor for Mr. Finkle's alleged deficiencies — but rather because of political failure in Albany to agree on who should be members of the successor commission it recommended.

It is both unfortunate and unfair that Mr. Finkle's strong record with the study commission be distorted in the heat of political contest.

Other People's Libidos

WASHINGTON - "Off the cuff, that's a very foolish thing for anyone to say," the Rev. George Docherty, pastor emeritus of Washington's New York Avenue Church, was quoted in The Washington Post when invited to discuss fellow clergyman Jimmy Carter's interpretation of the Commandment about adultery. "There is a distinction between witting lust and unwitting lust. It is not holier-than-thou to condemn another man for shacking down with another man's wife."

The only news here is that while Baptists and others customarily shack up, Presbyterians apparently shack down. It is a distinction in moral theology which may rival the terrible controversy which raged among the fourth century Fathers of the Church over whether the Homoiousians or the Homoousians were right. Since the two political parties are having such Sturm und Drang trying to find an issue on which they clearly disagree, the Rev. Mr. Docherty may havs saved the election from absolute meaninglessness by having come up with one.

In Rev. Carter's interview in Playboy, where he refused to come out in favor of depriving proven adulterers of their civil rights, he revealed himself to be an upshacker. At least he is quoted as refusing to condemn a man "who not only looks upon a woman with lust (i.e. ogles) but who leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock."

Ron Nessen, President Ford's media spokesperson, pointed out that Carter had hidden his upshackistic tendencies throughout the entire primary campaign. This is another example of Carter's fuzziness, Nessen indicated. When asked the President's position on the issue, Nessen said there would be no White House statement on the matter and directed reporters to examine Mr. Ford's long record on the question. Mr. Ford has long been considered a down-shacker, so that members of the White House press corps taken by surprise when the President said that if he ever caught Daddy's little girl Suzy shackin' up or down, "I'd protest in most vigorous way and I'd counsel her." It was not immediately clear whether Mr. Ford meant by counseling her that he'd send Henry Kissinger over on a shuttle to give her sex education or what.

There is a tumescent feeling in the Republican camp that the voting public will react very badly that Carter, a duly ordained peanut, would confess to concupiscence, hard breathing, dry mouth and hankering after. Carter didn't say in his Playboy interview if he's gone as far as fantazising, although Bob Dole told a convention of indicted grain dealers in Memphis that Carter's fantasies are so rich that he had no chance of balancing the budget. Carter's wife Rosalynn, told NBC news that she stands by her husband and considers Senator Dole's imputations to excessive fantisizing personally offensive and no credit to Dole, a divorced, recently remarried man. Carter's mother was quoted by the Associatied Press saying, "Outta here, you sex -crazed, Northern white trash reporter. The second Mrs. Dole also issued a statement saying she would stand by her husband although she refused to explain why.

It is known that Secretary of the Treasury William Simon is urging President Ford to widen his proposed anti-abortion amendment to bar pre- and extra-marital sex. By placing sex under the direct jurisdiction of the federal government, Simon argues, the ground will be cut out from under administration critics who're saying this is a crock topic which doesn't belong in a presidential campaign. Attorney General Levi is siding with Simon because he thinks if s------ (it's Carter's word and they printed on page one of the

Crime does pay. A good example is Albert Speer. He is referred to as Adolf Hitler's "personal architect, confidant and protege; Reich Minister for Armaments and War Production, and second most powerful man in Nazi Germany."

He was convicted of war crimes at Nuremburg and escaped with his life. Lesser figures were hanged. But Speer, who kept Germamy well-armed after her cities were in ruins, who, let us concede, kept the war going, got 20 years in Spandau prison.

In the final months, it was Speer's tanks, Speer's jet fighters, Speer's long-range guns which kept killing Americans, British and Russians long after the Nazi war had been lost for Germany.

Speer served his time. He tended a garden in the prison yard. It was he who found a young prison employee, a Dutchman named Anton Vlaer, who would violate strict prison rules and sneak out anything the architect would write.

"Up to now," Speer writes, "I have operated on the assumption that in prison all I have to do is to survive; that I will not be able to accomplish anything meaningful until the 20 years are up. Now I am obsessed with the idea of using this time of confinement for writing a book of major importance..."

He wrote two. The Nazi armaments minister emerged from Spandau with his "Inside the Third Reich," which became a bestseller in several nations, and another one, "Spandau, The Secret Diaries." He didn't have a dime when he left prison, but he is now richer than when he worked for Hitler.

His American publisher alone (Macmillan) made him wealthy with book club royalties. Three times I have been to Berlin and never met a German who voted for Hitler. All Germans thought he looked like Charlie Chaplin.

Speer writes: "When I entered into close proximity to Hitler, and soon afterwards began seeing him every day, my relationship to him far more resembled that of an architect toward an admired patron than of a follower toward a political leader.... Today, after all that has happened, the once so familiar face of Hitler seems horrible to me."

Psnance is the only luxury a sinner can afford. Speer saw the banners demanding a final solution to the "Jewish problem," but the self-proclaimed intellectual thought of them as party slogans, not as masses of ovens and gas showerheads and thousands of Jews digging graves for millions of their wives and children.

In prison he worried about what his daughter Hilde would think of him. "What will she find harder to take: that I was Hitler's architect who not only built his palaces and halls of fame, but also provided the party rally decorations that gave him the backdrop for his acts of mass hypnosis; or that I was his Minister of Armaments, director of his war-machinery and employer of an army of slaves?"

Those are small errors of judgment. Speer worries about important matters: "The American director has informed us that hs intends to have us taught basket-making. To our minds that is a discriminatory act and incompatible with the Nuremburg sentences. We were not sentenced to the penitentiary or to forced labor."

He violated the prison rules, writing on toilet paper, which is a crude commentary on his work, and smuggled it out. "But is it true," he wrote, "that Hitler was the great destructive force in my life? Sometimes it seems to me as though I also owed to him all the surges of vitality, dynamism, and imagination that gave me the sense that I was soaring up above the ground on which everyone else was condemned to stand.

"And what do I mean when I say he took away my good name? Would I have had any name at all but for him? Paradoxically, I might actually say that this is the one thing he did give me and never again will be able to take from me."

Remarkable. A man who kills one person is executed. A man whose genius provides machines which kill millions of men is spared to make a fortune writing books about it.

I forget what Albert Speer used to write his toilet paper books. It might have been a corkscrew....

A Break For The Tax Cheats

WASHINGTON — Over the stro protests of his own enforcement officia Internal Revenue Commissioner Dona Alexander last year struck a key questi off the income tax forms. The questio which simply asked the taxpayers whet er they maintained a foreign account, w intended to catch tax evaders.

Big-time criminals, from corporate ex bezzlers to mobsters, use secret foreig bank accounts to escape paying U. taxes. The taxes they avoid, of cours must be made up by the honest ta payers.

The question about foreign bank a counts has been used by the IRS to tr tax cheaters. In the biggest tax hav case in history, for example, Ohio bus nessman Jack Payner has been indicte for falsely answering "no" to the questio

Yet Alexander began maneuvering remove the foreign bank account questi from the tax form even before he w sworn in as Internal Revenue cor missioner. It is an interesting coinciden that his former Cincinnati law firm h been linked to a tax haven bank in t Bahamas.

An informant in the Bahamas swiped Rolodex off the desk of Michael Wolste groft, director of the Castle Bank a Trust. Three cards on the Rolodex co tained names of lawyers in Alexande old firm. We were able to reach only o of the attorneys, who said he had no id how his name got on the Rolodex.

On May 22, 1973, exactly one we before Alexander took his oath of offic he began a behind-the-scenes campai to eliminate the foreign bank accou question from the tax forms. He fo warded a letter, dealing with an unrelat subject, from a South Carolina lawyer the IRS committee that deals with t forms. In an accompanying memo, i tended for official eyes only, Alexand brought up the foreign bank accou question.

He followed the memo with pressure remove the troublesome question fro the tax forms. This was opposed by h enforcement people. John Olszewsk then the IRS intelligence chief, wrote a confidential memo: "The loss of th (question) would seriously restrict o efforts to identify those who would u foreign banking facilities in avoidan and evasion schemes."

A similar memo from Edward Morga then the assistant treasury secretary charge of emforcement, also advis Alexander that the question "is a fact in the Treasury Department's efforts combat the use of foreign bank accoun to facilitate illegal activities." Morg added sternly that "dropping it from t tax returns at this time would be counte productive."

Yet Alexander ignored the advice of t law enforcement experts and finally su ceeded in removing the question in Jun 1975. The notes of the confidential IF meeting indicate that he didn't ev consult the Treasury and Justice Depar ments before finally striking the questi off the tax forms. Alexander's attitu was betrayed by his remarks to a gro of public accountants. "We have knock out the foreign bank account question long last," he told them.

Footnote: An IRS spokesman admitt there had been disagreement over t question's removal but insiste Alexander's actions were beyond r proach. Meanwhile, Rep. Charles Vani D.-Ohio, has introduced legislation th would force the IRS to reinstate t foreign bank account question.

SUSPICIOUS THAIS: The Thai go ernment is quietly investigating a que tionable deal between a Thai airline a a U.S. aircraft manufacturer.

The Thais want to find out why t airline, Thai International, paid McDo nell Douglas Corp. $2 million more p plane than was charged to other airway Thai investigators are also suspicious, s our sources, because the governmer owned airline made a down payme before the transaction was approved the Thai cabinet. This violated gover ment regulations.

As part of the investigation, the Th government has sent its communicatio secretary, Dr. Gun Nagamati, to t United States to do a little probing. I has met privately with Securities a Exchange officials and Senate i vestigators.

A McDonnell spokesman told us it w against company policy to discuss t terms of the Thai transaction. We ha obtained a confidential cable, however, which the corporation's president, Sa ford N. McDonnell, denies any i propriety. Corporation officials have al assured the Thais privately that t company did not "bribe or promise to p money to any airline or government fficial." A spokesman for the Thai e bassy confirmed the details of the i vestigation.

Footnote: In an unrelated investigatio the Securities and Exchange Commissi has been looking into payments McDonnell to foreign officials. The co pany has already admitted that appro imately $2.5 million was paid to offici of foreign governments or governme owned airlines between January, 19 and June, 1975.

China Makes H-Bomb Test

HONG KONG (UPI) — China conducted her 19th nuclear test Sunday, saying it was part of a "necessary and limited" weapons development program.

It was the second nuclear explosion by China this year and the 19th since October 1964. It came less than three weeks after the death of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

An announcement today by the official New China News Agency said the test was in keeping with Mao's admonition to maintain preparedness against war. It linked the test with the political campaign Mao launched before his death and said this campaign provided "the motive force" for scientists, soldiers and technicians who "achieved the complete success of the test."

The announcement gave no details of the latest test, a practice adopted with China's last nuclear explosion on Jan. 23.

"China successfully conducted a new nuclear test on Sept. 26, 1976," the announcement said.

"The conducting of necessary and limited nuclear tests and development of nuclear weapons by China is entirely for the purpose of defense and for breaking the nuclear monopoly by the superpowers and for the ultimate abolition of nuclear weapons," the announcement said.

The agency said the test was answering the Communist party's call to turn "grief into strength" after Mao's death.

The party, in its first public policy guidance since Mao's funeral, said Sunday China's anti-Soviet campaign must continue.

"A brief examination of the military situation in Europe in the past year shows that the menace to Western Europe posed by the new czars' military might is not a myth but a stark reality."

RED HOOK — The Red Hook Faculty Association has filed charges of improper practices against the Red Hook Central School District.

The district and association have been negotiating since March for a new contract to replace the one that expired June 30.

Peter McMahon, president of the association, said the charges were being filed because the district had not paid economic increases called for under the old contract.

"Two years ago, when we worked without a contract, the district paid the economic increments. Now they are not paying them—this is why we have failed ths improper practices charges," McMahon said.

An impasse has been declared and both sides are now waiting for the report from a fact finder appointed by the Public Employment Relations Board. The report is expected in about two weeks, McMahon said.

The economic increments, paid to the first 15 grades of the district's teacher pay scale, are for additional service and graduate work. About 95 of the district's 125 teachers are affected, McMahon noted.

Exorcist Blamed

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Police reported James T. Matkowski said he felt he had to kill his son because he thought the child had been possessed by the Devil.

Shortly after midnight Saturday, police said Matkowski walked up the stairs of his home, entered the boy's second-floor bedroom and plunged a knife into his son's left side.

Matkowski, 27, is free on $25,000 bail and undergoing psychiatric treatment at Philadelphia General Hospital.

Police said Matkowski, who is unemployed, apparently had been influenced by recent movies about children possessed by the Devil.

As city plumbing inspector, Kelly said he tried to be "an honest and dedicated public official . . . who served the people with compassion and consideration."

Kelly didn't always agree with everyone. It was his injunction that halted plumbing work during the construction of Sophie Finn School until the job could be completed by a licensed master plumber.

Kelly also became embroiled with state civil defense, county legislators and an architect over a "very unsanitary" sewer placement planned for a proposed air raid shelter at the Ulster County office building site, a plan that never materialized.

He once was sued for $50,000 for stating his opinion on a broken house sewer on North Front Street: "My opinion was upheld and the claim was paid," Kelly said.

After retirement, Kelly plans to "devote most of my time to my fishing poles."

'Golf Power' Prevails

CALABASAS, Calif. (UPI) — All you heard about all weekend long at the Calabasas Park Country Club—besides the prize money being offered in the $205,000 LPGA Carlton—was that Donna Caponi Young had discovered something akin to religion.

Out on the course when "negative thoughts" crossed her mind—like the thought of going into the water on 18—Donna would cross her thumb and first two fingers together and squeeze real hard until "positive thoughts" replaced them.

"Golf Power," she called it, or more simply, the "power of positive thinking."

What ever it was, it helped to propel the 31-year-old veteran into the lead on her home course after the second round, a lead she built to seven strokes at one point before capturing the richest event in the history of women's golf by five stroke.

Young's victory was worth $35,000.

"It's just unbelievable," the 12-year veteran said. "Winning $35,000 has to be the most exciting thing that's ever happened, even better than winning my two U.S. Open's back to back.

"I once finished No. 3 on the money list and didn't make even $35,000 "

Young's earnings this year, including her $6,000 victory in the Portland Open two weeks ago, top $78,000 and she is still only No. 4 on the list.

Young's consistent rounds of 69-69-72-72 for a 72-hole total of 282 was seven under par.

A mad scramble for the $22,500 second prize money finally ended in a tie between Judy Rankin and Jane Blalock who finished with one-under-par 287s to give them $19,300 each

Kathy Martin of nearby Thousands Oaks tied Pat Bradley a stroke back to tie for third and earn $9,750.

Rankin, the first woman golfer in history to top the $100,000 mark, now lead the tour with more than $138,000.

Young, whose husband operates a pro shop here and served as tournament director, denied that she had a home course advantage.

"There was no advantage," she said of her familiarlity with the 6,136-yard layout. "I haven't played well here at all in the past. When I come out to play—five times a month tops— I just play it by sight. I don't know any of the yardages. I don't go out to break any records."

For the past two weeks, Sue Snead watched her husband, through hundreds of hours of practice and thought she discovered what was wrong with his swing.

It didn't occur to her until she watched Tom Weiskopf hitting balls on the driving range at Pinehurst It is agreed Weiskopf has the best shoulder action for hitting woods of anyone on the PGA tour.

"Sue told me she didn't know what was wrong with my swing, but she did know it wasn't anywhere near as smooth as Weiskopf's," Snead explained Sunday after winding up his best driving week of the year and parlaying it into victory in the $175,000 Kaiser International Open.

"So I watched Weiskopf whom I admire an awful lot," Snead said. "I tried putting my shoulders into my swing all the way, not stopping halfway through as I was doing and suddenly I lost my upshoot."

Snead, who outlasted Johnny Miller to win the Kaiser with a 72-hole score of 14-under-par 274, said his driver had deserted him to the point where he never was sure where the ball was going.

His wife's advice worked fine except by the time Snead got to the Kaiser he needed a new driver. He thought he would borrow one from Miller, who has his home near the 11th fairway of Silverado's North Course.

"I caught up with John in his garage, and he was fooling around with some clubs," Snead said. "I told him I was looking for a driver, and he said, 'Help yourself, go at it.'"

Snead said he and Miller have been friends since both came on the tour and have exchanged equipment and playing tips in the past.

"Heck, you know the driver Lee Trevino is using these days." Snead said. "I gave it to him. I also gave him all my golf balls the other day to use here. Lee and I are friends the same way John and I are. There isn't anything I wouldn't do to help either of those guys, and I'm sure they feel the same way about me."

With all his help this week, Snead wound up with his second victory of 1976.

"I didn't make many mistakes this week," he said. "And that was the difference."

Snead had only three bogeys in four rounds while shooting 66, 70, 70, 68. He won when Miller balanced off three straight birdies on the front side of the final round with a double bogey six and then took another bogey on the 14th.

Snead, meanwhile, had three birdies going out, all on up close puts, and another coming back. The last birdie was on 16, which eliminated Miller and the rallying Gibby Gilbert, who finished with 69 and 71, respectively, to tie for second at 12-under 276.

Miller had predicted 14-under par would win the tournament when he was tied for third after Saturday's play.

"I've proved a pretty good prophet although I didn't come up with it," he said, "Still, I'm not disappointed in finishing second. It's better than winding up 30th. If I don't win, I usually finish far back."

Miller won the Kaiser the last two years and seemed a cinch winner again when he opened this year's event with a course record 63.

A small band of fans watch as Ulster battles Flo Valley

Ulster, Flo Valley Slosh to 0-0 Tie

Freeman Staff

STONE RIDGE—It's hard to choose which got dirtier Sunday afternoon—the uniforms of the soccer players from Ulster County Community College and Florissant Valley (Mo.) CC, or the tactics employed by players from both sides.

The miserable, rainy weather made for very difficult playing conditions and cut down on the quality of play After 110 minutes of close chances and near misses there were frustrations, short tempers and physical abuses on both sides. When it was over. No. 8 ranked Ulster drew in a scoreless tie with 1975's national junior college champ and current No. 1 pick Flo Valley.

The teams had even played two 10-minute overtime periods after the regulation 90 minutes had expired with no score, but neither team could do any better in the extra time.

In addition to some darn good soccer in the form of well-executed offensive thrusts and sure shots turned into great saves, there was plenty of extra physical contact, especially in the second half and the overtime. Kicking, pushing, punching, tripping—this game had it all.

Nevertheless, the game has to emerge as a moral victory and a possible boost in the national poll for the Senators, who lost, 3-1, to Flo Valley in the 1975 national tournament semifinals in Baltimore, Md.

Both the Norsemen and the Senators sport 4-1-1 season records. Today, Flo Valley visits West Point in the final game of its swing through the East.

"This was a more physical game than we normally play," said Flo Valley coach Pete Sorber, whose '75 national championship squad was his sixth NJCAA winner. "I'm glad we don't have to play in the same league as Ulster. I don't see how a team could survive 10 or 15 games like this. It was not necessarily a dirty game, just very physical "

Ulster coach George Vizvary echoed Sorber's feelings. "It's most unfortunate. It became almost like a brawl at the end, on both sides. It's a long game, and many things can happen. The field conditions and players' tempers combined made ths rough play."

Both teams missed numerous close chances to score as Ulster goalie Conrad Ernest and Florissant goalie Matt McVey played brilliantly, each stopping several point blank shots off both the feet and heads of opponents.

"My boys were fired up," said Vizvary, who has been pointing to this rematch since the preseason. "We played strong and fast, but the passing was not there...Overall, I was satisfied with the defense, expecially Conrad Ernest and Mario Austin."

Other votes for top effort would have to go to fullback David Farrell and midfielder Aurelio Emea.

Ulster dominated the first half, outshooting Flo Valley, 10-3 and taking four corner kicks to the visitors' none. But the Norsemen turned it around in the second half and really put the pressure on, outshooting Ulster, 20-5 for an overall 23-15 edge and taking six corner kicks to Ulster's three (total of seven).

"Their style was overwhelming in the second half," admitted Vizvary. "The only way we could play with them was to play a low-pressure defense and stop thsm at the penalty area line We couldn't run with them, so we had to slow 'em down."

Some of ths slowdown methods included tactics not approved in the referee's handbook and were utilized on both sides.

"A couple of our freshman used tactics I did not like," said Vizvary "We have to educate them that it's not the way to play the ball game."

The field, already rutted with holes from last weekend's tournament, became a quagmire around the goal mouths and slippery everywhere else, rendering normal offensive skills almost useless.

"Under normal conditions, both teams would have played better, " said Vizvary

Usual for Staubach, Unexpected for Grogan

It was a performance Dallas Cowboy fans have come to expect from Roger Staubach and it was an effort the New England Patriots hope to see for years to come from Steve Grogan

Staubach, masterful despite a second-half downpour that made every pass an adventure, rallied the Cowboys three times and finally set up Efren Herrera's game-winning 32-yard field goal with three seconds left that enabled Dallas to defeat Baltimore 30-27 in a battle of unbeaten clubs.

Grogan, the second-year quarterback the Patriots entrusted their offense to when they dealt Jim Plunkett to San Francisco in the offseason, passed for two touchdowns and ran for another to rally the New England Patriots to a stunning 30-27 upset of the NFL champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

Staubach, who had his finest day as a pro with a 22-of-28 passing performance for 341 yards, put the Cowboys ahead 27-24 with 3.27 left on a 38-yard TD pass to Billy Joe DuPree. But Baltimore, with gutty Bert Jones at the controls, got a 24-yard field goal from Toni Linhart with only 28 seconds left that tied the game and seemed certain to send it into overtime.

But Staubach, starting at his own 32, hit Drew Pearson for 16 yards and then threw toward Golden Richards. The pass was incomplete but interference was ruled against linebacker Derrel Luce and Dallas had the ball with 12 seconds left at the Colts' 32. Another 18-yard pass to Pearson set up Dallas at the 14 and Herrera kicked the game winner.

Staubach has now hit 56-of-78 passes for 822 yards in three games.

Grogan rallied New England, which upset Miami last week, from a 20-9 deficit with third quarter TD passes of 38 yards to Russ Francis and 58 yards to Darryl Stingley. Grogan then scored on a six-yard run early in the final quarter to put the Pats ahead. Steeler fumbles led to John Smith's field goals of 42, 40 and 26 yards.

Roy Gerela's 48-yard field goal attempt with three seconds left went wide to the right to give the Patriots their second win in three games.

"That," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landdry, "is what pro football is all about. You saw it all today. This was a great offensive show. We are both contenders and we both played well. We came in to this game feeling we had to throw deep."

Colt Coach Ted Marchibroda was stunned by Staubach's performance.

"He couldn't have thrown any better," he said. "I thought we had good coverage most of the day but he just laid the ball in there every time and his receivers did a good job."

"Roger just had a perfect day," added Lan dry. "He's super. Each week he keeps doing better, what else can you say."

Francis, the big tight end who came into the NFL with Grogan last season, says the 6-foot-5 youngster has developed into a bonafide NFL quarterback in just a year.

"This is all a matter of Grogan coming to maturity," Francis said. "He's at the point now where he can see different situations and react to them This team is coming of age. We used to come out for the second half, we were behind and that was it. Now we come out for the second half and we're ready."

Grogan said there was a touch of panic before he threw the TD pass to Stingley.

"My primary receiver was Marlin Briscoe." he explained. "He ran across and I saw only the back of his shirt and figured he wasn't open—he says he was. Then I saw Darryl cut down the sideline and I threw. I didn't have much more time. Somehow he caught the ball "

In other games it was Oakland 14 Houston 13, Minnesota 10 Detroit 9, San Diego 43 St. Louis 24, Miami 16 the New York Jets 0, Atlanta 10 Chicago 0, New Orleans 27 Kansas City 17, Buffalo 14 Tampa Bay 9, Cincinnati 28 Green Bay 7, Los Angeles 24 the New York Giants 10, Denver 44 Cleveland 13 and San Francisco 37 Seattle 21.

Raiders 14, Oilers 13

Rookie Mike Rae, starting his first NFL game for injured Ken Stabler, threw TD passes of nine and 33 yards to Cliff Branch and Oakland's defense made two goal line stands to beat Houston. Skip Butler gave Houston a 6-0 lead with two field goals before Rae, who played in Canada the last three years, hit Branch twice for scores. Oakland stopped Houston twice on the one to preserve the win.

Vikings 10, Lions 9

Sub quarterback Bob Lee led Minnesota to its only touchdown and a botched snap on an extra point foiled Detroit's bid to tie as the Vikings edged the Lions. Chuck Foreman's five-yard run put Minnesota ahead 10-3 and Errol Mann was unable to get off an attempt on a tying extra point after Greg Landry's oneyard TD pass to Charley Sanders.

Bengals 28, Packers 7

Ken Riley and Tommy Casanova returned intercepitons for touchdowns to spark Cincinnati over winless Green Bay. Riley returned a Lynn Dickey pass 53 yards for a TD and Casanova took back Carlos Brown's pass 33 yards for an insurance score. Archie Griffin also had a nine-yard TD run for the Bengals.

Bills 14, Buccaneers 9

Joe Ferguson threw a 58-yard TD pass to Bob Chandler and a 15-yarder to Reuben Gant to lift Buffalo past Tampa Bay. Dave Green had field goals of 39, 24 and 19 yards for the Bucs' first points in three NFL games

Falcons 10, Bears 0

Haskel Stanback ran three yards for the only TD of the game with 11 minutes left and Atlanta held on to defeat previously unbeaten Chicago. Nick Mike-Mayer, who missed four field goal attempts, connected on a 45-yarder in the final period to put the game out of reach.

Saints 27, Chiefs 17

Rookie Tony Galbreath scored on runs of 74 and nine yards as New Orleans beat Kansas City, giving Saints Coach Hank Stram a triumph over the club he coached for more than a dozen years. Galbreath had 146 yards rushing and Chuck Muncie, another rookie, gained 126. Rams 24, Giants 10

John Cappelletti scored after taking James Harris' pass 11 seconds into the last quarter to spark Los Angeles over the Giants. New York took a 10-0 lead before Harris, playing for the first time this season, and Cappelletti hooked up on a 32yard TD play. The Rams intercepted Craig Morton four times.

Chargers 43, Cards 24

Dan Fouts threw three TD passes and San Diego exploded for 27 points in the second period to beat St. Louis in a battle of unbeaten clubs. Fouts hit Charlie Joiner on a 30-yard TD pass and Dwight McDonald with scoring passes of 44 and 18 yards. Jim Hart had two TD throws for the Cards.

49ers 37, Seahawks 21

Plunkett threw three first-half TD passes as San Francisco built a 24-point lead and then held off Seattle. The 49ers scored 17 points in the first 11 minutes on a 50-yard punt return by Ralph McGill, Plunkett's 38-yard TD pass to Gene Washington and a 45-yard field goal by Steve Mike-Mayer. Plunkett threw two more TD passes in the second period.

Broncos 44, Browns 13

Rick Upchurch returned punts 73 and 36 yards for TDs to set a club record and ignite Denver past Cleveland. The Broncos also scored on a oneyard run by Otis Armstrong, a 43-yard fumble return by Calvin Jones and a 12-yard run by Jim Kiick. Steve Ramsey also threw a 36-yard scoring pass to Haven Moses.

Cappelletti Comes of Age

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — After the Los Angeles Rams' first three games a year ago, John Cappelletti had carried the ball exactly twice.

"Sure, I remember that," the 1973 Heisman Trophy winner said. "I remember it very well This is the difference of night and day."

A starter in place of Jim Bertelsen, Cappelletti scored two touchdowns in the Rams' come-from-behind 24-10 victory over the New York Giants in their home opener

On a Sunday when Giant quarterback Craig Morton was intercepted four times and fumbled once, the former Penn State star broke open a 10-10 deadlock on a twisting 32-yard touchdown pass-run.

"This is a much nicer feeling," Cappelletti continued, flashing a wide smile. "At this time last year, I didn't know what to think.

"After the third game, I went to Coach (Chuck) Knox and had a long talk. He explained his situation then and I gave my side of it. I kind of understood what he said but you're only in this game for a comparative short period of time and you have to look out for your career "

For the third game in a row, Cappelletti played a strong game for the Rams, picking up 85 yards on 19 carries For the season, he's packed the ball 69 times for 315 yards. He went into the game as the leading rusher in the NFL. For the entire 1974 and 1975 seasons, he had a total of 103 carries.

"I wouldn't use the word vindicated," he cautioned a reporter. "I don't feel vindicated. I've always felt this was the place I've wanted to play.

"Let's just say I feel good about this and leave it at that. There's no sense looking back."

Improving their record to 2-01, the Rams fought back from a 10-0 first quarter and 10-7 halftime deficits.

Cappelletti scored on a 10yard run around right end in the second quarter and Tom Dempsey evened the score with a 44-yard field goal in the third period. On the first play of the fourth quarter, Cappelletti caught a swing pass from newly returned James Harris on the Giant 26-yard line and then found his way into the end zone with a superb run.

With 1:58 remaining after the Ram defense picked off a fourth Morton pass, Bertelsen scored on a one-yard plunge.

Playing in his first game of the season after being sidelined in the Rams' next-to-last exhibition game with a fractured thumb, Harris was impressive. He completed 14 of 23 passes for 179 yards and had one interception.

Harris said his thumb presented no problems and lauded the winless Giants.

"They hustled a lot of pursued us," he noted. "They stopped our runs early in the game. We went to the pass and then mixed them up."

Harris was booed in the opening quarter when the Rams weren't doing anything offensively. Asked if he was nervous about his status as the Rams' No. 1 quarterback, he replied:

"I don't go into a game concerned about my status. My only thought is to win."

In the final period after Cappelletti's go-ahead touchdown, the Ram defense sacked Morton four times, intercepted him twice and recovered his fumble.

Shula, Namath Find Bright Spots

MIAMI (UPI) — Nobody was very happy after the Miami Dolphins' 16-0 win over the New York Jets Sunday.

Miami coach Don Shula was complaining that his offense "made every mistake in the book" in the first half, and Jet quarterback Joe Namath was moaning, "we're consistent— consistently bad."

Both men, however, found a bright spot in their respective defensive units' play on the steaming Orange Bowl field Sunday.

"The defense put together two good halves, and in the second half we were able to make them turn the ball over," Shula said. "We had a very poor offensive first half; we made every mistake in the book. It was only because of a fine defense that we got away with a 3-0 halftime lead."

Shula, whose 2-1 Dolphins have to play Los Angeles and Baltimore the next two weekends, acknowledged that "the Jets aren't the caliber of the teams we're going to have to play.

"I understand they were playing a left tackle that had to introduce himself in the huddle at practice on Thursday."

Namath, applying ice to a swollen right knee and to a swollen lower lip, agreed.

"You go down to the delicatessen and you hear about it every time," said Namath, who completed 16 of 26 passes for 171 yards. "Of course, you don't like it. It's no fun at all, and you can't come back at 'em because it's the truth."

Namath, who has been able to engineer only two touchdowns in three games, acknowledged the offense "hasn't been sharp.

"We have no consistency at all," he said, and then had second thoughts. "Well, I guess we have been consistent—consistently bad. What we've got to do is be consistently good."

He said he was encouraged by the play of the New York defense Sunday. "Now if we can just get the offense going."

The Dolphin offense sputtered during the first half and managed only a 25-yard field goal before intermission.

The Jets, now 0-3, turned the ball over three times on two Steve Davis fumbles and a Namath interception in their first seven offensive plays of the third quarter to set up a 26yard Garo Yepremian field goal and a three-yard touchdown pass from Bob Griese to Jim Mandich.

Yepremian added an insurance field goal in the fourth quarter after the Dolphins drove 77 yards to the Jets' 25 before stalling.

Among the bright spots Shula saw in Miami's performance Sunday was the play of Ken Ellis, who was acquired in a trade with Houston on Tuesday.

"He played the whole game, and to my knowledge, he didn't make any mental errors out there," Shula said. "That's pretty good for a guy who hasn't been with us very long."

The Second Time Around for Lonborg

By UPI

It was only fitting that Jim Lonborg pitched the clinching victory for the Philadelphia Phillies' first championship since 1950.

It was the second time around for the 6-foot-6 righthander. In 1967, he beat Dean Chance and the Minnesota Twins, ending an even longer wait for the Boston Red Sox. That triumph ended a famous four-team race and clinched the Red Sox' first American League pennant since 1918.

Lonborg, who has been trying to "make it back to the top" since he suffered a severe injury while skiing during the winter of 1967, pitched a four-hitter and raised his record to 17-10 Sunday when the Phillies clinched the National League's Eastern Division title with a 4-1 victory over the Montreal Expos in the first game of a doubleheader. The Phillies, who will try for their first National League pennant since 1950 when they play the Cincinnati Reds in the playoffs, also won the rain-shortened second game 2-1.

Lonborg could have used the occasion to blow his own horn but instead gave the credit to his teammates.

"It was great to pitch in the game that clinched the championship," he said. "Personally I had one of my better years and it all worked out as we ended on top. The team just played outstanding ball behind me all year."

Manager Danny Ozark said the Phillies had it all the way despite their late-season slump.

"There never was any doubt in my mind that we could not finish first in our division," he said. "This is one of the greatest clubs I have ever been associated with since I have been managing. Now we just have to keep everyone loose and stay sharp for the playoffs with Cincinnati."

Greg Luzinski, whose three-run, sixth-inning homer was the big blow for the Phillies, also said he never lost confidence.

"That home run was a long time coming," said Luzinski. "It sure was good to see it go over the fence in such a key game. The team is just super and I never had any thought about blowing the lead we had compiled all year."

The Phillies had a 15½-game lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates on Aug. 27 but went into a slump and saw it dwindle to three games on Sept. 17. Since then, however, they have won eight of 10 games.

Elsewhere in the NL, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Pirates 5-2, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Reds 2-1, the Atlanta Braves topped the San Diego Padres 10-4, the New York Mets downed the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and the San Francisco Giants took the Houston Astros 5-1.

Cards 5, Pirates 2

Lou Brock's two-run, tie-breaking triple in the fifth inning and seven strong innings of pitching by John Denny carried the Cardinals to their victory over the Pirates. Bruce Kison suffered his ninth loss against 14 victories for the Pirates.

Dodgers 2, Reds 1

Braves 10, Padres 4

Darrel Chaney's two-run double was the big hit of a six-run eighth-inning rally for the Braves. Adrian Devine was the winner for Atlanta with star reliever Butch Metzger the loser for the Padres.

Mets 2, Cubs 1

Jerry Koosman, now strongly in the running for the Cy Young Award, raised his record to 21-9 for the Mets, with the late relief of Bob Apodaca. Koosman had a no-hitter until the seventh when the Cubs knocked him out with four singles.

Giants 5, Astros 1

Mercurys Blank Titans In Junior Football Upset

KINGSTON — The Mercurys moved alone into first place after just two weeks of the Junior Football season Friday with a 12-0 upset whitewash of the Titans.

Gary Reynolds and Chris Mayone each scored a first half touchdown for the Mercs on long gainers to enable the winners to remain the only unbeaten squad in the league. In other games, the Agenas knocked off the Atlas, 20-0 also on Friday, and the Saturns stopped the Apollos Sunday, 23-6.

Reynolds took a 30 yard scoring pass from Brian Timbrouck in the opening period, then the Mercs doubled their edge on Mayone's 45 yard ramble with an interception.

Glen MacDonald scored twice, and the Agenas kept the pressure on all the way as the Atlas fell to their second straight loss. MacDonald went 45 yards in the first period to help stake the winners to a 7-0 halftime lead, then he scooped up a third quarter fumble and took it in from 40 yards out. Rich Grossman capped the scoring with a 10 yard run in the final quarter.

Chuck Kennedy ran one TD, passed for another and scored a pair of PAT's to lead the Saturns. The Apollos' Todd DeLisio threw a 15 yard scoring strike to Gregg Mannis in the first quarter to make it a 7-6 game, but a 40-yard Kennedy to Dave Dahl hookup and a Saturn safety enabled the victors to take a 16-6 halftime lead. The Saturns iced it in the fourth quarter as Brad Jordan passed to Dahl who flipped a lateral to Paul Loughlin in a touchdown play covering 25 yards

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Defending champion Arthur Ashe faces 10th-seeded Brian Gottfried tonight in the singles final of the $125,000 Pacific Southwest Open Tennis Championships at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

Gottfried upset third seeded Ilie Nastase, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, in a Sunday semifinals rout while Ashe easily ousted Raul Ramirez, 6-3, 6-3.

Ashe, who won the Southwest during his sophomore year at UCLA and again last year, meets Gottfried in the championship match for the $20,000 first prize money at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

Sunday' Nastase-Gottfried matchup was enlivened by several disputed and controversial calls, most going against the tempermental Romanian.

He became particulatrly upset with a call in the second game of the second set. He drew thunderous applause mixed with a sprinkling of whistles from the 8,500 fans when he punted the tennis ball about 25 yards.

"That call upset me," Nastase said afterwards. "I know I shouldn't have let it, but I can't put things like that out of my mind. Some of those guys (officials) could be my grandfather."

Gottfried came from a 0-40 deficit in the final set to win five straight games, cinching the match.

There were seven service breaks in the crucial third set, which Gottfried said was due to the fact "each of us wanted to win badly. And we put pressure on each other."

Nastase, whose service was broken four times in the third set said, "I don't think I ever had my serve broken that many times before in a single set."

Gottfried played cautiously in the first set. He appeared nervous and once missed on five straight serves, double faulting two times in succession. But he settled down after that and outstudied Nastase in the final two sets.

Ashe, seeded No. 4, scored repeatedly on passing and cross-court shots. He also kept ninth seeded Ramirez, the leader of the Mexican Davis Cup Team, on the run with accurate placement shots.

Fans Greet AL East Champs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some 200 wildly cheering fans Sunday greeted the American League East division-winning Yankees when they returned to New York with cries of "We're No. 1" and a banner reading "Today Is the First Day of the Second Dynasty."

The Yanks, sporting their first title since 1964, when they won the American League pennant, arrived in their chartered Eastern Airlines 727 jet at New York's La Guardia Airport at 7:12 p.m.

They clinched the Eastern division title when they defeated the Tigers in Detroit Saturday night and second-place Baltimore lost to Boston. The Yanks' game with Baltimore on Sunday was rained out.

Manager Billy Martin, who told the players in Detroit, "Don't worry about the game, we're going to win," said he was going to relax.

Yankee left fielder Roy White said "I looked forward to playing on Saturday. I didn't care if Baltimore won on Sunday. There was frustration — we wanted to win in New York."

New York catcher Thurman Munson's wife, Diane, who came to the airport to greet her husband, said, "We waited a long time. They worked hard and they deserved the win. It's nice to be on a winner. I am on cloud nine."

The Yanks will face the winnners of the American League western division in the playoffs which begin Oct. 9.

A's Last Chance

By UPI

It's a slim chance for the Oakland A's, but that's still more than any other second place team in baseball has going for it today.

The A's, winners of the American League's Western Division title five years in a row, must sweep a three-game series starting tonight against the Kansas City Royals in Oakland to retain even a hope for a sixth straight title.

Theirs is the only race remaining in baseball's four divisions. Kansas City's magic number remained stalled at three and its lead was trimmed to 4½ games Sunday by a 3-1 loss to Texas that left Royals Manager Whitey Herzog wondering if his team ever would be able to apply the clincher.

"I've never seen a bunch like this," said Herzog, who has seen the Royals lose 18 of their last 30 games. "We're scared to win.

"We only need one against Oakland, but the way we're going, I don't know how we're going to get that one game.

"We should have put this thing away two weeks ago. Maybe these guys are making too much money. Maybe the World Series doesn't mean anything to them.

"Right now I wouldn't be surprised if Oakland won all three."

Oakland, rained out Sunday at Chicago, will have Vida Blue (17-12) ready to oppose Dennis Leonard (17-9) in tonight's series opener. The A's walloped the Royals 11-1 and 8-1 last week at Kansas City after losing the first game of the series 3-1. This week Oakland can't afford even one loss.

Lenny Randle drove in Jeff Burroughs twice, with a sacrifice fly in the second inning and a single in the sixth, to lead Texas to its victory over Kansas City Sunday. Burroughs had started both rallies with singles. The other Texas run came in the third inning when Jeff Sundberg doubled, advanced to third on an error and came home on a double play.

Reggie Cleveland had a two-hit shutout until the bottom of the ninth when Balttimore struck for four hits and all three of its runs. Rookie Ernie Whitt doubled home two runs during a three-run fifth for Boston, and a five-run eighth inning was featured by a two-run, bases-loaded double by Cecil Cooper and a two-run single by Jim Rice. Rice has hit safely in 13 consecutive games.

Angels 4 Twins 1

Dave Collins and Ron Jackson hit solo homers for the Angels, and Frank Tanana scattered eight hits in pitching his 23rd complete game of the season. Tanana, 18-10, walked three and struck out eight and had the Twins shut out until Craig Kusick homered in the ninth.

New Paltz Now 0-5

NEW PALTZ—The New Paltz College varsity baseball team is still looking for its first victory of the fall season after a lost weekend that included an early knockout in the Siena Invitational Friday and a rain-shortened, five-inning, 11-1 loss to Siena here Sunday afternoon.

The Hawks, 0-5, have yet to play a State University of New York Athletic Conference contest, however, so fall coach Mark Stryker isn't too concerned over the winless state

"We faced two of the toughest teams in the tournament up at Siena," said Stryker, meaning Maine and Mansfisld State, "and we used up our two best pitchers (Bob Marz and Bob Vasquez) on Friday, so we didn't have them for Sunday.

"We're still optimistic for the conference games," he added. "We're still in there."

The Hawks faced Maine, last year's fourth-place finisher in the NCAA baseball tournament (Division I), in the tourney opener Friday and lost, 10-0. Marz did not allow a hit until there were two out in the fourth inning as he set down the first 14 Maine batters.

But Maine's Pete LaHamme slammed a three-run homer in the fifth after two men got on via errors, and with Marz walking seven over the final three innings, Maine scored four in the fifth, two in the sixth and added four in the final frame. Barry LaCasse was the winning pitcher, and he yielded only singles to Marz, Bill Hopkins and Rick Kail.

New Paltz was then knocked out of the tourney by Mansfield State (Pa.), 7-2. Marz hit his first homer of the season, a solo shot, in the first inning, and Ralph Calderon singled home Steve Turkowitz in the seventh for the Hawks' only runs.

Mansfield got all the runs it needed in the third on two hits and two errors. Tim Kelleher was the winner, yielding seven hits and striking out 12. Vasquez took the loss, walking two and whiffing one. The Siena tourney was conducted at Bleecker Stadium in Albany

At home on Sunday, the Hawks pitched Calderon at Siena, and he didn't do badly in 4⅓ innings, yielding just five hits, three walks and whiffing one. But errors did him in, as happened in Friday's games.

Siena's Mark Massaroni blasted a three-run homer in the second (all runs unearnsd because of errors) and Smith hit a solo shot in the third to pace the winners. Calderon was relieved by Vasquez, who got the final two outs in the fifth.

What Ziebart uses to rustproof cars:

What car dealers use:

Our technicians use 9 patented spray tools to get at every inch of vulnerable metal inside your car's body. Your car dealer uses 2, maybe 3 tools.

We use over 2,000 pages of instructions compiled from factory specifications. Your car dealer uses a few pages of general directions from the salesman who sells him sealant.

There are other important differences, too. And you should check them all out. Call us.

FREEMAN PHOTOS BY HAINES

KINGSTON—Those attending Kingston Fall Festival Saturday, Oct. 9, will have the opportunity of seeing the historic Ulster County Bicentennial Quilt made last year by 42 women under the direction of Ruth Culver. The quilt will be on display at the Heritage Savings Bank, 273 Wall St.

Continuous events from 10 a.m. are planned for the day, including historic house tours of the Stockade area; Civil War Encampment at Senate House grounds; Kingston Through a Lens at Loughran House; outdoor merchants market, farmers markets, handicraft booths, demonstrations, antiques, flower show, art exhibition, as well as entertainment by the Lefooters Square Dance group; Indian dancers; Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps; Kingston Kiwanis Minstrels and Kingston High School Bicentennial Chorus.

The Bicentennial quilt is a combined effort of a group of women who met at Ulster County Community College early in 1975 to plan for it. Each woman chose the subject for her 12-inch square; designed, executed the block using applique technique, some embroidery or crewel for detail or emphasis. Each was responsible for researching and writing the history of her individual block

Historical research into the four centuries of growth and development of Ulster County made the women aware of the fine heritage Ulster County possesses. It all started in June 1621 when a group of Netherland merchants formed the Dutch West India Company and began the settlement of New Netherland. The 42 blocks include further history as follows:

Kingston Point — Kingston Point Park was a terminal meant just for passengers who sailed the Hudson River steamboats. Prior to 1896 passengers found it necessary site of numerous farms and seven small villages, all of which was abandoned or relocated after necessary legislation in 1905 made way for the construction of the reservoir to provide water for the people of New York City.—(Claire Knickmeyer, Kingston.)

U & D Railroad — Railroading was the glamor industry at the turn of the 19th century. The Ulster and Delaware line ran deep into the heart of the Catskills. Brown Station was a typical Victorian Country station. When the Ashokan reservoir was built, the station was moved to serve the village of Ashokan on the new route of the U and D. As railroad travel declined the depot was moved across Rte. 28 and became a storehouse for car parts. Finally in 1969 it was sold to an admirer of old depots, moved to Woodstock, and has been used as a recording studio and beauty parlor. —(Natalie Earnest, Woodstock)

Sugarbush — The sugarbush is located in Wittenberg on the Lester and Harley Shultis Farm which was part of the Hardenberg Patent. It refers to a stand of sugar maples which is tapped for sap to make maple sugar. Tapping, or sugaring off, as it is also called, was done on this farm as far back as the 1830's and is continued by the present owner, Lester R. Shultis. Approximately 55 gallons of syrup is produced annually. —(Lauretta S. Shekitka, Woodstock.)

Locust Lawn —Locust Lawn, the Federal style mansion located on Rte. 32, four miles south of New Paltz, is also known as the Col. Josiah Hasbrouck House Built in 1814 it was patterned after the homes Hasbrouck saw in Virginia and Washington, D.C., and is surrounded by a large farm which was very productive. — (Donna Kent, New Paltz).

Ellenville Pottery — Ellenville potteries were closely linked to the Delaware and Hudson Canal on which they depended for their stoneware clay to move the finished pieces to market. Horace Weston, a former Methodist Circuit Rider, was the founder of the first pottery in Ellenville. (Shirley Meyer, Hurley).

Woodland Valley Scene — A road turns off just a few miles beyond Phoenicia that leads to a five-mile valley of spectacular Catskill Mountain scenery. The valley contains whirlpools and rapids of the Esopus Creek, the oldest ski center in the state, a campground, and is

Fur Trading — As a result of Hudson's exploration, the first fur trading post in the Catskills was established by the Dutch in 1614 at Ronduit (Rondout) where the Rondout Creek enters into the Hudson River. Furs, the most prized being the pelt of the wildcat (bobcat) was traded by the Indians in great numbers for the white man's goods. Fur trading flourished for more than 200 years. — (Helen Carey, Boiceville.)

Peter Stuyvesant and the Stockade — Kingston was the third area to be settled in New York State, the first known settlers arriving in 1652. Following encounters with the Indians an appeal was made to Director General Peter Stuyvesant in New Amsterdam, and the settlers were advised to remove their houses to one location and build a Stockade which was begun in 1658. The village was chartered the same year under the name of Wiltwyck, (wild place), later renamed Kingston in 1664 by the English. — (Ruth E. Culver, Kingston)

Old Hurley — Settled in 1661 by 15 families of Dutch and French Huguenot origin, Hurley was the capital of New York, host to George Washington, and birthplace of Sojourner Truth.—(Dorothy B. Smith, Hurley.)

The Senate House —The stone house in Kingston dates from 1676 built by Wessel Ten Broeck. When Kingston became the state capital, the Senate met in this house. It was gutted when the British burned Kingston in Oct 1777. —E. B DeWitt, Woodstock.

First Reading of State Constitution —The courthouse used also as jail and capitol of Ulster County served as the birthplace of the State of New York in 1777. The constitution was adopted there April 20, 1777 and was publicly read two days later.—(Hildegard N. Pleva, Kingston.)

Governor Clinton — George Clinton, first governor of New YOrk State, served as vice president under Presidents Jefferson and Madison He fought in the French and Indian War and was a brigadier general of the militia in the Revolution. —(Maggie Caccamo, New Paltz.)

Burning of Kingston By British - British forces under the command of General Vaughan burned the village of Kingston, Oct. 16, 1777.--(Maris T. Hrouda, Kingston.)

Hurley Spy House — Built prior to the Revolution, the Dumond House was Guard

1965 has been maintained as a museum. — -(Veronica Culver Morzen, Red Oaks Mill.)

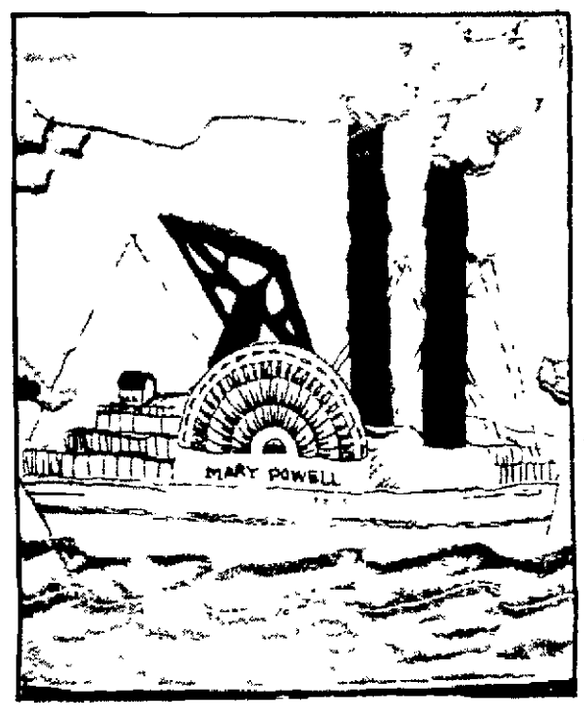
Mary Powell, Queen of the Hudson — Steamboat Mary Powell for more than half a century ran as a day boat between New York City and Rondout Creek. She was considered the fastest steamboat on the river. She made her last passenger trip to New York in 1917 and was sold for scrap in 1919.—Eleanor Anderson, New Paltz.

Sojourner Truth — Born in Ulster County about 1797. In 1843, New York State freed its slaves in 1828, she decided to leave her job as a domestic servant and began her travels to preach about God and lecture against slavery. Her common sense, wit and talent for songs, captured her audiences and set them to thinking about the slavery issue. She died in Battle Creek, Mich., in 1883. —(Helen J. Antonovich, Hurley.)

N.Y. Steamboat Co. Warehouse — The warehouse was founded by Robert A Snyder in 1866 in Saugerties and was a successful firm when the Hudson River steamboating was at its zenith. It still contains original hardware and beams.—(Lillian Surasky, Woodstock.)

Slabsides — John Burroughs, naturalist and author, spent more than half his life at the home he built at West Park. To get away from the restrictions his wife imposed on his work habits, he built a small cabin nearby which he outfitted as a study and called, "Slabsides." —(Lynne Brush, Woodstock.)

Rosendale Trestle — This trestle is the Wallkill Valley Railroad's bridge over the Rondout Creek near Rosendale The steel bridge has a center span of 105 feet and stands 150 feet



above the creek It is over 900 feet long and was officially opened in 1872 — -(Joyce Pagnucco, Kingston.)

The Fitch Office — Bluestone was first shipped to New York City from Catskill area quarries in the early 1800's. In 1839, Simon and W.B. Fitch, brothers, opened their business to ship bluestone to all major cities in the east. In 1849 the business office was opened on Abeel street. The building was eventually abandoned as the quarrying industry was replaced with Portland cement plants. In 1972 the property was acquired and restored by James J. Berardi.- — (Eleanor Connerton, Hurley.)

D and H Canal — Delaware and Hudson Canal was a prosperous and flourishing waterway built to carry coal from northeast Pennsylvania to New York City and also transported Rosendale cement and passengers A peak year in 1872, saw the transporting of 2,930,333 tons of coal The canal was in operation until 1899 when shippers abandoned it in favor of the steam locomotive. — (Cynthia Raymond Silkworth, Glenmont)

Bristol Glass Factory at Shady — The factory located in Shady operated from 1825. It was a large industry with a sloop and dock at the community of Glasco which received its name from the sign at the office building, Glass Co. Little of the original glass remains. — (Charlotte Reynolds, Shady.)

Knipplebush Cooper — The block depicts a man at his trade in the 1860's. There was a large demand for dry measure barrels from the cement industry in Rosendale. Statistics show the Ogden Rosendale Cement Co manufactured 100,000 barrels of cement annually. — (Jacqueline Johnson, Knipplebush)

West Camp Lutheran Church — St. Paul's Lutheran Church is the oldest religious society in Saugerties. It was organized in 1710 by a group of Germa n Palatines, members of the Reformed Church. The present church was built in 1871 and a major renovation took place in 1960 and the exterior was refurbished in 1973. —(Marie Genthner, Saugerties.)

to land at Rhinecliff and ferry across the river because there was no suitable landing dock. A landing wam conceived,probably by S.D. Coykendall, and passengers bound for the Catskill Mountains could leave the boat and board the train. An attractive park under the direction of Downing Vaux was created which became a favorite entertainment spot with dance hall, merry-go-round, band concerts. As the era of the steamboats drew to a close, so did the charm of the park. — -(Lois A. Kupec, Kingston.)

Overlook —Overlook Mountain, a familiar silhouette, highest point about 3200 feet above sea level, once occupied by Overlook Mountain House, (closeup view in the foreground); has spectacular views, colors follow the seasons. The first Mountain House was built in 1871 and the last was never finished or occupied. There were three houses altogether. The house which burned in 1925 was a three-story frame building with a capacity for 300 guests; among the famous were General Grant and Chester A Arthur —(Winifred D West, Woodstock.)

Old Dutch Church — Organized in 1659, Old Dutch, is one of the oldest churches on the American continent. Several previous buildings were victims of burnings by the Indians and British. The present bluestone church was designed by Minard LeFever and built in 1852. Memorabilia of four centuries is found in the church. In the surrounding churchyard are graves of early church members and Gov. George Clinton, first governor of New York State. —(Marie Mayes, Kingston.)

Horse Drawn Fire Engine — In the early settlements, people formed bucket brigades at the times of fires. Following the disastrous 1666 fire in London when 13,000 buildings were destroyed, Englishmen began to develop better fire fighting equipment. By the mid-1800's the heavy equipment for steam-driven pumping engines was drawn by horses. —(Gail Hilsenbeck, Knipplebush.)

surrounded by high mountains. A walk along a ridge of Panther Mountain will bring one to an abandoned orchard shown in the block. — -(Jan Evers).

Ice Harvesting — By the early 1850's, ice harvesting had become an efficient and necessary industry. The ice blocks were stored in sawdust in the ice houses until summer when it was transported by barge to the consumers. By the early 1900's the natural ice industry declined with the increase in manufacured plant ice. — (Jacqueline Sittner, Kingston.)

Stone Ridge Library — The building is a typical Dutch quarried stone house built by Edward Lounsbury about 1770. Julia H. Dwight presented the old stone house to the community in 1909 to be used as a free library in memory of her parents. — -(Rosemarie M. Raymond, Stone Ridge.)

Esopus Indians — Native American life in this area dates back many thousands of years. The Esopus, who lived in the Kingston New Paltz area, constituted a branch of the Algonquin Nation and dwelt near the Hudson in huts made of bent wooden poles and bark covering. The slow disintegration of the Esopus (whose name means "river") began in the 17th century with the influx of European settlers.— -(Barbara Fiorentino, New Paltz.)

Henry Hudson - Half Moon — It was in 1609 that Henry Hudson and his crew of English and Dutch Sailors aboard the small Dutch yacht, the Half Moon, encountered the Hudson river with its autumn foliage and fertile land. The Half Moon sailed 150 miles up to a point near Albany . Hudson told only of a friendly and peaceful people who traded furs, tobacco and corn cakes with his crew. — -(Linda Culver).

House during the occupation of Hurley by the Continental Army in the Revolutionary War. Lt. Daniel Taylor, British spy, was confined to this house and hanged in Hurley on Oct. 19, 1777. — (Sharon Finch, Kingston)

Huguenot Street, New Paltz — In 1678 New Paltz was settled by 12 French Huguenot families. The famous stone houses along the street include the recently completed replica of the French Church of 1717. — (Marie Collins, New Paltz.)

The Senate House Kitchen — Original kitchen was a frame building separated from the main portion of the house The present kitchen was added in 1890 and the utensils and furniture were those used by early settlers — (Kathleen Baxter, Kingston.)

Esopus Meadows Lighthouse — Aids to navigation started with the Indians, followed by lamplighters and the building of lighthouses started in 1829. The Esopus Meadows light was built in 1839 and closed in 1965 for reasons of economy. At that time an automatic daylight sensor was installed to work the light automatically. In 1975, the light was removed from the structure and is on a single pipe mast. — (Chris Kirk, Kingston.)

Maverick Concert Hall — Maverick Concert Hall, Woodstock, was built in 1916 and has been in use every summer since as a music shed for chamber music performances. — (Josette Ebbs, Woodstock.)

Unemployed Laurence Salomon scans one of his colored slides collected during two trips to South Africa. His collection of more than 25,000 slides was an invaluable teaching tool during the years he was on the African studies faculty at the State University Collegs at New Paltz.

'A Prophet Is Without Honor in his Own Country'

Article by phased out New Paltz African Studies teacher hits local news stands Tuesday.

NEW PALTZ — Laurence Salomon is in a position to appreciate the saying: "A prophet is without honor in his own country."

Phased out of his teaching position at the State University College at New Paltz and currently drawing unemployment checks, he will see his 4,200-word article, "South Africa in Our Future," featured as the cover story in the National Review which is slated to hit local news stands Sept. 28. (Tuesday.)

Salomon attracted attention in April when he spent a night in a sleeping bag outside the New Paltz administration building protesting the dismissal of seven untenured teachers in the African Studies Department. All it netted him was a head cold and a stone wall of silence from the office of Dr. Stanley Coffman Jr., the college president.

Salomon is concerned over the decision to eliminate African studies from the New Paltz curriculum and dismiss the seven faculty members.

"The (present) administration has not supported the investment of previous administrations in African studies," he said. "Even after it was cut back we had the largest program in the State University system, and our library was the largest, too."

Also idled by the decision to cut African affairs was Salomon's collection of 25,000 colored slides, gathered in two trips he took to Africa. Believed to be the largest collection on South Africa in the world, it was an invaluable teaching aid.

Salomon traces the decline of the African studies program to a decision removing it from the required list of studies for all students at the New Paltz campus. At one time the department taught an introductory course in African studies to more than 800 students each year.

The decision to eliminate African studies also affected several school districts which used the New Paltz facilities. A course in Asian-African studies is required in ninth grade social studies courses, and the slide collection, library and faculty expertise were valuable teachimg aids, Salomon believes.

A student who moved to Coney Island from the New Paltz school district even came back for a summer course in African studies, Salomon said.

"The administration didn't know that the African studies program at New Paltz was unique in the State University system," Salomon said. "They didn't know how many graduate students we had. And there was no coordination with the central (SUNY) administration in Albany."

Salomon has a cosmopolitan background that enables him to put South African affairs in proper perspective. Born in Germany in 1933, he fled with his family to England in 1939, living in Wales until 1946. He came to New York City, attended elementary and high schools there, and graduated from City College of New York with a bachelor of arts degree.

Salomon received his master's degree in African studies from the African Center at Boston University with the help of a Ford Foundation grant and then received a Foreign Area Training Fellowship that sent him to South Africa in 1958 for 27 months. He learned the Afrikaan language and was an observer on both sides in ths dispute between Afrikaans- and English-speaking whites then going on.

He returned to Boston University and received his doctorate in 962, then spent four years teaching mathematics in a junior high school in Harlem.

He taught history at Western State College in Gunnison, Colo., for a year and left when offered a position on the African studies faculty at New Paltz, where he remained until his dismissal Aug. 31.

"I was reluctant to leave Colorado, but they had new African studies Facilities at Nsw Paltz and I couldn't turn it down," he said.

Salomon feels the decision to downgrade African studies comes at a particularly critical time, with South Africa embroiled in racial troubles. Especially since ths country has atomic capabilities and will soon begin work on a prototype uranium processing plant near Pretoria.

"Once South Africa has atomic weapons, it will be in a position to defy its enemies— and its friends," he notes in his National Review article. "That it has the will to inflict and endure nuclear holocaust is in as little doubt as that of any of the other nuclear powers."

The problems of accommodating three hostile and differing groups, African, Afrikaans and English, will not be easily solved, he believes. Throw in the nuclear capability and you have a situation that could have worldwide repercussions involving the major powers.

Meanwhile, Salomon has more than enough problems of his own, with a wife and two children to support and no job in sight.

College Is NOT for Everybody

DEAR ABBY: Our middle son, Andy, is a very intelligent young man of 19. He went to college for one year just to please us, then he quit, saying, "I don't want to waste any more of my time and your money."

His grades were fine, but he says he prefers working with his hands. He's now enrolled in a trade school and we're so disappointed in him!

I'm not putting down people who work with their hands, Abby, but it seems to me that people who work with their hands do so because they aren't smart enough to work with their minds.

Andy's father is a professional man, and both of Andy's brothers plan to enter professions.

Please say in your column that a college degree is absolutely necessary these days. After Andy graduates from college he can do anything he chooses, but we desperately want him to have a college degree first. Thank you —ANDY'S MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: I disagree. College is NOT for everybody. If Andy prefers to work with his hands, that's what he should do.

It's not true that people work with their hands because they aren't smart enough to work with their minds. Some handwork requires more skill, talent and know-how than many professions. You do your son a tremendous disservice by telling him he's "disappointed you" and urging him to go to college. Change your tune.

DEAR ABBY. A friend of mine was married for 22 years when her husband died. Two years later she married another man. That marriage lasted just about a year and ended in divorce.

She calls herself a widow now. In as much as her most current status was that of a divorcee, shouldn't she be calling herself a divorcee instead of a widow?—A FRIEND.

DEAR FRIEND: Technically she's a divorcee, but if she wants to call herself a widow, it's all right with me.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope.

THE REMAINS — A CAP volunteer inspects the charred landing hear of a private jet which crashed in a dense fog near Hot Springs, Va., Sunday, killing all 11 persons on board. The plane, owned by Johnson & Johnson Co., was carrying company executives to a meeting at Hot Springs.

Two Plane Crashes In Dense Fogs Kill 26

By UPI

An Air Force tanker slammed into a wooded area of Michigan's Upper Peninusla Sunday, killing 15 of the 20 men aboard, and an executive jet crashed near a Hot Springs, Va., airfield, killing all 11 persons aboard.

The two crashes were among seven weekend air accidents that killed 42 persons and injured half a dozen.

Six of the accidents occurred Sunday and accounted for 38 of the deaths.

An Air Force KC135 tanker, carrying 15 passengers and a crew of five on a routine training flight from K.I. Sawyer Air Force base in Michigan's Upper Peninsula to Offutt Air Force base in Nebraska, crashed in fog into a densely wooded swamp area near Alpena, Mich.

The fuselage gouged a 100foot crater in the ground and wreckage was strewn along a 50-yard wide path for more than half a mile.

Fifteen of the 20 occupants of the plane were killed. Four of the five survivors were in serious but stable condition and the fifth in good condition.

"It (the plane) suddenly started to go down," Elmer Liske, a Hubbard Lake farmer, who saw the plane flying over low Sunday morning, said. "It blew up, and I saw a big ball of fire, and then it exploded several more times."

Air Force officials said it will take at least a week and possibly several months to determine the cause of the crash.

A Grumman Gulfstream executive jet went down 500 yards short of a resort hotel airfield near Hot Springs, Va., Sunday with 11 persons aboard. The plane was making an instrument approach in bad weather. There were no survivors.

The Civil Air Patrol said rough terrain hampered attempts to recover the bodies.

A single-engine Cessna crashed into the Illinois River at the northeast edge of Peoria, Ill., Sunday, killing all three occupants. The plane crashed shortly after taking off from Mount Hawley Airport near Peoria. Investigators said the plane was shattered on impact with the water and the wreckage was mostly submerged.

Two men flying a single-engine Korean War trainer in an air show were killed Sunday when the craft crashed near the airport at Beatrice, Neb. Officials said the two were flying the plane at low altitude for the benefit of spectators when the crash occurred.

A stunt man was killed Sunday when the experimental plane in which he was riding crashed during an air show at the Shenandoah Valley Airport near Harrisonburg, Va.

In a Saturday night mishap, four men were killed minutes after their twin-engine plane took off from a field near Kent, Wash. Only one of the five persons aboard survived.

A twin-engine airplane crashed and burned shortly after takeoff at Steamboat Springs, Colo., Sunday, killing all six persons aboard. Witnesses said a door of the private plane flew open just after it took off from Steamboat Springs Airport. It then nosedived into the ground and burned.

Future Leaders From Gang

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — A man who helped turn a ghetto youth gang from street fights to social projects says future leaders of Hartford probably will come from their ranks.

"There are only about 300 of them, but they influence about 3,000 kids in the city. If Hartford's future leaders don't come from this group, I don't know where they will come from," John Wardlaw said.

Wardlaw heads a two-year-old pretrial diversion program called Community Resources for Justice Inc.

DEC Begins Check on Hooker Co. Pollutants

ALBANY (UPI) — A team of experts from the Environmental Conservation Department was to arrive in Niagara Falls today to begin checking on exactly what pollutants the Hooker Chemical Co. may have been dumping into the Nigara River.

The possible illegal dumping of pesticides and solvents considered highly toxic was revealed in a copyrighted story in Sunday's Times-Union newspaper in Albany that said the paper had a confidential department list of suspected pollutants.

In its story, the paper said the department was unsure of what Hooker was putting into the river, perhaps for as long as five years, and that the discharges might be in violation of federal Environmental Protection Agency permits.

Troopers Say State Tied Up Funds

LAKE GEORGE (UPI) — The union representing state troopers says some $700,000 appropriated by the legislature to beef up state police patrols was impounded by the state budget director.

Steven Sleurs, a spokesman for the State Police Benevolent Association, charged Saturday night that Budget Director Peter Goldmark "has told the superintendent that there will not be a school to train 100 new men to go on the road. None of this money will be released to help protect the citizens."

Sleurs spoke at a banquet at which four newsmen received awards for stories detailing the effect of budget cuts on trooper coverage statewide.

Union Label

About 40 per cent of all professionals, not counting those self-employed or managers, are now represented by collective bargaining agents. This compares with 25 per cent of all U.S. workers.

But one group of professionals, scientists and engineers, appear to be bucking the trend. The proportion of unionized engineers and scientists is estimated at only 5 per cent, which hasn't changed much over the last 20 years.

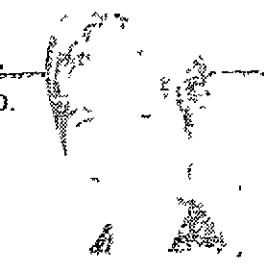
TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.



CAUGHT: (Q.) Well, Mom came home one day and caught Jerry in my bedroom with no shirt, no shoes and no socks on. She figured we were having sex She got very angry, called him a few names, and told him to leave and never come back.

The problem is that I love Jerry very much, and Mom has taken my car and refuses to give it back until Jerry and I are no longer seeing each other. I've tried talking to her, but she won't reason with me I need some advice desperately. Please help me We're both 16 and plan on getting married in two years — Deprived in Indiana

(A.) If I had a clear explanation of what Jerry was doing in your bedroom barefoot and shirtless, I might understand better. But you don't explain.

Maybe you haven't given your mother a satisfactory explanation either. From the evidence you have given me, she is justified in being stern.

Maybe you are holding back some facts. If so, tell her everything. Then, if what she suspects is true, tell her that you have learned from what happened and that it won't happen again. Then ask her to trust you.

Also, keep Jerry out of your bedroom.

OR ELSE (Q.) My boyfriend wants to get married right after graduation I don't — I want to go to college He says if we don't get married, he'll never speak to me again

I love him very much What should I do? — 18 in Pennsylvania

(A.) A girl who does not want to get married — no matter what her reasons — should not get married. It's that simple.

If your boyfriend cannot accept your feelings in this matter, let him go Do not let him force you to do something you think is wrong for you.

(Have a problem? Write to Dr Jean Adams care of this newspaper, P O Box 2402, Houston Texas 77001 Every letter is read but because of the great number received Dr Adams cannot send personal replies)

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

© 1976 Los Angeles Times

by Alfred Sheinwold

Sometimes the best way to indicate your strength is to know your weakness. This looks like doubletalk, but it really makes good sense in bridge.

Opening lead — ♡ J

West leads the jack of hearts, and East must show his heart weakness by playing the deuce. Very simple, so far.

South leads the king of diamonds, West plays low, and East begins a signal with the six. South leads the queen of diamonds, and West plays low again. East completes his signal by playing the deuce.

South leads a third diamond, and West takes the ace.

How can East show his spade strength? The simplest way is to discard a high spade, such as the ten. This is simple, but it allows South to make the contract. East can get only three spade tricks, since South's eight becomes established if East throws away one of his high spades.

CLUB DISCARD

Since East cannot afford to throw a high spade, he must discard the deuce of clubs. This shows East's weakness in clubs after he has already made it clear that he is weak also in hearts and diamonds.

Since only one suit is left, West must lead it and hope for the best. The switch to spades give East five tricks, defeating the contract with a trick to spare.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: ♠AQ1092 ♡642 ◇62 ♣J42. What do you say?

ANSWER. Bid two spades. If partner has good spades and 17 or 18 points, he will raise to three spades. If he has less, he will pass and you will be in a safe part score contract

REHABILITATION — Patty Hearst began serving a seven year sentence for armed bank robbery at the Federal Youth Center, a minimum security institution which concentrates on young and first offenders in Pleasanton, Calif. The facility houses both male and female offenders in a campus-like environment without bars.

Miss Hearst Begins Serving Time

Sentence Shakes Patty

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Patricia Hearst's seven-year sentence on bank robbery charges may turn her into a reluctant grand jury witness against Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris, according to her lawyers.

Al Johnson, one of the newspaper heiress' attorneys, said of the sentence: "It has shaken her confidence in the judicial system, with which she has been cooperating."

Miss Hearst, 22, was expected to be a lead-off witness before the Alameda County Grand Jury today when it begins receiving evidence on the role of the Harrises in her kidnap from a Berkeley, Calif., apartment in February 1974.

Miss Hearst, daughter of San Francisco Examiner President Randolph A. Hearst, was sentenced Friday by U.S. District Court Judge William H Orrick for her role in an SLA holdup at a San Francisco branch bank 10 weeks after she was kidnaped.

Harris and his wife in a 19count police complaint were charged with being involved in the abduction. They were to appear in Municipal Court on Oct. 7 for a preliminary hearing on the complaint. However, a grand jury indictment would immediately move the case into Superior Court.

F Lee Bailey, Miss Hearst's chief attorney, said in a motion for bail pending appeal of her robbery conviction·

"Imprisonment of the defendant would result in a substantial loss of effectiveness of the defendant in providing testimony in ancillary criminal proceedings and her ability to provide such testimony would be severely restricted."

Harris was named as one of the men who invaded Miss Hearst's apartment the night of the kidnap. His wife allegedly drove one of the getaway cars.

Miss Hearst's family and attorneys had expected Orrick to give her a lighter sentence, particularly because she has been cooperating with government investigators.

Johnson also pointed out that the sentence was "not consistent with many of the recommendations made by the psychologists at the San Diego federal facility where she had been evaluated."

In Los Angeles the Harrises were sentenced to 11 years in state prison for a gun battle and kidnap at an Inglewood sporting goods store Miss Hearst still has to stand trial on the same charges.

White Extremist Marchers Arrested in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Using a law designed to curb black unrest, police arrested 36 white extremists for marching on Premier John Vorster's official residence in Pretoria to protest the American plan for black majority rule in Rhodesia.

Those arrested Sunday were among 120 demonstrators belonging to the ultraconservative Herstigte Nasionale Party, which is dedicated to white supremacy.

They were to appear in court in Pretoria today to face charges of holding an illegal meeting, trespassing, and disturbing the peace, police said.

The demonstrators stormed the Vorster residence after hearing a church sermon on the betrayal of Christ by Judas. They demanded to see the man who had "betrayed" Rhodesia in what they claimed was a "sellout."

South Africa's highest ranking police officers, Gen. Gert Prinsloo and Maj Gen Mike Geldenhuys, were called in to control the crowd that marched to within 50 yards of Vorster's front door. Seven police trucks and four police dogs also were brought in.

Vorster, who last week mediated in the U S -negotiated plan for black majority rule in Rhodesia, declined to come to the door.

Prinsloo warned the protesters they had defied the ban on open-air meetings that was introduced after anti-government violence flared 14 weeks ago in the all-black township of Soweto, 15 miles southwest of Johannesburg.

At least 376 persons have been killed in nationwide rioting since the June 16 uprising.

The protesters ignored Prinsloo's warning to disperse and regrouped to sing South Africa's national anthem. Police then moved in, arresting 36 persons, including deputy party leader Jaap Marais.

Black antigovernment unrest also flared briefly during the weekend. In Guguletu, an all black township skirting the southern port city of Cape Town, about 300 school children stoned police. They also set a bus on fire. In another incident, 20 black school children stoned a bus.

Christian Snipers Fire On Beirut Buffer Zone

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian snipers today opened fire on the buffer zone between Christian and Moslem Beirut, preventing President Elias Sarkis from meeting with Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat and other leftist leaders.

At least 78 persons have died since Sunday in heavy fighting in the suburbs and in downtown Beirut, according to militia and hospital counts.

The heavy sniper fire from the Christian side today raked the treacherous buffer zone around the National Museum where Sarkis has set up temporary offices to meet with leftist leaders.

The leftists and Palestinians cannot travel to the presidential palace at Baabda, deep inside Christian-held territory.

Sarkis met there Sunday with leftist chieftain Kamal Jumblatt, whose motorcade reportedly came under Christian fire as it left the museum, touching off an artillery duel between rightists and leftists

Three Syrians Hanged

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Three pro-Palestinian terrorists, who shot their way into a downtown luxury hotel, took 90 hostages, and held off police for four hours with a barrage of machine-gun fire, were hanged today in a public ceremony outside the same building.

The three were captured — and their leader was killed — by Syrian troops, who stormed the internationally known Samiramis Hotel, Sunday. Damascus Radio said four hostages died during the gunbattle and another 34 persons, including four Americans, were injured.

Unofficial reports said police and troops also suffered casualties.

The three captured guerrillas, two carrying Jordanian passports and one with Iraqi papers, said on Syrian television Sunday night they were members of the Al Fatah Palestinian guerrilla group — the largest under the Palestine Liberation Organization

The guerrillas said their main objective had been to force Syrian authorities to release 33 persons held on bombing and other terrorism charges stemming from a series of recent attacks on movie theaters, shops and government buildings.

"We had specific instructions to kill the hostages and blow up the hotel if our demands were not met," one of the guerrillas said. They said they had received training in Baghdad.

Damascus Radio said they were charged with "crimes against the security and integrity of our people" and the verdict of death by hanging — outside the same building they had invaded less than 24 hours earlier — was approved by President Hafez Assad

Hundreds of Damascus citizens who learned about the hangings from an early morning broadcast went to see the dead terrorists. Government sources said the bodies would remain hanging on the gallows until mid-morning

In a statement broadcast early today, Assad criticized the "behavior of some Palestine Liberation Organization leaders whose main concern is to attack Syria."

Syria and the PLO have been battling in Lebanon since last spring, when Damascus sent 15,000 troops across the border into Lebanon in an effort to halt that country's civil war

Syrian officials said the dead hostages at the hotel included a Turkish couple whose young child escaped unharmed, and two women — one Arabic and one a "foreigner."

It was not clear if they were slain in the initial guerrilla raid or caught in the crossfire that followed.

The officials said of the 34 injured, 13 were hospitalized and 21 were treated for minor wounds and released.

They refused to identify the four Americans who were slightly injured, except to say one was working for the Syrian government and the other was a journalist.
